U.S. Insists Peace Near; Reds Hit Nixon

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The United States told the Vietnamese Communists today in Paris that "peace is near." But it insisted one more negotiating session is needed to wrapup remaining issues before a cease-fire agreement can be signed.

The Communists for their part insisted that no more talks are necessary and again accused the Nixon administration of "bad faith" for failing to sign on the Oct. 31 deadline they had set.

It was clear the four Paris delegations had no meeting of the minds today but they agreed to meet again in a week. Their statements appeared to indicate a cease-fire settlement may not be as close as had been assumed a week ago.

The South Vietnamese said the main road block as far as Saigon is concerned is the presence of 14 North Vietnamese army divisions in the South. In fact, they said, Saigon will not agree to a cease-fire until they are withdrawn.

The sharply conflicting positions emerged starkly from the 165th and latest session of the marathon Vietnam peace talks —the first held since Hanoi a week ago suddenly published the terms of a draft cease-fire settlement worked out in years of secret talks with Henry A. Kissinger.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter, the chief U.S. negotiator in Paris, issued a low key statement at today's talks repeating the U.S. position that "peace is near" but that outstanding differences must be eliminated without excessive haste.

U.S. delegation spokesman David Lamberson said Washington stands by last week's statement by Kissinger that remaining difficulties can be settled quickly.

Asked about the apparent conflict between the Saigon and U.S. positions, Lamberson said, "We stand by Prof. Kissinger's statement that only one more session is needed with Le Duc Tho (the Hanoi negotiator)."

Lamberson refused to confirm or deny reports of a new meeting soon between Kissinger and Le Duc Tho. Kissinger left it up to the North Vietnamese to name the place and time of the meeting but there has been no public response from Hanoi.

Kissinger himself attended a National Day party at the South Vietnamese Embassy in Washington Wednesday night but would not comment on his efforts to obtain a cease-fire in Vietnam.

"Much has been accomplished," Porter said. "We believe that peace, therefore, is near." But he said the "few remaining problems of substance" still have to be settled.

It was after this statement that South Vietnam's Nguyen Xuan Phong warned that a cease-fire agreement is "hardly possible" as far as Saigon is concerned as long as Hanoi keeps 14 army divisions in the South.

Earlier, the two Communist delegations had lashed out at the United States for allegedly delaying the conclusion of a cease-fire, accused the Nixon administration of "bad faith" and said there is nothing more to negotiate about.

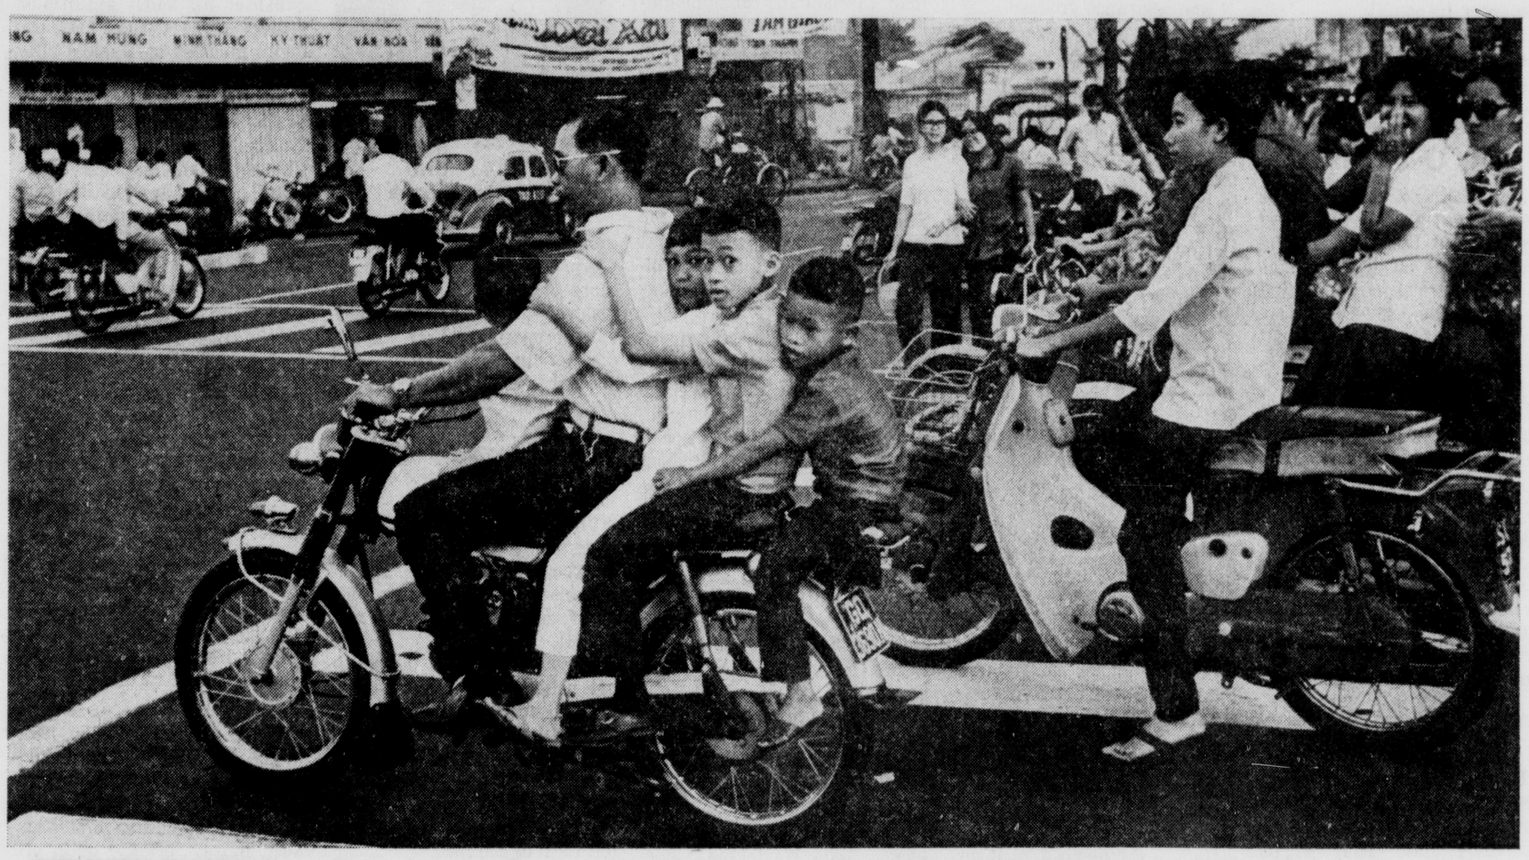

Hanoi Radio continued to exhort its troops and the Viet Cong to fight to final victory. It also claimed that President Nixon had sent the North Vietnamese premier two separate messages last month approving the nine-point ceasefire agreement.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) monitored in Tokyo said Nixon sent messages Oct. 20 and Oct. 22 to North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong agreeing to the accord and proposing Oct. 31 as the day for signing. The radio said the messages were received while Kissinger, who worked out the pact earlier in private talks with Hanoi diplomats, was discussing terms of the settlement in Saigon with President Nguyen Van Thieu.

(In Washington, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said "We're not going to comment on the story because we're not going to discuss the contacts or the contents of our talks with the North Vietnamese").

Campbell Resigns As Member Of Housing Agency

Charges Mismanagement, Waste Of Public Funds By The Authority

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Norman B. Campbell, outspoken member of the Marin County Housing Authority board, resigned yesterday, charging mismanagement and waste of public funds by the agency.

Campbell, a retired carpenter and labor union official, was appointed to the authority board in early 1969 on the recommendation of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs. His term would have expired in January.

Though he was instrumental in the appointment of Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd in 1971, Campbell of late had become disenchanted with Shepherd's management of the agency.

In September, he cast the lone vote against granting Shepherd a $3,200 pay raise, saying he thought there was a "lack of performance" by the executive director.

Campbell's letter of resignation to the board of supervisors cited four areas of fiscal concern and noted he did not wish to be a part of "further waste of public funds."

Among his reasons for resigning, he said, was the agency's "writing off of thousands of dollars of uncollected rents" from some tenants of public housing in Marin City.

He said "sporadic attempts" by the agency to collect had proven it could be done but had not been continued.

"This is further aggravated by the fact that in many instances money has been advanced (to the tenants) by the county social services department for this rent," he said. "Noncollection is not fair to the 250 families that pay their rent and have been grateful for the economic advantage. . ."

Attorney Wants Park-Use Report

By NELS JOHNSON

Robson Trust attorney Robert J. Dreher today asked the San Anselmo City Council to provide him with a complete account of reported political uses of the Robson-Harrington Carriage House.

Dreher said Bank of America, acting as trustee of the Robson estate, yesterday directed him to obtain a complete report of political uses of the carriage house within 10 days.

Dreher in a letter mailed to the city today said he interpreted the will governing use of the park as prohibiting political events or commercial ventures. "If a violation has occurred, there has already been an automatic reversion," he said.

The city has approved at least two political uses of the park — a fund-raiser Saturday for second district supervisorial cnadidate Barbara Boxer and a similar event last summer for former supervisorial candidate William J. Filante, according to Gary Howell, parks director.

Howell said he erred yesterday in reporting the facility had been used for similar purposes by Mrs. Boxer's incumbent opponent, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni. Howell said records showed an Arrigoni committeeman had requested use of the house for a political affair last summer, but that the facility had already been rented.

"I've never used that facility for political purposes," Arrigoni said today.

The 2.65-acre park was willed to the city in 1968 by the late Kernan Robson on condition it be used as a "park and playground only" and that commercial ventures not be allowed.

Dreher said that, at the request of a Robson relative, he had written the city a letter in 1971 specifically prohibiting use of the park for "political or semipolitical purposes."

Howell said the matter was the result of an honest mistake, adding that "99 per cent of the use of that house has been recreational."

He said he had met with parks and recreation commissioners last night and "we all agreed that permission for the Boxer and Filante parties was given because of the vagueness of the will." None of the candidates knew of the requirements of the will, he said.

Howell said a new form devised last month tightens use of the facility by requiricg a renter to list the purpose of an event.

Howell also said he would meet with City Atty. John G.

Blue Collar Bloc Firmly Behind Nixon

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)— Blue collar workers, who represent 40 per cent of the electorate, are largely responsible for President Nixon's 59 to 36 per cent lead over George McGovern, the Gallup Poll indicated today.

But, Gallup said, the group also represented McGovern's best chance for catching up in the final days of the campaign.

"At this stage in the race, McGovern is receiving a smaller percentage of the vote of manual workers than any other Democratic presidential candidate since 1936, when scientific polling was first introduced," the survey said. "Only in the Eisenhower landslide of 1956 did manual workers fail to give the Democratic candidate a majority of their vote."

The survey said that if McGovern were to recieve what has been the average vote accorded Democratic candidates by manual workers in the last 40 years, the currrent race would be closer—54 per cent for Nixon and 46 per cent for McGovern.

The poll was based on interviews with 3,870 registered voters in 300 localities during the first three weeks of October.

The survey showed that while manual workers as a whole favored Nixon, certain segments favored McGovern.

Skilled workers, including electricians, plumbers, and mechanics, were 60 per cent for Nixon compared to 44 per cent for McGovern. But unskilled workers, including assembly line workers and construction laborers, favored McGovern 51 per cent to 41 per cent for Nixon.

Miss Boyd Died Almost Penniless

By MARY LEYDECKER

Louise A. Boyd, who divided her life between a luxurious servant-filled home and adventurous Polar expeditions, died virtually penniless, the Independent-Journal learned yesterday.

The San Rafael-born explorer, hostess of kings and diplomats and patron of the arts, who died in September, had inherited property, including Maple Lawn, her Mission Avenue estate now occupied by the Elks Lodge, from her parents.

Her father, John Franklin Boyd, who had vast land holdings including a 6,000-acre ranch at Danville, got his start in mining in Bodie.

Miss Boyd, whose brothers died as teen-agers in the early 1900s, was heiress to the estate, whose value no one will estimate today.

"There is no property left," a spokesman for a firm which managed Miss Boyd's property for years, said sadly yesterday.

The only reason the estate will be probated, the spokesman said is that there is a "worthless" parcel in El Dorado County, purchased by Miss Boyd's father, which needs a title clearance.

Although no one who knows the story of what happened to the wealth was willing to talk about it, there was agreement that it was all gone when Miss Boyd died at 84 in a San Francisco resthome.

Her estate, Maple Lawn, noted for its manicured gardens, and furnished with antiques, foreign artifacts and memorabilia from her travels, was sold to the Elks Club in 1962 for $350,000. Many furnishings were later sold at auction.

As recently as 1960, Miss Boyd received guests in the Victorian-style house in which she was born, assisted by a dozen servants.

In addition to her role as hostess to the world's renowned along with the less well known, Miss Boyd financed elaborate Arctic expeditions.

In 1928 she chartered the Hobby, a ship she had earlier directed in her first expedition into the Arctic, on a fruitless search in northern waters for missing Norweigian flyer Roald Amundsen.

The Norwegian government had happily accepted Miss Boyd's offer to take the ship at her expense on the search, which took four months.

In all she made eight Arctic excursions, seven with chartered ships and once by a plane.

Miss Boyd was also a generous patron of arts and music and among her charities, she set upan inrrevocable trust now worth about $19,000 for the San Francisco Foundation.

A biographer once described her as "wearing a glamorous gown and gorgeous jewels and furs" at openings of the San Francisco Opera.

The same writer waxed eloquent about entertainments at Maple Lawn, where "the walls of the dining room are decorated with 17th Century Swedish murals and when Miss Boyd entertains at luncheons and dinners, exquisite china is on the long table. . ."

Although none of her financial advisers wanted to be quoted, a San Francisco banker said, "I've always heard she refused to take our advice."

Another friend said, "She was a proud woman. Her friends helped her at the end."

Miss Boyd left no heirs. She once told an interviewer, "I'm a freak. I haven't a living soul in the world."

Although she left no real estate, her memorabilia has gone to the Marin Historical Society, where it will eventually be dispalyed in the building on property given to the City of San Rafael by her parents.

0.2% Price Drop; First In A Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices dropped last month for the first time in a year, thanks mostly to a 2.4 per cent decline in costs for raw food and other farm products, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Labor Department said the overall wholesale price index declined 0.2 per cent in October —its first drop since a 0.1 per cent decrease in October, 1971. That drop had followed a decline of 0.3 per cent in September, 1971.

Lower wholesale food prices were led by a 13.8 per cent decline in egg prices, 11.1 per cent for fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, 7.6 per cent for live poultry and 0.5 per cent for livestock.

Prices of processed meats, poultry and fish went down 1 per cent, but those for processed fruits and vegetables went up 1.4 per cent.

The report showed that industrial commodity prices last month went up a modest 0.1 per cent; consumer-finished food prices declined 1.1 per cent; prices for consumer goods other than food dropped 0.3 per cent, and processed foods and feeds showed no change.

Colleges Enter Redevelop Fight

By PAT PERRY

The Marin Community College District board last night indicated it will take legal action against the Citq of San Rafael if the latter pursues its redevelopment project, claiming the project would divert more than $500,000 from the district. (Another board story, page 5.)

The threat was made with Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino at the board's side and was couched in discreet language.

In a resolution to be presented to Monday night's hearing on San Rafael's redevelopment plans, the board states it will instruct staff to investigate options to prohibit the diversion of educational funds.

Redevelopment projects are financed by allocation of increased tax revenue — obtained through resulting rise in assessed valuation — to pay off the bonds involved. For all other purposes assessed valuation is frozen at pre-redevelopment levels, and it is this freezing of assessed valuation for such agencies as the college district that concerned trustees.

If the proposed redevelopment agency's bond issue of $6 million goes through, the board said, it would divert $540,000 from the college district.

Godino warned trustees that Corte Madera intends to hold a hearing on a similar redevelopment project Monday night, and suggested that since the town was further ahead in its plans, it might be more urgent to protest that town's redevelopment proposals than those of San Rafael.

He will attend Corte Madera's hearing, he said, representing the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District's opposition to the diversion of educational funds.

Pressure Mounts Against Banning New Gas Stations

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors all but threw in the towel yesterday in the face of strong industry opposition to the district's six-day old ban on new gasoline stations. (Another air pollution control story, page 25.)

Both the staff and many directors made a strong case for exempting gas stations from the new system of requiring polluters to get permits from the district.

Only a handful of directors objected to the quick move to lift the ban. Director William R. Jelavich, a Mountain View city councilman, objected that the move "represents sheer panic on the part of this board."

He asked what the board will do when the permit system is extended to heavy industry, suggesting that to cave in to the gas station industry will set a precedent for weakening regulations.

Objections also came from Director Stephen Fraser, A Sausalito city councilman. Exempting gas stations from the permit system is "simply rolling over and playing dead," he declared.

Fraser said that such an action would give "a certain validity" to widespread charges

Reunion At Last

VIENNA (UPI) — Mrs. Gavriel Shapiro chewed her fingernails and drank cup after cup of coffee and could not keep her eyes off the airport runway.

"Oh, God," she said, "I hope he's on that plane," she said.

He was.

Shapiro's arrival was delayed for seven hours by a late Soviet airline flight, but the Russian Jewish engineer made it west yesterday for a reunion with his wife Judy, a 26-year-old native of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The couple had been waiting since their wedding in June for this moment.

The couple planned to stay in a Vienna hotel for about two days, then leave for Israel.

"We must discuss everything," Shapiro said, pulling his weeping wife away from newsmen and well-wishers.

Seal District

BELFAST (UPI) — About 600 British troops sealed off the Roman Catholic Ardoyne district early today in its most concentrated strike against Catholic militants of the illegal Irish Republican Army since troops swept IRA "no-go" areas Aug. 1.

An army spokesman said troops arrested at least six members of the extremist Provisional wing of the IRA. One of them, the spokesman said, was a battalion commander.

PX Profits Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee said today the U.S. military operates what may be the world's biggest retail sales conglomerate with inadequate controls, occasional scandals and excessive profit.

The assessment was made by the House Armed Services subcommittee on the system of subsidized and cut-price post exchanges, commissaries, officers clubs, messes and other such activities which do more than $6 billion a year in trade and employ 300,000 people at bases in the country and abroad.

Among other complaints the subcommittee said liquor is sold on base only by clubs and only to dues-paying members, with profits (about $28 million in 1971) accruing directly to the clubs. It said liquor should be sold in stores to any qualified buyer, with profits assigned to base welfare funds.

Reagan Appointees

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William H. Todd, 52, a Long Beach physician, and attorney H. Roger McPike, 38, San Francisco, were appointed to the state Board of Public Health Wednesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Hold Predictions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan called on the major networks and news agencies yesterday to withhold predictions of final results in next Tuesday's national elections until polls close in the West.

The California Republican said in a telegram that broadcasting such predictions "tends, where polls have not yet closed, to influence many potential voters in their decision to vote or not to vote, much like the weather demonstrably affects the voter turnout."

By the West, Reagan said he meant California, Oregon, Washington, Hawaii and Alaska.

Fuss Over Bones

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Gov. Robert D. Ray yesterday ordered that five Indian skeletons be taken off display at the State Historical Museum, but leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM) still want them back for burial.

Ray ordered the bones to be removed because they were "offensive to at least some people in the state."

The Indians want the bones to be turned over to them so they can be given a proper burial. However, Ray said he couldn't do that because the bones, estimated to be between 800 and 1,000 years old, have significant scientific and historical value and should be saved for study.

A Soviet Test

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) — The Soviet Union tested a "very powerful" nuclear device in the megatone class today in its Siberian testing area, the Uppsala Seismological Institute reported.

The head of the institute called it one of the most powerful tests on record and compared it in strength to the U.S. test at Amchitka a year ago.

$1.7 Million Fight Over Watson Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Tobacco and insurance companies are locked in a $1.7 million battle with real estate interests and farmers over Prop. 14, the Watson initiative to limit property taxes.

Campaign contribution statements on file with the secretary of state's office Wednesday showed that Californians Against Higher Taxes, which is opposed to Prop. 14, raised $644,280, much of it from tobacco and insurance groups.

The proposition would raise taxes on cigarettes and insurance companies.

The Tax Limitation Committee of Los Angeles, which support the measure, has received more than $1 million. The California Real Estate Association gave $210,000 and the California Farm Bureau Federation another $200,000.

The contribution reports also showed supporters of the coastline initiative, Prop. 20, raised $150,291 compared to $899,233 collected to oppose the proposal.

Backers of Prop. 19, which would legalize marijuana smoking, received $119,481 including $19,782 in cash and materials from Amorphia, Inc., of Mill Valley, a cigarette paper company which currently has a non-profit stalus.

The latest reports on file brought to $6.3 million the preliminary total for contributions for and against the 22 propositions on next Tuesday's ballot.

Among the major contributors opposing Prop. 14 were the Tobacco Tax Council of Virginia, $100,000; Title Insurance of Los Angeles, $20,000; the Association of California Life Insurance Companies, $32,584, and the California Teachers Association, $35,000.

On Prop. 20, the Sierra Club in San Francisco raised $66,889 for the measure while the California Coastal Alliance in Woodside received $60,823.

Ezra Pound, Pioneer Of New Literature, Is Dead

VENICE, Italy (UPI) —Poet Ezra Pound is dead at 87, the last and possibly greatest giant of a fabulous literary era which embraced such friends and disciples as Ernest Hemingway, T.S. Eliot, James Joyce, William Butler Yeats, Robert Frost and D.H. Lawrence.

Critics and writers hailed him as a pioneer in reshaping the language of the 20th century English even as they deplored or assailed his political beliefs, a muddled mixture of antisemitism, fascism and fundamentalist economics that caused him to be indicted for treason in World War II, confined to a mental hospital for 13 years and then self-exiled to his beloved Italy.

Pound died Wednesday night in a Venice hospital, 24 hours after doctors admitted him for treatment for an intestinal blockage. His longtime companion, Mrs. Olga Rudge, was at his side.

He died two days after his 87th birthday.

With him died a creative age —of Igor Stravinsky in music, of Frank Lloyd Wright in architecture, of the brooding, bent genius Ezra Pound in literature.

"Mr. Pound is more responsible for the 20th century revolution in poetry than any other individual," Eliot once wrote. Joyce once said that without Pound's help, he would have remained "an unknown drudge."

Pound was the only American poet included in the recently-published New Oxford Book of English Verse.

He shaped the poem which later became Eliot's masterpiece, "The Wasteland," persuaded a publisher to take a chance on a Joyce novel entitled "Ulysses." He discovered Frost, influenced Yeats—Pound was his secretary—and helped gain an audience for poet Ford Madox Ford.

But at his death, Pound was a

EZRA POUND
In 1971 photograph

man without a country, an enigmatic exile forever fixed in many American's minds as a disloyal madman who broadcast propaganda for Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini and spewed messages of hate to Jews.

They were activities which brought him indictment, but never a formal charge, of treason by a U.S. grand jury.

"Somebody said I am the last American living the tragedy of Europe," he said once, recalling his punishment and exile after the holocaust of World War II.

He never recanted the political beliefs which sent him to jail and an insane asylum— St. Elizabeths hospital in Washington, D.C.—for 13 years, until Frost, Hemingway, Eliot and poet Archibald MacLeish convinced Washington to free him to return to Europe.

He returned unrepentant to Italy in 1958, where he greeted newsmen with a stiff-armed Fascist salute and proclaimed: "All America is an insane asylum."

Pound spent the rest of his life in the German-speaking Alpine town of Merano, the home of his daughter, Mary, or in Venice, with occasional trips to Spoleto and the Italian Riviera.

He rarely spoke to outsiders and after suffering a heart attack in 1962, he worked only fitfully on what some critics consider his most ambitious project—"The Cantos," 120 of them, modeled on Dante's "Divine Comedy."

To many, they were incomprehensible combinations of English, French, German, Chinese, mathemataical equations, slang, Jewish dialect, Greek, musical notes and American Deep South dialect.

To others, "The Cantos" were proof Pound could free literature from its traditional forms. Some called them his intellectual diary.

In his most productive years, Pound wrote some of the most inventive poetry of this century and edited the writings of other poets, sharpening them into what critics called masterpieces by proxy.

Pound won dozens of honors, one of them the prestigious Bollingen prize awarded in 1949 by the U.S. Library of Congress. Ironically, he won it while confined in the Washington asylum.

Pound was born Oct. 30, 1885, in Hailey, Idaho, the only child of a civil servant who later rose to assistant assayer in the U.S. Mint. His father also minted his own money briefly until ordered to stop.

Frenchman's Heart Not Bad Enough

STANFORD (AP) — A French bicycle salesman who sold most of his possessions and flew here to obtain a heart transplant has been discharged from Stanford University Medical Center because his present condition does not qualify him for the operation, hospital officials said.

"To be accepted for the program, a patient must be totally or almost totally incapacitated, death must be imminent and no other avenue of therapy open," said a hospital spokesman.

The Frenchman, 39-year-old Marcel Champoussin of Paris, flew here a week ago after he sold almost everything he owned and borrowed money to get the $36,000 needed for the trip and the operation.

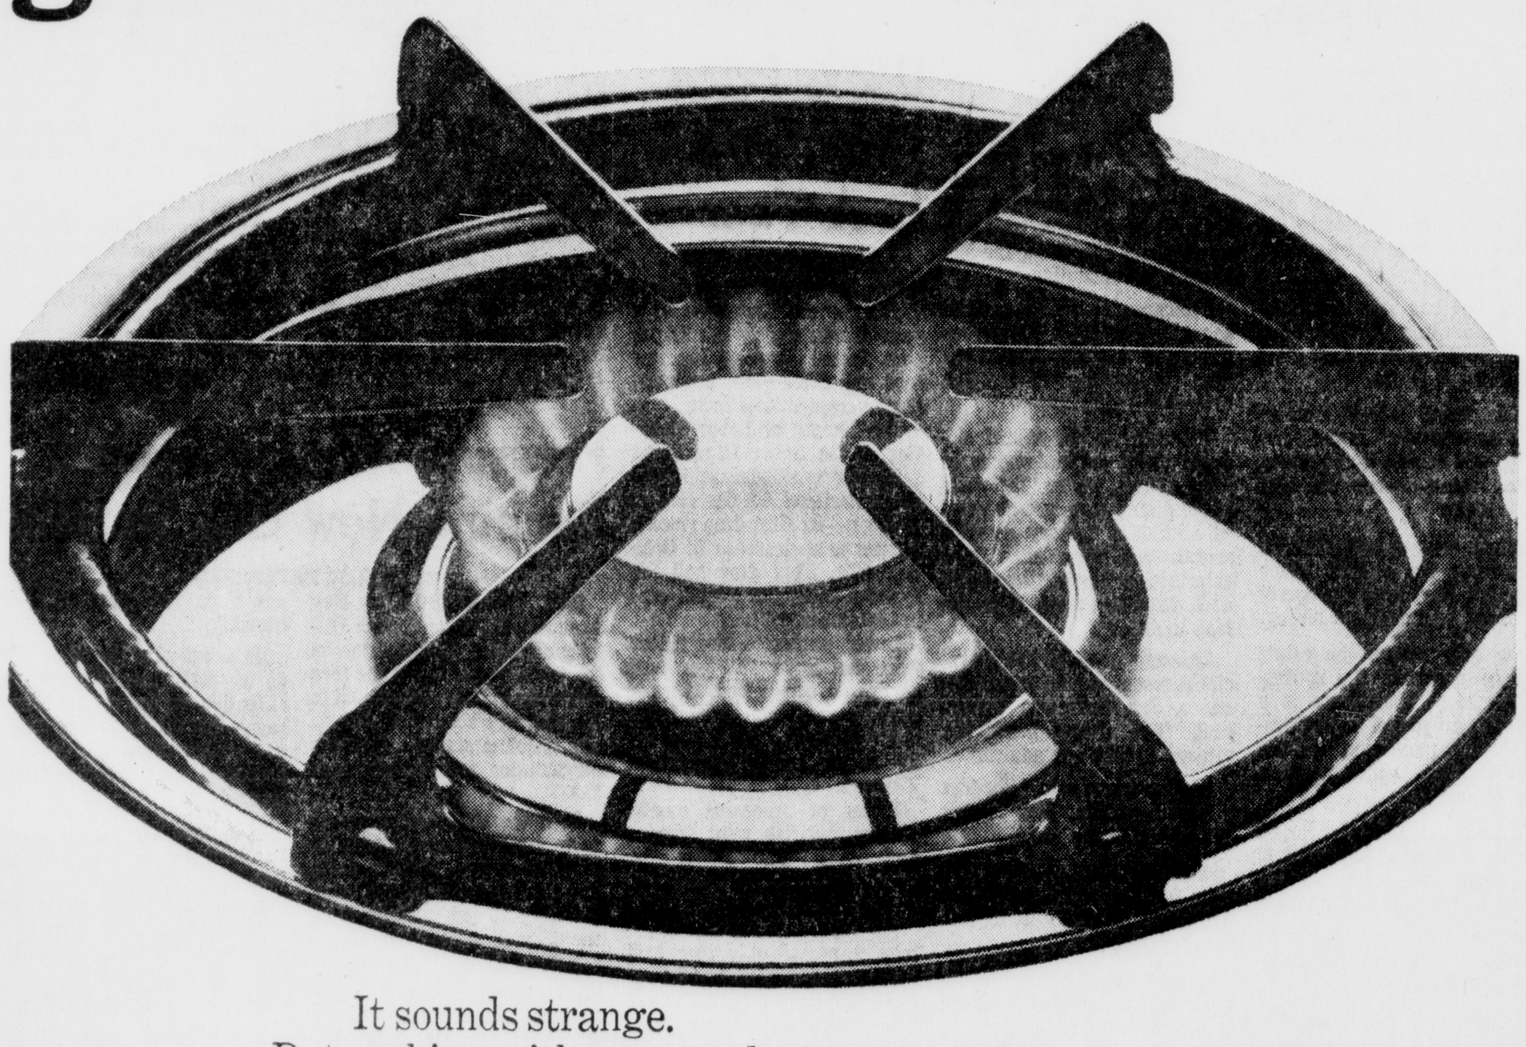

Champoussin turned to the United States because hospitals in Paris told him they had no heart donors.

But doctors at Stanford said yesterday his condition appears quite stable and "it is not clear that a transplant is needed at this time."

The hospital spokesman said Champoussin will remain a candidate for transplantation and will receive appropriate followup at Stanford, which is known for its pioneering in the organ transplant field.

Champoussin said he plans to stay in this country and will visit friends in California for several weeks while maintaining close contact with Stanford. But he speaks no English and, displeased with the publicity his quest has engendered, said he just wanted to rest.

It sounds strange.
But cooking with gas uses less gas than cooking electrically.

WINE NOTES #12

Bourbon Shops are featuring very handsome postcard reproductions of original pen sketches of California wineries done by the Napa Valley artist, Sebastian Titus. These beautiful postcards are reasonably priced at twenty-five cents. Mr. Titus has also produced an exceptional calendar which we have available at three dollars.

We wish to extend a welcome to Sausalito Cellars, a new wine and spirits shop about which many nice things are being said, particularly about their imported wine selection. We are a bit envious about that because we must admit a weakness in imports, but stand by for some interesting changes. Also a welcome to the new Safeway in Northgate One Shopping Center. It is a great location and Safeway will be providing a sorely needed service to the community.

Hope you read Fred Cherry's fine article on the Cabernet tasting. And Charles van Kriedt, of Mill Valley, publisher of the California Wineletter checked in with us about the Bully Hill wine of New York which we feature. Glad he agrees that the Aurora Blanc is the best white wine from New York.

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Walter Taylor of Bully Hill last Tuesday evening. He is a very forceful chap and is intent on making an impact in the California market.

Please don't miss the Parducci 1969 Cabernet Sauvignon which we are featuring as our wine of the month. As a matter of fact, don't miss any of the Parducci wines. We have been so impressed at our tastings of Parducci that we are declaring November Parducci Wine Month. Wonderful, wonderful wines.

The Cabernet represents some of the very best wine made in California. It is made from grapes grown in the Talmage Vineyards, fermented totally dry with acidity at 0.62 grams per 100 cc, alcohol of 12.60% by volume, and bottled July 12, 1972. 1969 was the greatest vintage in the history of Mendocino County and this wine, which is unfiltered and unfined, had three years in the wood.

Several people have asked us what it means when a wine is unfiltered and unfined. Simply put, fining is the addition of an organic substance such as egg white to the cask which attracts suspended particles as it coagulates and settles to the bottom. Fining does not hurt the wine and is helpful in attaining balance and clarity early on. Filtration is a more mechanical process using essentially non organic materials to clarify the wine. Both fining and filtering, although commonly used in the wine world, represent additional handling of the wine. Some winemakers and winedrinkers, myself included, object to handling a wine any more than absolutely necessary. Let nature have her way, we say. What is really important however, is how these two processes affect the quality of the wine. I am convinced that to fine and filter is to remove from a wine ingredients which are extremely critical to the successful ageing and improvement of the wine in the bottle. Wines which have been fined and filtered are often insipid, indifferent, and not long for the bottle. Unfiltered and unfined wines may be a bit less finished after three or four years, but they have guts, character, and an ability to live long in the bottle, and to improve. Too many California wines are without character because they have been messed with too much. The Parducci Cabernet Sauvignon is natural, it has been treated as little as possible, and you may be sure it will be of great character now, and of even more character sophistication and finesses in five or ten, perhaps even fifteen years. What an investment return in both dollar appreciation and quality! You should have this wine for your cellar.

Applications For Funds Accepted

Community Action Marin, the county's economic opportunity council, has announced funding applications for local antipoverty programs will be accepted through the end of the month.

According to Alfred R. Conklin III, executive director of the agency, a screening committee will review the programs for inclusion in the agency's 1973 request for federal funds.

Conklin said the agency expects about $100,000 from the federal government next year for antipoverty programs.

"We are especially encouraging low-income people themselves to band together to design and operate the programs which will meet their needs," Conklin said.

He said groups interested in applying for funds may contact his agency at 1006 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Office Ransacked

A thief who smashed a rear door and pried open a desk drawer left empty-handed after ransacking an office of the Hertz Corp. at 170 Gary Place, San Rafael, on Monday or Tuesday, police reported today.

GAS

that the district is the tool of industry.

But the issue found another traditionally tough environmentalist on the other side. Newark City Councilman Robert T. Plowright, citing the staff's concession that technical justification for banning gas stations was weak, said "we ought to be on a little stronger ground" in the first test of a ban under the permit system.

The issue was not resolved, and a second go at it was set for 10:30 a.m. on Dec. 6, again in district offices at 939 Ellis Street. Several directors said they will move then to exempt gas stations.

Board chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County supervisor, said he was "gratified" to hear the strong objections from industry. "We don't see you very often," he said to the industry spokesmen. "We see the other side all too often," he said of health and environmental groups.

St. Clair cautioned the industry spokesmen that "this is just the beginning. This is a trend that is sweeping the country."

Director Robert W. Hoyer, a Clayton city councilman, assured the industry men that they still could appeal the ban to the district's hearing board. (The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported last week that the only appeal was to the courts.)

The ban was based on federal law that prohibits permits for operations where air contamination already exceeds federal maximums. Gas stations emit hydrocarbons, which cook in the atmosphere into oxidant, a key ingredient in smog.

Federal law bars permits wherever air quality standards are violated — even if only for one hour a year.

The federal maximum for oxidant was exceeded in San Rafael on nine days last year and on six days in Petaluma. The highest was 52 days in Livermore and the lowest was two days in San Francisco.

The case for exempting gas stations from the permit system was made by the district's administrator, D. J. Callaghan. Terming them "insignificant" sources of pollution, he argued that emissions of hydrocarbons from gas stations depend on the number of vehicles in the region, not on the number of gas stations. The amount of gasoline pumped "will remain constant on an annual basis" regardless of the number of gas stations, he said.

Industry's view was given by George A. Navone of Sausalito, who said he spoke for "small commercial developers in the Bay Area." He challenged the district's authority to issue such a ban, and argued that gas station builders should not be affected in any event if they have begun planning new stations.

Also objecting was a spokesman for Phillips Petroleum Co., Edward F. Courtney. Pointing to the likelihood that the permit system will prevent new construction at oil refineries, he objected that this would force unemployment, hurt the nation's balance of payments, increase industry's costs and confront the nation with a crisis if a ban increases dependence on imported oil.

A compromise was offered from the audience by the district's former administrator, Benjamin Linsky. He said methods existed to recapture emissions from gasoline stations, that their use could allow pollution-free new gas stations.

The board's meeting room was jammed with some 125 persons during the discussion on gas stations, many of them from oil companies.

continued, is the "consistent siphoning off of thousands of dollars in attorney's fees for opinions and services that have no necessity and have not been used."

(The housing authority and its sister redevelopment agency have three attorneys and a total legal budget of about $18,000.)

Campbell said the agency's failure to follow through with its move from Marin City to San Rafael represents mismanagement by the staff.

He said the move could have been made as early as July, but is now bogged down in administrative delays "creating an uneconomical and illogical condition."

He also blasted the housing authority board and staff for retracting about $10,000 in retirement benefits promised maintenance employees while shortly thereafter granting Shepherd his $3,200 raise.

The agreed upon benefits, he said, were withdrawn as a means of balancing the agency's $22,000 budget deficit.

Campbell, a former resident of Marin City and twice president of the Marin City Council, recently was reappointed to another term on the county permit appeals board on which he has served about 15 years.

Prior to his retirement in 1965, he was business manager for Carpenters' Local No. 35 of San Rafael.

He has served terms on the county's senior coordinating council, health planning council and Ecumenical Housing Association board.

dent of the board, said trustees hadn't yet found out how much college district money would be involved in Corte Madera's plans.

"They are quite close to making final determination," said Godino, "Perhaps in a couple of weeks. If they can go ahead by the end of the year they can freeze the tax level at the March 1972 rate rather than next year's."

Suggesting that redevelopment proposals were a county-wide problem to school districts, Godino added: "Ross and Belvedere are the only two towns that haven't found blight within their borders."

The board instructed Godino to relay the college district's opposition at the Corte Madera hearing, to request a joint meeting with the town council and to ask the town to provide it with details of its plans.

Wellman said he had planned to accompany superintendent-president John A. Grasham to the San Rafael hearing, but if it turned out to be more important, he would attend Corte Madera's instead.

At Grasham's suggestion, the board scheduled a special meeting for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in room 101 of the science building in case San Rafael should take action on redevelopment Monday night.

Sausalito Sets Special Session

The Sausalito City Council will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. today to consider whether to revoke a building permit it granted last week to Robert H. Greene for a two-story apartment building at 180 Harbor Drive.

City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr said the session was called by three council members who "think the building's design is poor." The council gave Greene the permit last Tuesday after approving an environmental impact study on the project.

PEACE

messages appeared in a lengthy commentary accusing Nixon of using Thieu to stall settlement of the war.

"How can it be that the U.S. President, while sending his messages, was completely in the dark about the talks Mr. Kissinger had in Saigon?" the broadcast said. "Yet now the Nixon administration claims that due to difficulties raised by Nguyen Van Thieu, there must be further negotiations. Is there anybody who can accept such a contention?"

The United States today was reported pressing Hanoi for withdrawal of its troops from South Vietnam as part of the peace pact—although that condition was not included in the nine-point settlement reached by Washington and the Communists.

But Radio Hanoi in a broadcast monitored Wednesday in Saigon warned that any attempt to alter the text that Kissinger worked out "word by word" with Hanoi would crush chances for a cease-fire. The radio said unless the United States "refrains from asking for alterations of the points agreed upon, the agreement can never be signed to end the war and restore peace in Vietnam."

Today's VNA broadcast said: "Mr. Kissinger arrived in Saigon to confer with Nguyen Van Thieu Oct. 18-22, 1972. It was in the same period that President Nixon sent to the DRVN (North Vietnam) prime minister two messages, one dated Oct. 20 and the other Oct. 22, affirming that the U.S. side still considered the text of the agreement to be complete, expressing his satisfaction at the explanations of the DRVN government, and proposing Oct. 31, 1972, as the date for signing."

VNA said Washington "has pretexted difficulties in Saigon in an effort to justify its bad faith. But this is a false pretext that cannot stand. Is there anybody who does not know that the Nguyen Van Thieu puppet administration is an instrument of U.S. aggression and neocolonialism in South Vietnam? Thieu owes his existence to U.S. dollars and bombs. Thieu cannot survive if he does not receive U.S. backing. He cannot on his own oppose the policies and decisions of the United States."

Wednesday, Thieu declared he would never accept a settlement "that offers South Vietnam on a plate to the Communists" and the Communists labeled him "an enraged puppet" whose intransigence was blocking an accord and called again for his ouster.

Buresh for a detailed interpretation of the will.

Dreher hoped to review the city's report on the apparent violations of the will within two weeks and said he would then determine "what steps if any should be taken."

"If it's all an honest mistake, I feel that a court would be inclined to find there was no violation causing reversion," he said. "But should a political event of any kind occur again, it would be a different story."

Mayor Warren R. Perry expressed regret over the matter but said a reversion of the popular park is unlikely. "It is certainly the intention of the council that this will never happen again," he said.

OBITUARIES

George Schilling Of Novato

George Schilling, longtime Novato businessman and philanthropist, died last night in his home in Sonoma following a lengthy illness. He was 78.

Schilling's death means that the Novato Boys Club will inherit full ownership of the Mission Lodge motel at Diablo Avenue and Highway 101 in Novato. The property is valued at $200,000.

Schilling had lived in Sonoma since 1962.

For more than 20 years, he was a partner with the late Henry Meyers in Quality Bakery on Grant Avenue in Novato, and for 15 years he was a partner with Meyers's widow, Clara, in residential development in Novato.

Mrs. Meyers died in July, leaving a half-interest in the motel she built to the boys club and a half-interest to Schilling, provided he outlived her by 150 days. He outlived her by 120 days.

Schilling subsequently said he would leave his share of the motel to the boys club in any event. Friends recalled that he had long been a contributor to Boy Scouts and other youth organizations.

Novato Boys Club officials have said they plan to use profits from the motel's gross income of $40,000 to $50,000 a year to finance operation of the boys club once the clubhouse is built.

Schilling was born in Germany and came to the U.S. in 1917, settling soon afterward in the Novato area. He left no survivors in this country.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated in St. Francis Solano Catholic Church, Sonoma, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, followed by burial in St. Francis Solano Cemetery. The rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Bates Evans and Fehrensen Mortuary, Sonoma.

J. W. HOWLAND

Mass of the Resurrection for John W. Howland, 52, of Bel Marin Keys, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in St. Anthony's Church, Novato.

Howland, of 20 Montego Key, died Tuesday at a local hospital after a two-week illness.

Howland was employed by the Continental Service Co. of San Francisco as an appraiser. A native of Oakland, he had been a resident of Marin for five months.

Howland was a member of the Society of Governmental Appraisers.

Surviving are his wife, Dorothy; five daughters, Lynda, Janice and Wendy Howland of Bel Marin Keys, Judith Schwein of Danville, and Sue Brennan, San Leandro; a son, William Howland of Chico; his father, Irvin Howland of Oakland; four sisters, Lois Chase of Richmond, Doris Simmons of Sacramento, Marion Hawke of Hayward, and Brnice Wehrly of Long Beach, and three grandchildren.

Asians Arrive

NEW YORK (UPI)—One hundred stateless Asians arrive Thursday night at Kennedy Airport from Rome, the first of 1,000 such persons the United States has agreed to receive from Uganda.

Private burial will be held Monday. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

MRS. CLAYWELL

Mildred Main Claywell collapsed and died yesterday at her home in San Rafael, according to Deputy Coroner Donald L. Cornish.

She was found lying on the kitchen floor at 12:30 a.m. and was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. She had a heart condition, Cornish reported.

She was born in San Jose and had lived in San Rafael for 25 years. She was 53.

She is survived by her husband, John W. Claywell Jr., of the home at 36 Eucalyptus Lane; two sons, John B. Claywell of San Jose and Scott D. Claywell of San Rafael; three daughters, Laureen Burley of Santa Clara, Shelley McVey of Novato and Donna Claywell of San Rafael; her parents, Gilbert and Patricia Main of Santa Cruz and one grandchild. Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be private.

FREDERICK JEX

Frederick George Jex father of Thelma M. Gosiger of Corte Madera, died yesterday at his home in Martinez after a short illness. He was 86.

He was a native of England and had lived in Martinez for the past 52 years. He was a former equipment operator at the Tidewater Oil Refinery in Martinez.

He is also survived by a wife, Jane Jex; a daughter, Vivien Hartz of Martinez, and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Connolly and Taylor Chapel, 4000 Alhambra Avenue, Martinez.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the charity of one's choice.

MRS. ARMSTRONG

Mary Ruth Armstrong, 80, died after a long illness yesterday in a local convalescent hospital, where she had been a patient for seven years.

Miss Armstrong, a retired bookkeeper, was born in Logan, Ohio, and had lived all her life in the Midwest until entering the rest home.

Survivors include a sister, Maud Warrington of San Rafael, and a brother, Leo Armstrong of Logan, Ohio.

Private funeral and inurnment were held today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

JEAN SCIUTTO

A Mass of the Resurrection for Jean E. Sciutto of San Rafael will be offered at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at Holy Name of Jesus Church, 39th Avenue and Lawton Street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Sciutto died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 59.

She was born in Aberdeen, Wash. She moved to California 44 years ago. She was a beauty operator in San Francisco prior to moving to San Rafael five years ago.

She was a member of the Sons of Italy and the California Cosmetology Association, Marin Affiliate.

She is uurvived by her husband, Silvio Sciutto of the home at 747 Estancia Way; two sons, Ronald Sciutto and Roger Sciutsisters, Concetta Pasquini of Sonoma and Christine Solari of San Francisco; a brother, Domenic Cervisi of Kentfield, and four grandchildren.

Entombment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

A. CASTELLANI

Angelo Castellani, a 50-year resident of San Rafael, died yesterday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 78.

Castellani worked more than 40 years for Ghilotti Brothers, Inc., contractors. He was a member of the Marin County Laborers Union.

Castellani was a native of Pisa, Italy.

He is survived by his wife, Lupe Castellani, of the home at 165 Glen Park Avenue and by two sisters, Rosa and Teresa Castellani in Italy.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Saturday in St. Raphael's Church, followed by burial in Mount Olivet Cemetery. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary.

No Pay Hike For College Teachers

Part-time instructors at College of Marin and Indian Valley Colleges got no salary raise and no fringe benefits from the Marin Community College District board last night. (Another board story, page 1.)

Declaring that the district already ranked sixth in the state in part-time faculty salaries, the board refused the instructors' request to raise their pay from its present 60 per cent of full-time instructor's pay to 80 per cent.

A motion by trustee Charles R. Best for a raise to 65 per cent of the full-time rate met no support despite pleas from faculty representatives in the audience.

Trustee Francis Compton suggested the question of "overloading" should be investigated. (Full-time teachers are classified as teaching 15 units, and when they teach extra classes, are paid at the part-time rate for the overload.)

She was told that no one had statistics on the amount of overloading.

"I am concerned about it," said Mrs. Compton. "We haven't dealt with it but we know it exists."

Judy Gartman, an instructor, protested the board's refusal to raise part-time salaries.

"This is a teaching institution, that's what it's all about. All of these buildings, all of these grounds, all of this administration, none of this would amount to anything without students and teachers."

The board considered at length a proposal to give part-timers some fringe benefits, paying a share of medical, dental and life insurances. Annual cost to the district would be about $30,000, they were told.

Mrs. Compton moved that the fringe benefits be granted, but no other trustee agreed.

Robert E. Oliver and Martin J. Dean said there was no way of determining whether such teachers were already covered through other jobs.

"People may be teaching full-time at Berkeley and doing a part-time class at College of Marin, and we're adding $200 to their salary," Oliver said.

Dean believed $30,000 was a significant gift of public funds "to people whom we ask to teach a three-unit course."

The board debated inconclusively the idea of granting fringe benefits only to those part-time teachers solely employed by the college, but were told by Michael P. Hansen, retiring president of the Academic Senate, that it would be an illegal form of inequitable compensation.

The 90-minute session ended without action.

Marin Community College Board Also:

INDIANS — Instructed Supt. John A. Grasham to report to its Nov. 15 meeting the way the college administration is handling a request by American Indians that two Native American classes be switched from the anthropology department to the ethnic studies program. The board told Indians who presented the proposal it was sympathetic with the request that the classes be taught by qualified native Americans.

COMPUTER — Announced a legal settlement with Radio Corporation of America of $498,000 over its computer contract. The computer, purchased last year at a cost of $349,951, will go back to RCA, which has gone out of the computer business and had failed to furnish all contracted software and terminals.

SENATE — Were told that Leonard A. Weiss has been elected president of the Academic Senate.

SELECTION — Deferred action on the question of students participating in hiring teachers after Hansen said a faculty referendum on the subject was under way. Results would be available "in a matter of weeks" he said.

RETIREMENT — Accepted the retirement of Harold L. McInerney, custodian, after 14 years with the district.

PLAN — Approved the educational master plan for Indian Valley Colleges.

LEAVE — Granted a personal leave of absence for the spring 1973 and fall 1973 semesters to Edward Douglas, photography instructor.

REPLACEMENT — Hired John E. Palmer Jr. as a temporary replacement for William Howe, engineering instructor, for the spring 1973 semester.

FUNDS — Authorized submitting applications for matching state funds for 1974-75 projects, including construction of science technology classroom laboratories and a library at Indian Valley Colleges.

DATA — Authorized spending an extra $5,000 to $10,000 for soils investigation at the Indian Valley Colleges site after hearing that prelivinary tests had disclosed an earthquake fault that may mean moving one of the buildings 100 feet from its planned site.

DEVELOPMENT — Approved preliminary plans for an electrical distribution system that will cost $31,665, a fire alarm system at $32,436 and a pumping station and drain line at $245,199, all at the Kentfield campus. Also authorized was preparation of working drawings for the three projects plus outdoor physical education facilities.

ARTHITECT — Agreed to pay architects Neptune and Thomas Associates $10,094 for schematic plans for the Indian Valley Colleges theater, physical education buildings and fields. Design work ceased after the failure of the November 1971 bond issue but the district was obligated for work done. The theater is now scheduled for completion in 1979, the physical education addition and field later.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned at 11:30 p.m. to a special meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in room 101 of the science building (or at a date to be announced) only if the City of San Rafael takes action on redevelopment plans. The next regular meeting, on Nov. 15, will start at 7 p.m. with a tour of the new library.

Innocent Plea In Assault Case

A 21-year-old Marin City man charged with trying to rape a hitchhiker has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court. A preliminary hearing for Harold Cook was scheduled for Nov. 10.

Cook was arrested Friday by sheriff's deputies in Marin City an hour after a young woman jumped naked from a car in San Francisco and hailed a passing motorist.

The 18-year-old victim told San Francisco police Cook picked her up in San Rafael, then drove to a San Francisco parking lot where he ordered her to disrobe.

Syria Releases U.S. Officer

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The State Department has reported the release of Maj. Richard H. Barratt, 36, an American military attache assigned to the U.S. embassy in Amman, Jordan, who was arrested in Syria six weeks ago.

A State Department spokesman said Barratt was released to the Italian embassy in Damascus and arrived in Beirut, Lebanon, Tuesday. The spokesman said Barratt was driving through Syrian territory Sept. 20 en route to Beirut to meet his wife and child when he was arrested.

Barratt apparently was in good condition when he was released, officials said, but they said he probably would be returned to Washington for "debriefing and a medical checkup." The officer is from Laramie, Wyo.

Flip Wilson Faces A Paternity Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A Chicago woman sued entertainer Flip Wilson Wednesday, saying he fathered her child.

Mabel Robinson filed suit asking that Wilson be declared the father of her son Joseph and be required to pay medical expenses and support the child, born in May. A hearing was scheduled for next week.

Quarter-Century Of Violence By Hell's Angels Cited In Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California court and police records document a 25-year history of Hell's Angels violence — ranging from bar brawls to murder and arson.

The first of the motorcycle hoodlum clubs was believed organized at Fontana, a Southern California steel mill town, in 1950, a California attorney general's investigation reported.

In the next 10 years, the Hell's Angels motorcycle gangs increasingly confronted law officers with invasions of small California towns.

In Labor Day weekend "runs" on mountain and coastal resort towns they used broken beer bottles and steel chain belts as weapons in brawls with townspeople, the 1965 investigation report said.

The Hell's Angels now have grown into big scale operators in organized crime, said a new attorney general's report made public this week.

They have been identified as a major distributor of narcotics, said Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger.

"The Hell's Angels no longer are merely a group of loosely organized bikers," he said.

A gangster's code of threatening and assaulting witnesses against any accused Hell's Angels member has made court prosecutions difficult, the 1965 state study said.

"In the event the victim is female, the women associates of the Angels seem willing to participate in threats to discourage testimony," the report said.

The study said police throughout California reported that an Angels initiation rite requires a new member to bring to his first meeting a woman "willing to submit to sexual intercourse with each member."

This week the Oakland murder trial of Ralph "Sonny" Barger, 34, former Oakland club president, was halted for one week after the prosecutor said he had withheld potential evidence from the defense "to protect the life" of a newly discovered witness. Defense attorneys demanded the time to study the evidence.

Five Oakland Hell's Angels were arrested last January after two other members were found bound and gagged in the trunk of their car. The five were charged with kidnapping and illegal possession of guns.

Two Oakland Angels were convicted last August of second degree murder in the beating and stomping to death of a man. Trial testimony reported the the victim, a longshoreman, had angered the two Angels with his thumb clasping "power" handshake.

West Marin Hearing On Highway-Widening Plans

The state Division of Highways' controversial plans to widen and realign 12.8 miles of Shoreline Highway between Tamalpais Valley and the Bolinas cutoff north of Stinson Beach will be the subject of a public hearing at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Bolinas community center on Wharf Road.

State Sen. Peter H. Behr, who called for the session, has asked highway officials to present their plans for the two $5.3 million projects and solicit reactions from West Marin residents.

The first project, estimated to cost $3.5 million, would involve widening and realigning approximately nine miles between Northern Avenue in Tamalpais Valley and Stinson Beach.

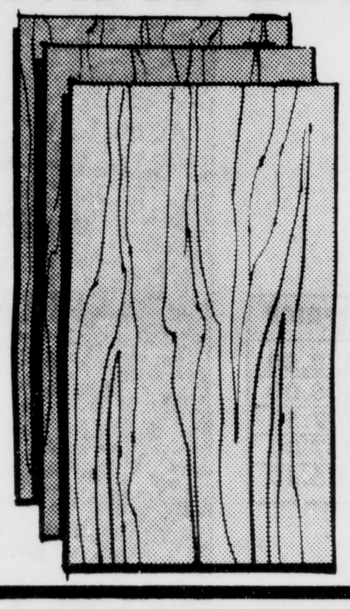

Improvements to the first mile would begin early next year. The total project would take about 10 years to complete and would be done in stages — two miles every two years.

A second project would widen and raise 3.8 miles of roadway adjacent to Bolinas Lagoon and require approximately 15 acres of fill which would extend as far as 35 feet into the main channel at some points.

Portions of the highway in that area also would be elevated to 10 feet above sea level to prevent flooding during high tides and the road would be widened from the present average width of 22 feet to 40 feet.

Beach Access Road Voted —No Parking

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The proposed Sea Ranch development has been approved by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors, but property owners may not have to worry that the decision will turn the beach area into a Coney Island.

While the supervisors yesterday agreed there should be public access to the beach through the new development, they refused to require parking.

That means the nearest parking facilities for the new access road will be seven miles away, making the area difficult for public access.

The Dunlap Act required that an access road be provided for Oceanic Properties' proposed 178-unit condominium development complex on 44 acres on the coastlin between Gualala and Stewart's Point.

But both property owners and Oceanic representatives argued during a two-hour hearing that the act, designed to provide public access through private property to public tidelands, said nothing about parking.

Joseph Rodota, county parks and recreation director, argued, however, that parking was necessary since creation of the new access road would mean a 15.5-mile stretch of Sonoma County coast without public parking.

The board voted to approve rezoning the property for the project, approve the requested use permit and approve a 12-foot-wide access from Highway One to a cliff overlooking the beach.

Panel Discussion Date Moved Up

A panel discussion, "Community," about the lifestyles of Marin County, will be held at College of Marin's Olney Hall on Monday at 7:30 p.m., and not on Tuesday as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The date has been moved forward one day to avoid conflict with election night, according to Marin Association for Mental Health, a sponsor.

Chester Villalba, executive director of the Marin Family Service Agency, will moderate a panel representing various lifestyles.

Spillane Says Book Removed—Politics

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Author Mickey Spillane, creator of Detective Mike Hammer, said Wednesday his book "The Erection Set," was removed from the shelves of the Jacksonville public library for political reasons.

The novel, which features a nude cover picture of Mrs. Spillane, was taken from the shelves after an "anti-smut" committee, headed by a writein legislative candidate, charged that it was hard-core pornography. Spillane said he doesn't write pornography "because it doesn't sell."

United's New Yorkers

When we started the Great Wide Way to New York, we set out to give you the best service there is. Here's some of our newest ways of doing that.

The Morning Banquet: New Yorker Service.

We're giving you a new food service on our 8:30 a.m. 747.

You know, the one that leaves a half hour before the crowd.

And whether you like a big breakfast and a light lunch, or the other way around, we've got you covered. Because here's what's in store. (Just so you can devise the best eating strategy.)

You choose between omelettes or another breakfast entrée. Or for brunch fans, brochette of beef. And naturally, we've got side orders of breakfast meats, too.

But whatever you do, leave room for what's next. Because our New Yorker lunch is a delicious deli spread.

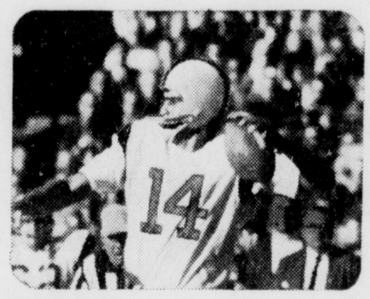

So you can build your own sandwich from trays of lox and bagels and cream cheese. And turkey and corned beef and chopped liver and roast beef and ham. And assorted cheeses and Russian rye bread and pumpernickel and white. (A Mr. Bob Fulton of San Francisco is claiming the record with a six-decker sandwich.)

And since lunch is all buffet, you can eat at your own pace. Or sit still, and our stewardess will serve you.

United's morning New Yorker 747. This could be the best flight you'll ever taste.

Hopefuls Split On Hospital Needs

By BONNIE BARD

Candidates for the Petaluma Hospital District board differed strongly last night on how best to provide hospital facilities in the community.

Seven of eight candidates on the ballot appeared: Dr. Hamza I. Munib and Dr. Francis M. Crinella, incumbents; Brand T. Johnson, Francis E. Burke, Melvin P. Hein, Alfred W. Beatie and Elena Bjorkquist. Three are to be elected Tuesday. Junia Brown has withdrawn her candidacy and did not attend.

A group of 19 persons — made up largely of friends of candidates — heard conflicting views, but little bickering.

Dr. Munib, 50, a surgeon, said medical care in Petaluma would best be served by one fairly large hospital rather than by two smaller hospitals as has been suggested. He said efficiency would be greatly improved along with better equipment and personnel which would be available.

Munib said financial studies have shown the new hospital could be built without tax money and could be financed by operating revenue.

Burke, 50, said his experience as property manager at St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco would be verh useful on the hospital board. He said he worked as project manager during the construction of Hillcrest Hospital from 1957-60 and is familiar with hospital problems.

Burke took no definite stand on the question of one hospital versus two hospitals but called for local control and said the board should seek approval from the voters before spending $4.5 million on the project.

Mrs. Bjorkquist, 29, a housewife and senior at Sonoma State College, said only one large hospital should be built in Petaluma and that it should be publicly owned and operated.

Mrs. Bjorkquist said she opposed plans for a private hospital because a corporation should not make a profit from persons who need medical care. She also called for a more central location of the new hospital and said residents of Rohnert Park, Cotati and Penngrove deserve better service from the district.

Beatie, 68, a retired teacher, said he also favored the one hospital concept. As a resident of Penngrove, he also called for a better location to serve residents in cities north of Petaluma.

Beatie said he didn't have all the answers to questions about hospital expansion, but would be willing to listen and learn.

Crinella, 35, a psychologist in private practice and at Sonoma State Hospital, said the medical consumer could not afford two hospitals in Petaluma. He said that while he was sentimental about Hillcrest Hospital on Petaluma's western edge, he favored a more central location.

Crinella cited reports prepared by consultants and said he believed the present board had made the right moves to improve medical care in te district.

Johnson, 69, a retired teacher, vigorously opposed the one hospital plan and said he was upset with the present board for not getting voter approval before agreeing on plans for a new hospital.

He said Hillcrest should be expanded on its present site when necessary and opposed a proposal for the district to affiliate with Pacific Medical Center of San Francisco for hospital management. Johnson said he also believed that "exotic" medical equipment shold be left to large hospitals, like those in San Rafael and Santa Rosa.

Hein, 64, manager of Hein Brothers Rock Co., also supported the two hospital plan and said Hillcrest should remain as it is with private enterprise building the second hospital in east Petaluma. He said the board has failed to consult voters on the issue and would merely be exporting local money by affiliating with the large medical center.

Hein said the $30,000 spent on consulting firms for the new hospital could have been better spent in improvements at Hillcrest.

Yorty May Form Trade Mission

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Sam Yorty said Wednesday the State Department has asked him to organize a trade mission to Southeast Asia after a cease-fire there.

The mission, which would not leave until some time next year, would include about 20 Southern California businessmen and touch South Vietnam, Thailand, Laos, Indonesia, The Philippines, Malaysia, Singapore and Brunei, he said.

Nevada Fetes 108th Birthday

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada celebrated its 108th birthday Tuesday with a parade that included a live cattle drive and drew more spectators than there are residents in this capitol city.

The crowd lining the main street of Carson City for the two-hour parade was estimated at 25,000 although there are only 15,500 residents in the city.

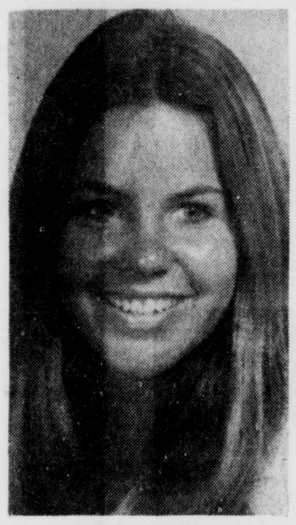

The live cattle drive went without incident but two ponies, frightened by a firecracker, caused some commotion. One woman was knocked from a wagon and the galloping ponies scattered members of a band. No one was seriously injured.

Six In Running For Catholic High Queen

Six seniors are competing for homecoming queen at Marin Catholic High School, and one will be crowned at halftime of the football game Saturday and the dance that night.

The student body prepared a list of candidates, from which the football squad selected six finalists. The student body will vote on them during lunch tomorrow.

At half-time, the girls will be handed boxes of a dozen roses. Five of these will be the same color and the box with a different colored rose will be the queen, and the others will be princesses according to Director of Student Activities William Isetta.

The football game will be at 2 p.m. against San Marin High School of Novato. The dance will be from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the gymnasium with music furnished by the band, Clover.

Finalists are:

Beverly Anthony, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Anthony of 1233 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo.

Lori Bonfiglio, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bonfiglio of 323 Irwin Street, SanRafael.

Mimi Latno, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Latno of 67 Convent Court, San Rafael.

Lori Lucia, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Lucia of 74 Meadow Road, Mill Valley.

Kadie Parnow, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Parnow of 60 Balboa Avenue, San Rafael.

Sheree White, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. White of 588 Wakerobin Lane, San Rafael.

Alumni from the class of 1967 will be welcomed to the homecoming.

Butz Sees Brighter Days For Farmers

CLOVIS, N.M. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Wednesday the Nixon administration had reduced the number of farmers leaving the farm for big city living.

Butz, on a campaign tour of New Mexico, met with farmers and ranchers in Clovis, predicting brighter days for America's farmers under the Nixon administration.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS

By Ken Reichard

WHEN TO USE YOUR FLASH

What do you do when there's not enough light indoors or outdoors to take a clear, bright picture? You use the flash ... You can use the simplest flash camera to take good pictures ... Indoors or outdoors.

Outdoors, flash is useful in brightening up pictures taken on dull days or in the shade ...

Here are a few tips to remember when using your flash ...

For flash pictures, see that the batteries are in good condition.

Do not take flash pictures at greater distance than recommended for your camera ... The maximum distance is generally about nine feet ... However, a good rule to follow is between (4 and 9 feet).

Get as close to your subject as you can ... but not closer than the minimum recommended distance which is usually about four feet.

If your camera does not prevent accidental double-exposures, form the habit of advancing the film immediately after each exposure.

Keep the lens sparkling clean.

Don't shoot fast-moving subjects ...

And folks ... we mean it when we say we want to help you with your photo problems ... Come in anytime ... as you know, we carry a complete line of the best in photo supplies.

Hub Council Opposed To Expanding Thoroughfares

By NELS JOHNSON

The San Anselmo City Council last night unanimously opposed widening city thoroughfares as proposed in the countywide general plan amid assurances by county planners that the plan would have no radical effect on the city.

The hearing before a joint session of the city council and planning commission was the second in a series planned for various Marin communities.

Although no formal vote was taken on the countywide plan, each councilman opposed the proposal to add a three-lane corridor from Red Hill Avenue to Fairfax.

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell, who began by saying the countywide plan held "nothing radical for San Anselmo," later noted the measure would add two more auto lanes and one bus lane to either Center or Sir Francis Drake boulevards.

Councilman Martin G. Blinder promptly urged the proposed widening be scrubbed and that access through the city be made "as difficult as possible."

Blinder warned that adding lanes would swell the city's population and said that promoting inconvenience and frustration was a democratic way of limiting population growth.

"It'll be a long time before I vote for six automobile lanes through San Anselmo," declared Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson.

Mayor Warren R. Perry said he did not favor increased lanes, and Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro urged that the city maintain its small-town atmosphere.

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart said he opposed adding two auto lanes but supported the proposal for a bus lane. A three-lane corridor would cut into front and backyards, and create noise and confusion, he said.

Robert L. Harrison, county transportation coordinator, said the widening was needed to prevent congestion and allow buses to service new residents. He said that about 85 per cent of weekday traffic in San Anselmo is local.

He said that two new roads are also proposed by the countywide plan — one connecting Terra Linda and Sleepy Hollow and another linking Lucas Valley with White Hill. The Terra Linda-Sleepy Hollow connection would be used by transit and emergency vehicles only, he said.

One woman in the audience suggested that helicopters be used for emergency purposes in lieu of the Terra Linda link.

Sophia Spencer of San Anselmo said she flatly opposed widening Center or Sir Francis Drake boulevards, claiming the proposal would be "just another version of Highway 17. "We don't have to continuously accommodate the automobile," she said.

Von Gundell told officials that the plan also proposed preserving 1,754 acres of the Corte Madera Creek watershed as open space, establishing conservation buffer zones along the creek where possible as well as creating a bike path along the creek.

He said the plan calls for adding about 1,600 dwelling units to the city by 1990 while increasing the city's population by 4,000 persons over the same period.

"There's just not much growth potential in San Anselmo and the Upper Ross Valley," he said, adding the valley was currently the slowest growing area in Marin.

Von Gundell assured Planning Commissioner John H. Colteaux that the county has the legal ability to limit the population of Marin to 286,000 by 1990.

The planner told one resident that he did not yet know what the San Anselmo's share of the cost of implementing the countywide plan would be.

On another matter, Von Gundell was told by Anderson that the plan's proposal for a review agency — which would have veto power over all development deemed of countywide importance — "would take months of council consideration."

The council took no action on the plan, instead promising it would study the proposal further.

Reagan Disobeys Law, CSEA Says

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California State Employes Association has accused Gov. Ronald Reagan of reneging on agreements and disobeying the law by repeatedly postponing meetings on problems that led to a walkout last May by state Water Project workers.

CSEA General Manager Walter W. Taylor Wednesday charged Reagan and his representatives with "repeatedly postponing scheduled meetings, ignoring the intent of 'meet and confer' provisions of the George Brown Act, and failing to keep a written agreement to iron out problems" that prompted the walkout.

Taylor said Agriculture and Services Secretary James Stearns, the governor's employe-employer relations representative, has rejected CSEA requests to meet with him to finalize agreements between CSEA and the Water Resources Department on Water Project workers.

'Notice Is Served' On Development

Petaluma's development allotment board got down to business last night and served notice it wants to get away from stereotyped development and wants to see lower density, more recreation areas and bicycle paths.

The board began by sifting through the first two of 16 applications and found minor faults with both plans. Applications have been submitted for 1,100 living units and the board must recommend which of those can be built under the limit of 500 living units per year.

Reviewed last night were Arthur Condiotti's request for 100 single family homes for phase two of his development on I Street extension and plans for 70 dwellings in two-unit and four-unit structures abutting Highway 101 near McKenzie Drive.

The board noted that neither plan provided bicycle paths, although Condiotti included 11 acres of green space along a creekbed through property to be donated to the city.

Members also questioned the need for more open space in the plans, with some members complaining that developers try to milk property for everything it's worth at the expense of quality.

"What are they doing for Petaluma?" Mervin S. Waters of the planning commission asked. "Some of the developers are draining everything they can out of these developments and we should grade them accordingly."

Some said they hoped applications would get away from the traditional designs of subdivisions.

"We as residents are tired of seeing stereotyped developments," board chairman Carleton Reinaldo said. "We want to see something more than the average development, such as bike paths and recreation facilities."

Richard Clecak of the Petaluma City Council said that if developments are rejected when parks are not provided, developers in the future may be more inclined to donate an acre or two to the city for development.

Robert A. Stimson of the Petaluma Board of Education and others complained that reports from school district staffs have been too general and don't give the board a complete picture of the impact that proposed development would have on schools.

Planning director William C. McGivern distributed other development applications for board members to study before the next meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Hauck To Be Awarded Eagle Rank

Roland L. (Landy) Hauck III of Sleepy Hollow will be awarded the rank of Eagle in a Court of Honor at 8 p.m. Nov. 15 at the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association Clubhouse.

He has been a member of Troop 50 for the past three years. He is a member of the senior patrol and has served as assistant patrol leader of the Eagle patrol and patrol leader of the Cobra patrol. He has 21 merit badges.

Hauck is a member of the Order of the Arrow and holds awards for three 50-mile hikes. His Eagle project was organizing and implementing a registration and get-out-the-vote campaign for the general election.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland L. Hauck Jr. of 133 Van Tassel Court.

He is a freshman at Sir Francis Drake High School, enrolled in the alternative school-within-a-school.

His hobbies include backpacking, snow and water skiing, tennis, swimming and automobile restoration.

New Viet Raid Probe Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Unless the Pentagon conducts a thorough inquiry, the Senate Armed Services Committee should renew its investigtion of illegal U.S. air raids over North Vietnam, Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, said Wednesday.

Hughes wrote a letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., the Armed Services Committee chairman, making the request.

"I believe that recent statements in the press regarding unauthorized bombing by Navy planes demand further inquiry to the fullest extent," Hughes wrote. "If the department refuses to investigate, it will be up to the committee to do so, in my view."

Unauthorized Air Force raids conducted last winter were revealed after an Air Force sergeant reported them to Hughes. Subsequently, Gen. John D. Lavelle was relieved of his command of the 7th Air Force in Southeast Asia and retired. Further testimony indicated there were unauthorized Navy raids as well.

Hughes said the incident was "evidence of a threat to" civilian control of the military.

Fund Drive Opened For Bengal Tigers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Forty years ago there were an estimated 40,000 Bengal tigers on the Indian subcontinent. Today there are believed to be only 1,827, and the species will be extinct within the next decade unless something is done.

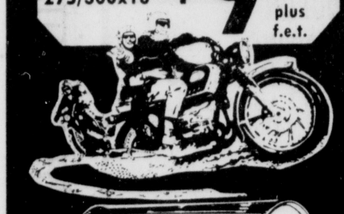

The World Wildlife Fund gave this picture Wednesday in announcing it was launching a $1 million international fund raising drive to save the Bengal tiger.

Reds Cleared From Hamlets Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Government troops reported clearing all hamlets around Saigon of Communist infiltrators today, but the Saigon command said the North Vietnamese launched their largest number of attacks throughout the country in more than three years.

Military sources said the area cleared included all of the III Corps, which is made up of the 11 provinces surrounding Saigon, ranging from 30 miles south to 100 miles northeast of the capital.

The stepup in military activity reflected efforts by government soldiers and the North Vietnamese to take and hold as much land and as many people as possible before any ceasefire is declared. The Communists aimed two of their attacks against civilians, reports said.

A Saigon command spokesman reported 142 Communist attacks in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today. South Vietnamese military spokesmen said the figure was the highest since Aug. 12, 1969, when 223 North Vietnamese attacks were recorded against South Vietnamese and U.S. bases.

Spokesmen said the current fighting was mostly minor and the intensity of combat was much lower than during at least six previous Communist offensives between the 1968 Tet offensive and the current North Vietnamese drive that began March 30.

Saigon command spokesmen said South Vietnamese soldiers today drove Communist troops from four hamlets in the capital's military region—the last of 26 the North Vietnamese had infiltrated over the past month.

Heavy fighting erupted again in Cambodia today and officials in the Laotian capital of Vientiane said authorities have ordered a curfew on the royal capital of Luang Prabang because Communist troops have infiltrated to within four miles of the city's airfield.

Col. Am Rong, the Cambodian command spokesman in Phnom Penh, said fierce fighting broke out on embattled Highway 4 today as government troops tried in vain to open an overland supply route to the Cambodian capital. Rong said at least 13 Cambodian soldiers were wounded when reinforcements trying to reach the Communist-occupied town of Trapeang Kraleng were beaten back by intense Viet Cong fire.

Trapeang Kraleng, 35 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, was overrun Wednesday by a Viet Cong force.

Officials in Vientiane said the 9 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew at Luang Prabang was imposed last week following a clash between government patrols and Communist troops in the Mekong River village of Ban Dancho and the Communist seizure of a government outpost at Ban Paxuang another 3-1-2 miles up the river.

They said intelligence reports also indicated that two battalions of North Vietnamese troops were moving toward Luang Prabang from the town of Moung Sai, some 60 miles to the north. Muong Sai is a junction point for a Chinese-built road link leading toward Dien Bien Phu in North Vietnam.

Two of the Communist attacks in South Vietnam were on civilians within 15 miles of Saigon. In one of them, military sources said Communist troops raided a refugee camp near Cu Chi, 15 miles northwest of Saigon, but there were no details.

Trio Indicted On Arranging Loveless Unions

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three San Francisco residents were accused Wednesday of illegally arranging loveless marriages for emigrants who wanted to remain in the United States.

A federal grand jury indicted them on charges of taking money in three instances in which U.S. citizens were "procured" to marry immigrants in Nevada.

The government said the brides and grooms did not live together and did not consummate the marriages.

Under federal law, husbands and wives of U.S. citizens may become citizens themselves outside the country-by-country quotas set by emigration laws.

Those indicted were Esteven Sadang, 64; his wife Ladita, 50, and Mrs. Rosario Branson, 44.

Sausalito Planning Commission Endorses Condition For Ferries

The Sausalito Planning Commission last night endorsed a list of conditions which the city would like the Golden Gate Bridge District to meet in its Sausalito ferry operation.

The proposal, reviewed by the council last week and sent to the commission for its recommendation, calls for a minimal terminal facility downtown, limiting the terminal to restrooms, benches, ticket booths and a movable canopy for inclement weather.

It also asks the district to prepare an environment impact study of the ferry operation and terminal, permit the city to select the consulting firm, limit its shuttle buses to four per ferry arrival and agree to eliminate the shuttle entirely as soon as a mutually acceptable mode of transit is available.

Under the plan, the city would also ask the district to lease the terminal site from the city, at a price to be decided, lease 320 commuter parking places in the proposed northern parking facility once that is built and establish the Larkspur ferry terminal as the primary port of embarkation for visitors to the Golden Gate National Recreation Area and West Marin.

Planning Commission Chairman Robert L. Nissen said the commission approved the proposal, with only minor changes in language, and will recommend the council adopt the agreement of understanding with the bridge district.

In other business, the commission granted a variance and conditional use permit to Sam Zakessian to permit him to expand the former Rico's restaurant and add a second floor to the structure.

The commission also granted a variance to Myron Spaulding to allow a 908-square-foot increase in a dock for his boat building and repair operation on Gate Five Road.

Tiburon Firemen Elect New Officers

The Tiburon Volunteer Firemen's Association last night elected Thomas Murphey as its new president.

Also elected were Michael Cavanagh, vice-preaident; James Mantegani, secretary; Fred C. Hannahs, treasurer, and Charles Pastori, sergeant-at-arms.

Warrant Out On Auto Theft

A no bail bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Gregory Carl Brown, 20, of Berkeley, who failed to appear for sentencing on two counts of car theft.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court ordered the warrant for Brown, who was convicted by a Marin jury last month. The jury cleared him on a charge of grand theft.

Brown was arrested in the Midwest in February on a warrant charging he took a car from a Marin auto dealer to test drive it and never returned. When arrested, he was driving a second stolen car.

A shipment of genuine handwoven Oriental rugs has been shipped for the U.S. market through bonded warehouse in London. As a result of the recent dock strike in London, the goods did not arrive on time, and those financially responsible for the unpaid shipment have instructed their U.S. agents to dispose of entire shipment at auction.
This shipment, in our opinion, is the finest collection in design, craftsmanship, and color of handmade carpets, rugs, and runners we have ever seen in all our years of selling the finest quality Oriental rugs and carpets.

PLEASE, PAUL

Former rock group manager Paul Grosso looks with amusement at the series of posters covering his old mail truck and running up the driveway to his Terra Linda home. The posters, all identical were the work of Korral, a rock group which Grosso managed until he quit last week because of the pressure of other jobs. They pleaded, "Paul Grosso . . . please come back, we need you!!!"

Gripes Spur Probe Of Postal Service

Amid growing complaint from members of poor mail service, the Marin County Chamber of Commerce yesterday launched a probe to determine how widespread the problem is.

Carroll A. Snyker, executive director of the chamber, said about 300 questionnaires have been mailed to chamber members asking them to rate their mail service.

He said the questionnaire was broken down into several aspects of postal service, including local delivery. Bay Area delivery, state and out-of-state delivery.

If survey results show spotty or poor service in some areas, he said, the chamber will ask the U.S. Postal Service to explain and correct the problem.

Snyker wasn't sure when the chamber survey would be complete, since "it depends on the mail service."

Burglary Case To Higher Court

A 25-year-old Petaluman caught while allegedly burglarizing a Kentfield garage has been bound over to Marin Superior Court.

Judge Peter Allen Smith, after a preliminary hearing in municipal court, ordered Brian Richard Twoomey to appear Nov. 18.

A sheriff's deputy arrested Twoomey Oct. 8 after he saw a man with a flashlight rummaging through a toolbox and office in the garage at 848 College Avenue.

Pot Possession Charge Dropped

A felony charge of possessing marijuana against a 21-year-old San Francisco man has been dismissed after a deputy district attorney reported he didn't have enough evidence to prosecute.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court dismissed the case against Daniel Owen West, arrested Oct. 5 by the California Highway Patrol. He was a passenger in a car stopped for a traffic violation on Highway 101.

McGovern Maps Farmer Aid Plan

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern said today he would use the government's power to provide farmers with a 90 per cent parity return on farm commodities if he is elected president.

In a 15-minute radio commercial he taped for broadcast on CBS after the noon (EST) news, McGovern said the first thing the next administration must do to help the farmers is to "move quickly to boost farm income.

"We can begin with the tools we already have," he said.

"The Department of Agriculture now has the authority to provide a 90 per cent of parity return on basic farm commodities. I intend to use that power."

Parity is a government standard for rating the farm income according to past years' levels.

Appearing extremely tired, but not quite as hoarse as he was in campaign appearances the past two days, McGovern taped the commercial before appearing on an hour-long question and answer telethon for Illinois consumption.

McGovern said the same people who are in the Agriculture Department today are the ones "who tried to scrap the farm parity support program two years ago."

He said, "We need a president who knows the sorrow and the waste of seeing farmers' sons and daughters forced to leave the farm on the first train after high school graduation."

To stem the flow of people from the rural areas to the cities, McGovern said, "we must move to halt the takeover of American agriculture by absentee corporations and Fifth Avenue farmers.

"Unless we act quickly the names of the mailboxes in rural America will not be Johnson and Smith or Jones. They will be Ralston-Purina, Tenneco, and Dow."

During the trip to this Midwestern metropolis, McGovern's political director took the occasion to strike at recent heckling during speeches by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, charging that Agnew deliberately staged one incident in which he was heckled by longhaired people.

"The hecklers are properly scuffy, with long hair just the length the Nixon publicists think identifies a hippie and they shake their fists for the cameras right on cue," said Frank Mankiewicz Wednesday.

"But when Mr. Agnew went into his 'spontaneous' attack on these central casting types, he returned to a written text and, unfortunately, lost his place twice," he said.

Mankiewicz, McGovern's chief political adviser, made the charge during a Wednesday night flight here from New York where McGovern greeted a large crowd in the garment district. He said he watched network newscasts in New York and saw Agnew Wednesday reading his answers to the hecklers in San Diego from a prepared text.

The Crank Phone Thing Of Past

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The old country "magneto crank" telephone, now a curiosity which often brings high prices from antique collectors, has all but vanished from service on American farms, an Agriculture Department survey showed today.

As recently as 1960, the department's annual survey of farm telephone service showed 80 per cent of the phones in farm use were dial-type, while 20 per cent were still lift or crank-type.

But the 1972 survey, made last summer, showed 98 per cent of the 2.4 million farm telephones were dial-type and 1 per cent were the new pushbutton type. Only 1 per cent were lift or crank-type.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

President To Discuss 'Hopes For Future'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will go on nationwide television tonight for what aides described as a discussion of his "hopes for the future of this nation," including the Vietnam situation.

It will be Nixon's first use of politically purchased television time for a live campaign speech this year. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the speech will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in all time zones.

Increasingly confident of a landslide victory over Democratic challenger George S. McGovern next Tuesday, Nixon changed the focus of his personal campaigning in an effort to spread his coattails for Republican candidates for the Senate.

The President scheduled airport rallies in six states Friday and Saturday. Four of the states—Oklahoma, Rhode Island, North Carolina and New Mexico—were selected because they are holding closely contested Senate races in which a presidential visit might help tip the scale for the Republican candidate.

Earlier in the year, Nixon's political strategists had said the President would select the states for personal campaigning on the basis of their importance in the presidential contest without regard to the impact on local races.

The Senate seats being contested in Oklahoma, Rhode Island, North Carolina and New Mexico are all now held by Democrats. But only one incumbent, Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, is running for reelection.

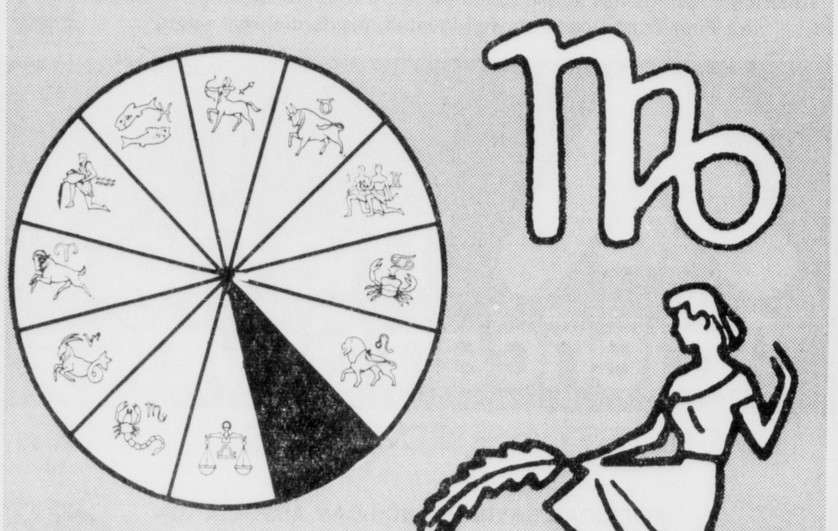

Ziegler said Nixon would spell out his position on amnesty for draft dodgers "at the appropriate time." Asked if the explanation might come before the election, Ziegler said Nixon "will choose the time."

The press secretary hotly rejected Democratic criticism that Nixon had changed his mind on the subject. The President told a television interviewer in January: "I, for one, will be very liberal with regard to amnesty" once the war is over and all POW's have been released. But last Saturday he told the family of a soldier killed in Vietnam that he would "never" grant amnesty.

HELL'S ANGELS IN CUSTODY

Four Hell's Angels members are in custody today in Ukiah in connection with the slaying of two men and a woman whose bodies were found Tuesday in an abandoned well near Ukiah. Three of the members are (left to right) William M. Mitten, 32, of Alameda; Chester M. Green, 29, of Richmond, and Edward J. Carter, 24, also of Richmond. Not pictured is John Moran, 38, also of Richmond. Bodies of the two men have been identified as Thomas Shepherd Shull, 24, and Charles Baker, 30, both reported missing in San Joaquin County. They had been dead for more than a year, officers reported.

Pentagon Hit For Peace Stall

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union today blamed the Pentagon and the profit motive of the U.S. military-industrial complex for delaying the signing of the Vietnam peace agreement.

An article by political commentator Viktor Mayevsky in today's Pravda said the delay "is linked inseparably with the Pentagon's position.

"The pillars of the military-industrial complex, the American monopolies, which are closely connected with war production fear lest peace in Indochina affect their fabulous profits," the party newspaper said.

"It is these circles that are exploiting the present situation in order to preserve or even increase their capital investments in war production."

The U.S. Mint in Denver issued its first coins in 1906.

Fragging Suspect On Stand, Denies He Set Off Boobytrap

FT. ORD, Calif. (UPI) —A soft-spoken GI from Watts spent four hours on the witness stand, steadfastly denying that he set a boobytrap that killed two lieutenants at an Army base in Vietnam.

Pvt. Billy D. Smith's testimony Wednesday completed his defense, except for a few stipulations and clerical matters which were left for today.

Smith, 24, testified calmly and clearly in a soft voice both under direct examination by his defense attorney, Luke B. McKissack, and under crossexamination by prosecutor Craig Casey.

Asked if he tried to set off a fragmentation grenade in Building 1102 at the Bien Hoa base on March 15, 1971, Smith replied: "No."

He is accused of murdering 2nd Lt. Richard E. Harlan of Dallas and 1st Lt. Thomas A. Dellwo of Mechanicsville, N.Y., who were killed in the barracks explosion.

The prosecution at his courtmartial contends Smith set off the grenade in an effort to kill Capt. Randall L. Rigby, his battery commander, and 1st Sgt. Billy E. Willis.

McKissack asked the defendant if, while in Vietnam, he had any desire to kill, wound or scare any officers. Smith answered, "No."

He described Rigby as "the best C.O." the battery ever had, although he said the captain kept the unit "busy with unnecessary work, like beautifying the area for inspection." Smith also testified he "never had a really big fallout" with the first sergeant.

Under cross-examination, Smith testified about the key piece of physical evidence against him—a grenade pin found in his pocket 90 minutes after the explosion which the prosecution contends has markings which match a grenade handle found in the rubble.

Smith said he found it on the floor of his barracks while on a sweeping detail. He said he had started collecting pins so he could put them on a new hat to replace a grenade pin-studded hat that he had lost.

Smith also told the court martial he had "made all kinds of excuses" to get a discharge from the Army. "I told a lot of lies and tried to get out of the Army, but I'm still in so I guess it didn't work," he said.

Novato Sets Up Impact Guides

The Novato City Council last night established some interim procedures for preparing environmental impact reports so that developers may proceed with projects presently stalled by a need for rules on how to comply with recent court orders.

The council acted after looking with disfavor on an elaborate, time consuming, step-by-step process proposed by the planning department staff.

Councilman Fred F. Ruegg expressed fear not only that the suggested process would require six to eight months, but that it might be frozen into the city's planning procedures and become a ritual to be pursued by all projects without regard to whether or not an impact report was needed.

Fellow councilmen agreed and told the staff to come up with something simpler and differentiating among small, medium and large projects.

The interim procedure adopted to get things moving requires the developer to submit an outline or general description of his project to the city's environmental impact report committee which will then determine if an impact report is required. (That judgment would be based on the state Supreme Court's recent ruling that developments having other than trivial effect on the environment require a report, and the city council has already established a list of types of projects exempted as trivial.)

The report, if needed, would be paid for by the developer, as would one ultimately drawn by the city staff based on the developer's conclusions. If the committee decides a study is not needed, the proposed development would follow normal planning procedures.

Councilman George C. Quesada suggested that the new environmental impact report committee, created last week and made up of the directors of the city planning, public works and parks and recreation departments, be replaced by just the planning director as a one-man review board.

But City Atty. Clark W. Palmer said he did not think the change was justifiable, since the committee was formed by emergency ordinance.

As he did at a meeting Tuesday night, Quesada also recommended that the city's efforts to comply with the Supreme Court ruling be delayed until the state Legislature establishes guidelines, as predicted it will.

The council is to meet again at 8 p.m. today on the environmental impact issue, as well as with the city and county planning commissions and the City-County Planning Council on the proposed city and county master plans.

It also is to name a replacement for city planning commissioner James Gordon, who resigned.

'Hypnosis Aids Dentist, Patient'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Los Angeles dentist says the proper use of hypnosis can help the dentist as well as the patient.

Dr. Kirk K. Klopp told the annual meeting of the American Dental Association Wednesday that hypnotizing a patient can improve communication between the two.

He said one of the things a dentist must do to improve communication is to reduce the degree of defensiveness. "To cope with a patient's defensive behavior th dentist must react with complete objectivity," he said.

Klopp said the patient is taught the discipline of hypnosis, adding, "This can be a two-way street because much of this experience rubs off onto the operator (dentist)."

$29 Million To School Coffers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State controller Hugh Flournoy reports that over $29 million has been added to California's educational system following a recent court settlement over disputed taxes on Long Beach tidelands oil operations.

Flournoy said Tuesday that $22,356,256 was paid into the state capital outlay fund for public education while the school scholl fund received $7,608,438.

Flournoy said the additional funds came from a settlement in Los Angeles Superior Court involving disputed taxes assessed by the city of Long Beach and Los Angeles County.

Goldwater: Demos Did The Bugging

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., campaigning on behalf of President Nixon, accused Democrats Wednesday of paying agents to bug Democratic headquarters and then to say they were hired by the Republicans.

Goldwater made the charge at separate news conferences at Grand Rapids and Muskegon in response to questions about alleged Republican involvement in the bugging of the Watergate headquarters of the Democratic party.

"I think more and more that this is a plant by the Democrats to pay $100,000 to four men to say they are Republicans and get caught in the Watergate," Goldwater said at Muskegon County Airport. "And I have a hunch that when the investigation is made and a trial is held, the Democratic party is going to be responsible for this."

Seven persons, including two former White House aides, have been indicted in connection with the Watergate affair.

Goldwater made essentially the same remarks at a news conference in Grand Rapids.

"I have come to the conclusion, with all the noise that's being made—nothing else being discussed by (Sen. George) McGovern — that this is a Democratic plot, that somebody paid $100,000 to get four men to say they were Republicans," Goldwater said about Watergate.

"At least, if I put myself in their fix I would be tempted to do something like that."

Agnew's Blast At Crowd Adds Fuel In Final Push

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Vice President Spiro Agnew's press secretary today denied charges from the McGovern camp that Republicans deliberately staged an incident in which Agnew was heckled.

The charges were made Wednesday in Chicago by Frank Mankiewicz, Mcgovern's political director, following a speech by Agnew in San Diego, Calif.

"The hecklers are properly scuffy, with long hair just the length the Nixon publicists think identifies a hippie and they shake their fists for the cameras right on cue," Mankiewicz said.

"But when Mr. Agnew went into his 'spontaneous' attack on these central casting types he returned to a written text and unfortunately, lost his place twice," Mankiewicz added.

Victor Gold, here with Agnew campaigning, said, "Yes we have notes, the vice president has notes because we have been accustomed in the past six weeks to having McGovern people there disrupting our meetings.

"Mr. Mankiewicz, coming from Hollywood, naturally would think there was central casting. The gentleman opened the campaign chasing skeletons, now in the closing days he's chasing ghosts.

"I would call on Mr. Mankiewicz to restrain his people. It's been going on for a long time. And the Vice President comes prepared for this type of disruption. He certainly came prepared yesterday when (San Diego) Mayor (Pete) Wilson was speaking (Wilson spoke before Agnew). The same people were heckling prior to the vice president, people with McGovern signs heckling and disrutping, and the vice president will deal with these people...in whatever way he deems suitable."

Gold continued, "And the only reason we are prepared is because Mr. Mankiewicz and Sen. McGovern have not been stopping these people in the past."

In the San Diego speech, Agnew, beset by whistleblowing demonstrators, shouted at them that they were "idelogoical fanatics" and compared them to Nazis and animals.

The leader of the demonstrators was punched in the face by an Agnew rooter and arrested for disturbing the peace.

"Why don't you put on your swastika arm bands and show your true colors, the same way your spiritual ancestors did in the 1930s in Germany," Agnew yelled at the demonstrators.

'Peace Economy Transition Made'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers says the transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy has already been made.

Herbert Stein, speaking to the Commonwealth Club Tuesday, said Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern is naive to think the change has not already taken place.

"Senator McGovern offers himself as a candidate to manage the transition from wartime to peacetime economy," Stein said. "He apparently is unaware the job no longer exists."

The presidential adviser said defense spending is now smaller relative to the national economy than anytime in the past 16 years.

Jury Convicts In Chinatown Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Richard Lee, 20, has become the first Chinese gang member convicted of first-degree murder in the United States in recent years.

Lee was found guilty Wednesday in the June 13 fatal shooting of Poole E. Leong, 22, on the balcony of a Chinatown housing project.

Homicide Inspectors Frank McCoy and Ed Erdelatz said the jury's decision was the first such finding in recent years in the nation.

The Superior Court jury deliberated the case for 5 1-2 hours before returning its verdict. Judge Walter Calcagno will sentence Lee on Nov. 22.

A second suspect, Weyman Tso, 15, was still being sought, McCoy and Erdelatz said.

Leong's shooting was a result of rivalry among several youthful gangs in Chinatown.

Former Senator Found Guilty

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Former state Sen. David Ratliff was convicted Wednesday of embezzling state funds during his tenure and given a 10-year probated sentence.

He was the fourth state officeholder convicted of a felony this year.

Ratliff was convicted of putting a woman on his staff as a secretary, allowing her to do no work, and then taking her paychecks for himself.

Ratliff, 60, of Stamford, served for 21 years in the Texas Legislature.

A Cautious Road In Impact Area

The Larkspur City Council, eery about possible law suits, ast night refused to exempt rom environmental impact re- ort requirements buildings which have passed planning re- uirements but do not have a uilding permit.

Although it was pointed out hat other locales including San Rafael, Corte Madera and Ma- rin County, have made such exemptions, the Larkspur city fathers decided not to.

In the wake of a recent state Supreme Court decision, envi- ronmental studies are required for any development not consid- ered "trivial."

Larkspur, like other Californ- nia communities, is struggling to set up guidelines so the new requirements may be met.

A developer, Michael Brough- ton, told the council last night he had met all city require- ments for an 11-unit apartment building but when he went to pick up his building permit, he was told he could not have it because no environmental study had been made.

He said he would soon lose his financing commitment if he is not allowed to start the project.

The council seemed about to grant Broughton an exemption when Alfred J. Malvino, acting as mayor after William G. Fleckles left earlier in the eve- ning, said he was worried about law suits.

Joseph A. Forest, named the city's acting attorney last night, said the city could be named in suits brought by individuals protesting developments for which environmental studies had not been made.

"The council doesn't want to stick its neck out with taxpay- ers' money," Malvino told Broughton, who protested vain- ly that "throwing people out of work with winter coming on" was not helpful to the city's economy.

The council then went ahead and adopted a set of guidelines for environmental studies simi- lar to those adopted in San Rafael and Corte Madera with the exception of exemptions for developments with prior ap- proval or financing arrange- ments.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

UNDERGROUNDING — Asked Forest for a report at the meeting next Wednesday on the delays in undergrounding utilities on Mag- nolia Avenue.

BASE — Forwarded 20 requests by Larkspur citizens for joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base to the board of supervisors.

LETTER — Received a letter from developer Neils Schultz dis- agreeing with remarks made in a letter of resignation from Arthur Sestak, who resigned from the architectural review committee. Mayor Fleckles said "nothing constructive has come from this exchange of correspondence" but no action was taken.

PATH — Postponed to next Wednesday further discussion of a proposed bicycle path along Magnolia Avenue which has met an impasse with executors of the Tiscornia Estate in hopes some compromise can be worked out.

STATION — Discussed access to a proposed Texaco service station on the SDC property on Magnolia Avenue, approved more than two years ago, but came to no conclusion.

ILLEGAL — Sent the owners of Dollars and Sense store on Mag- nolia Avenue back to the planning commission to determine if an agreement can be worked out on additional parking spaces re- quired after an illegal storage building was added to the store.

CLAIM — Rejected a claim by Alice Vincilione, executrix of the Tiscornia Estate, for $989,000 she says has been lost in property values because of a long fuss over grading permits.

ZONING — Placed several par- cels on Magnolia Avenue includ- ing the Tiscornia property into a study zone which would require use permits for any building. The former zoning was for multiple residential.

FLOOD — Agreed to join in a creek cleaning program with Flood Control District 9 which would probably cost about $30,000 a year.

APPROVAL — Gave final map approval to Belardo Terrace.

The Use Of Dairy Products On Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The average consumer's use of dairy products is rising this year for the first time in nearly two decades, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Sales of cheese and skim and lowfat milk are gaining most, but consumers are also buying more butter, more frozen des- serts and cream items. Total commercial sales of milk in all dairy products, which had been holding stable since 1967, proba- bly will rise about 3 per cent this year and a smaller gain— in line with population increase—seems likely in 1973, the report said.

Department economists, writ- ing in a "dairy situation" sum- mary, attributed the milk prod- uct gains to higher meat prices, a broadened food stamp pro- gram which gave more pur- chasing power to needy people, rising incomes for other con- sumers and aggressive dairy promotion.

THE FIRST — Jeanne Cisse, ambassador from Guinea to the United Nations, yester- day became the first woman president of the Security Council. The council presi- dency rotates monthly among the 15 member coun- tries. (UPI Telephoto)

The Boss Will Remember Them

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) — How can you keep the boss from forgetting you when you work on the night shift? You might try giving him the bird.

That's the solution of the night crew of National Liberty Corp. They gave their company president a pair of black swans to glide on a pond next to corporate headquarters. The birds, a species that originated in Australia, form a night-and- day contrast with other water- fowl on the pond which, by no coincidence, is in full view of the president's office.

Connally Attacks Demo's 'Radicalism'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —John B. Connally said today "the radicalism of McGovern" would cause many Democrats to vote not only for President Nixon but for John G. Schmitz, the Independent Party presi- dential candidate.

Connally, head of the Demo- crats for Nixon organization, said George S. McGovern's pro- posals "turns them off," refer- ring to Democrats he said would refuse to vote for the Democratic nominee.

"I think he has made radical proposals," Connally said. "I think there was radicalism in almost every aspect of his orig- inal platform.

"The American people are not in the mood for radical reformation in this country. For 10 years we have been in tur- moil... The whole country has been turning over in a very rapid way.

"The truth of the matter is, if they have to choose between more radicalism and more ref- ormation or the status quo, I think they'll choose the status quo."

Connally was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

He said if McGovern's views continued to dominate the di- rection of the Democratic Party after Tuesday's election, he might turn Republican.

It was the closest Connally would come to saying he was considering switching parties, as variously reported since he accepted appointment as the only Democrat in Nixon's Cabi- net, and later became head of the Democrats for Nixon orga- nization in the campaign.

The former Treasury secre- tary said "I don't have any plans" to switch party affilia- tion, saying he believed there would be a movement "to move the Democratic party back in the mainstream" after the elec- tion.

Connally said he felt this would occur after what he pre- dicted would be an easy Nixon victory.

Shriver In Shouting Match, Too

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — While Spiro Agnew faced the toughest heckling of his cam- paign at San Diego, Sargent Shriver got into a pair of shout- ing matches while campaigning in the Northwest Wednesday.

The Democratic vice presi- dential hopeful told an unidenti- fied student "you're out of your mind" during a loud exchange at Portland Community Col- lege.

"You're married to a Kenne- dy, aren't you?" the student shouted.

"Yes, sir, I am," Shriver replied, and then the student complained about high welfare costs and suggested that the Kennedy family should pay more.

"You're out of your mind, mister," Shriver yelled at the top of his voice.

The student said Sen. George McGovern plans to double wel- fare costs.

"That's a lie they put in TV," Shriver retorted.

350 Attend Funeral For Harry Barbier

More than 350 friends and relatives of San Rafael City Councilman Harry A. Barbier attended yesterday's funeral services for the veteran city leader at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Included in the crowd were city and county officials as well as about 60 uniformed San Rafael policemen and firemen. Safety personnel turned out voluntarily to pay tribute to Barbier, a longtime booster of the city's police and fire departments. California highway patrolmen and police delegations from throughout Marin also were in attendance.

The 50-year-old Barbier, a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. official, died Sunday in Presbyterian Hospital in San Francisco following heart surgery there Oct. 18.

Dr. Charles C. Griffin, pastor of First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael, said Barbier had achieved three things in his lifetime not always realized by others.

"He stayed in one place all his life, he knew no other town ... He was blessed with the love of a family ... and he fulfilled a responsibility upon which our nation absolutely depends, that of a conscientious citizen," Griffin said.

He praised Barbier as a "Happy warrior of sturdy character" who had always persisted in doing his best. "We are grateful that he lived and we are grateful that there is a God to whom he now goes."

Father Thomas Kennedy of St. Raphael's Church concluded the 45-minute service by saying the maxim of Barbier's life was "he profits most who serves others."

The World War II veteran's flag-draped coffin was carried from the mortuary by San Rafael safety personnel while an honor guard of policemen and firemen stood at attention.

Barbier had served on the San Rafael City Council since 1963 and was a member of the city's fire commission, sanitation district board and finance committee. He also was a member of the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

He was a member of Marin Lodge 191 of the Free and Accepted Masons and of George S. Ladd Chapter 27 of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Inurnment was private.

The Polar Bear Is Being Aided

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — A group of Scandinavian nations headed by Iceland came to the defense of the polar bear and other endangered species in the Arctic Wednesday.

They came up with a draft resolution calling for an international conference of nations concerned "with the aim of concluding an international treaty or treaties for the purpose of preserving the wildlife of the Arctic and adjacent areas."

The resolution said the polar bear particularly was "now threatened with extinction for a variety of reasons, including over-exploitation by man."

Ross Valley 4-H Club Is Honored

The Ross Valley 4-H Club won the Marin County 1972 community pride award at the California 4-H community pride conference held recently in La Honda.

The club was presented a banner, plaque and award ribbons at the annual conference, which is jointly sponsored by Standard Oil Co. and the University of California.

Cuba Seeks More Facts In Hijacking

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Cuban government has asked the State Department to supply additional information about four persons who hijacked an airliner to Havana Sunday.

According to State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray, Cuba sent a formal reply to Washington's request that the suspects be extradited back to the United States.

The reply, which was received in Washington Monday and publicly revealed Wednesday, said the four hijackers were under arrest.

Bray said the Cuban answer raised "some questions which we are now pondering." He added, however, that "we do not draw any initial encouragement from the reply."

The note reportedly requested Washington to give the Cuban government more details about the hijacking of an Eastern Airlines jet and the murder of the ticket agent in Houston, as well as an attempted bank robbery in Arlington, Va., which left a bank manager and a county policeman dead.

Red Cloud of the Sioux was a warrior and negotiator. He traveled to Washington for meetings with Cabinet officials in the 1860s.

Brief Span Closing Set For Suspender Rope Work

Golden Gate Bridge will be closed to all traffic — briefly, if all goes well — at 3 a.m. next Thursday, resident engineer Robert A. Warren announced yesterday.

The closing, part of a $2.8 million maintenance project, is supposed to take no more than one hour. He smiled uneasily when asked what would happen if the closing stretched into several hours.

The closing will be postponed only if the weather is wet or windy.

The closing will permit simultaneous erection of two traveling construction bridges that will extend across the roadway and climb up and down the main cables. The project is to replace 194 of the 500 vertical suspender ropes that support the deck from the two main cables.

Workmen will replace the two-and-three-quarter-inch steel cables from the 30-ton traveling bridges. One will be erected on the main cables between the towers and the other on the cables between the north tower and Marin anchorage.

It will be shifted in March to the cables between the south tower and the San Francisco anchorage. The work is scheduled to be completed next November.

Both traveling rigs, built in Iowa, have been assembled on a turnout alongside the southbound lanes of the Waldo Grade about a half mile from the bridge.

All southbound traffic on Highway 101 will be rerouted at Marin City through Sausalito after 2 a.m. This will give bridge crews an hour to move the 90-foot-long rigs down the Waldo Grade to the span before the closing.

Three center lanes on the bridge will be closed at 1 a.m., with traffic restricted to two southbound and one northbound lane. The two southbound and one northbound lane will be the first reopened to traffic at about 4 a.m., with the three middle lanes reopening at 5 a.m.

Access for emergency vehicles will be provided throughout the closing.

The closing originally was scheduled tentatively for Oct. 23, but was postponed to complete planning for the elaborate engineering maneuver.

Tools Taken

Tools valued at $125 were taken Monday or Tuesday from Lillie Building Materials, 616 Irwin Street, San Rafael, by a thief who broke off a door knob, police reported today.

Marcos Ends Censorship In One Area

MANILA (UPI) —President Ferdinand E. Marcos today ended censorship of foreign news dispatches but canceled operating franchises of newspapers, magazines, television and radio stations his regime had accused of taking part in a Communist conspiracy.

Information Minister Francisco Tatad said mass media still allowed to operate will have to apply for an operating permit every six months.

Tatad said authorized publications and networks from now on will be permitted to carry editorial comments provided they get permission from the department of public information and provided further that existing press guidelines forbidding "rebellious, seditious, immoral, sensational and other antigovernment comments" are followed.

Prior to today's announcement, foreign news dispatches required signed clearance from the Department of Public Information before they could be distributed for dissemination abroad.

The announcement on the lifting of censorship for foreign press dispatches was contained in a memorandum issued today by Marcos. A separate presidential decree under martial law contained provisions about the rules for operations of mass media facilities.

The presidential decree provided for the creation of a mass media council headed by Tatad as chairman, Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile as co-chairman and a representative of the mass media to be appointed by the president as member.

Seminary To Offer Special Sessions

An introduction to transactional analysis will be given by Duncan C. Cameron at the Lewis Marshall Lloyd Education Center at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo beginning at 6 p.m. Dec. 8 and continuing through Dec. 10.

Meals will be included in the fee for the weekend of informal lectures and participation.

HISTORICAL LEAGUE PROJECT

Sonoma's Toscano Hotel Breathing Again

By KAREN PETERSON

More than a century ago, the building that housed the Toscano Hotel was alive with the men and women who settled in the small community of Sonoma.

Today, amid the aging portraits, the four-poster beds and the "shots of whiskey" on the dusty round poker tables, the spirit of the 1800s is being recreated by the members of the Sonoma League for Historic Preservation.

The league was founded in 1970 by Mrs. Margaret Eliassen, a woman who has done much restoration work in the Sonoma area and who was a consultant for one of the homes recently on view at the Historic Homes Tour in Petaluma. It is dedicated to the preservation and enhancement of the downtown Plaza and the environs of Sonoma.

A zealous group dedicated to retaining the historic beauty of its city, the league assists in surveys and studies of the historic structures in Sonoma, makes recommendations for improvement, compiles photographic records of the structures, identifies important sites with permanent markers and seeks to encourage the governing body in authentic restoration and maintenance of these important structures.

For the nonprofit organization, the restoration of the Toscano Hotel is just one of the activities undertaken throughout the year.

The exact date of construction of the two-story hotel on Spain Street is unknown, explains James Alexander, a state forest ranger and president of the league.

"IT WAS originally built as a store around the 1850s," said Alexander. "Photographs of old buildings and a map of the City of Sonoma that showed floor plans of the hotel were the basis for the exterior restoration."

The state bought the hotel in 1946 from the Walton family. The exterior restoration and some interior refinishing including the floors and wallpaper was done by the state. When the league offered to furnish the hotel the large downstairs bar and second story bedrooms were sparsely furnished.

Working with only donations, although some items have been found through the large state collection of artifacts and furnishings, the league has so far collected $2,500 worth of period furniture.

"The hotel is perplexing to restore," said Alexander. "We can only restore it in a general period from 1850 to 1900. It's being done in the style of an old, small town frontier hotel."

The league, which hopes to obtain more donations in the way of straight back chairs, chamber pots, kerosene lamps and spittoons, is planning an open house in November for a champagne and cheese touring party. The hotel will be open soon for special public tours.

ONE OF the highlights of the enthusiastic work of the league came last April when two of their members won seats on the city council as write-in candidates.

The planning commission and the city council had already passed plans to build a 120-unit apartment complex on the 12 acres adjoining the Vallejo home outside of Sonoma. The league and other opponents to the plan set up a referendum against construction although the city attorney feared the referendum was illegal because it was being circulated after the legal filing date.

The league then centered an intensive campaign for the election of two of their members as write-in candidates on the council. The 120-units were bought by the state as well as an additional 16 acres. The state plans to replant it as in the days of Vallejo and open it as a park and picnic area.

According to Mrs. Eliassen, there seems to be more consideration of the council now as far as retaining the historic atmosphere of the city. The influence of the league has also culminated in the creation of the Preservation Commission for the City of Sonoma, of which Mrs. Eliassen is chairman. Two of their members are also on the California Heritage Council.

ALEXANDER IS at work on a book, "The Sonoma Valley Architectural History," which will be published for the Sesquicentennial celebration of the founding of the Sonoma Mission next year.

"We have 50 or 70 good photographs collected by the league during a photograph contest. I'm researching old records, visiting the structures and talking to people. There is a large collection of records in this area about the historic structures."

"I have a background in architecture," said Alexander. "It helps because I can judge the period of a building and the type of construction."

Another continuing project of the league involves collecting data and photographs of the historic buildings in the Sonoma area. This recordation will be made available to the governing body and help with future plans for restoration. Photographs for the collection were submitted during a photograph contest judged by San Francisco photographer Imogene Cunningham.

The league donated the money for street trees that now line the business side of the Plaza. They are also at work on a survey for the lighting of the Plaza and they hope to reactivate the historic route which would mark the areas of importance around the city.

The first Saturday of April the league sets up booths for Cutting Day across from the barracks in the Plaza. Cuttings from the garden are distributed free in hopes that the members of the community will use them to beautify their gardens.

"Last year we had between 300 and 400 people," said Mrs. Eliassen. "It becomes a real community thing. That kind of feeling that warms your heart."

With all their activities, the main ambition for the league is to set up permanent headquarters in one of the historic structures around Sonoma. It would be the perfect atmosphere, said Mrs. Eliassen.

GENERATION RAP

Britisher Knocks American Girls On Dress, Obesity, Sloppiness

RAP:

I've been reading your items while on holiday here from England. Was struck by the letter from a bird who signed herself "Straight," asking whatever happened to the "good guys."

I do not think anything happened to them. In the U.S., as in England, fellows have just realized that girls are not something special — they are equal to us, no better and no worse.

"Straight" evidently wants to be taken out, wined and dined, picked up and delivered in style, with her chair pulled out and doors opened for her as if she were a spastic. Would she do the same for me? She complains because blokes want to "meet her there" instead of "take her there." But she would never offer to take a boy to the cinema, or anywhere that requires her money.

You Yanks have already passed your equal pay bill and, in Britain, politicians are trying to equalize men's and women's rights. That's fine with me, but I am damned certain that I will not pay the whole tab when I go with a girl. If she earns what I earn, she can jolly well spend along with me.

Furthermore, I fail to understnad why American boys bother with American girls, what with their terrible dress sense, obesity, slovenliness and general unattractiveness. I see few females over here that I fancy.

Please print this for "Straight" and others like her. — GEOFF

GEOFF:

Darn. I thought all English guys were like David Frost. — SUE

GEOFF:

You've got a point about equal jobs, equal pay (on dates), but I'll bet a lot of American girls will shout what we're too polite to say: "Limey, go home." — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I fell in love with John. We went together two years. I was one of those holdouts, but then we decided that it isn't wrong to really love. The only trouble: I got pregnant and I'm still in high school.

At first John said he'd marry me. But I knew he didn't want to be tied down. Now he doesn't want me any more, since I won't be sensible and get an abortion. I couldn't kill his baby. John moved away last week. I'm beginning to show. Let's forget about broken hearts and silly things like that. It's school I'm thinking about. I want to keep on going to my high school, where the kids know and like me. They understand about the baby. We all know the facts of life, so I wouldn't be a "classroom disturbance," or anything. But the school authorities say I must drop out and take special education at home. In other words, be hidden. My folks have been great about this, but they say rules are rules, and I won't be able to graduate with my class at midterm (in January).

Helen and Sue, those rules were made when unwed motherhood was a terrible disgrace (that "nice" girls weren't supposed to see). I don't say I'm proud or would push the PG teenager thing, but I'm not ashamed of having a baby and my friends aren't embarrassed by it — and almost everyone is my friend at school.

Isn't it time they changed the rules? — UNHAPPY BUT NOT ASHAMED

DEAR U BUT N.A.:

Yes, I think it is time they changed the rules about forcing pregnant teenagers out of regular high school classes. Most of the kids know these days who is on the pill, who's had an abortion, and they aren't condemned. So why banish a girl because she "shows"? It's hypocritical — and I'll bet the majority of high school students agree with me. — SUE

DEAR U:

I agree with Sue — but with reservations: Certainly the presence of a pregnant teenager will not disrupt (or "corrupt") high school classes, but she should have the choice. Many girls would still prefer special work at home — for not all kids are as kind as your friends. — HELEN

YWCA Will Move Into Bigger Home

The Marin YWCA is packing up its belongings and will move into larger quarters at 1618 Mission Avenue, San Rafael on Nov. 11.

Margaret Wolfe, Marin YWCA executive director, said that the original moving date was set for Nov. 1, but that obtaining the use permit and preparing the building has delayed the move.

"After the move we will see what we need to do in terms of program," said Miss Wolfe. She said that the program committee hasbeen working with various women's groups in planning the new YWCA program, but that new programs would not get underway until after the first of the new year.

The current classes will continue as planned in other locations, she added.

The YWCA has been located at 305 Mission Avenue. Its new quarters, next to the Marin Academy, at one time housed the Marin Jewish Community Center, and are leased from the new Marin private high school.

CASH REGISTERS OUT

'Inside Job' Wasn't A Robbery

By RALPH SHAFFER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

One Saturday night recently just after store closing, all cash registers in a large Denver, Colo., retail store were cleaned out and removed from the premises. It was a well-planned, well-organized inside job.

However, no cash or customers' checks were missing. No property was destroyed. No police were called. Nothing about the entire matter ever appeared in the Denver press or on local radio or television.

Because of a secret investigation?

No, this store was just another of a large national chain to go "on line" — computerese for retail automation. The after hours caper involved the replacement of conventional cash registers with new electronic point-of-sales machines. The Denver public may not be generally aware of it, but a cash-register sale made in this store now activates a centralized computer as far away as Kansas City, Mo.

Doing what?

Methods executives in retailing say computerized point-of-sale operations like these, first of all, are providing real improvement in customer service. For example, one basic essential in storekeeping is to have in stock continuously all best sellers —heart-of-the-line, clothing merchants call it, like size 15½-33 in men's shirts.

MANY LARGE retail stores are installing speedy new transaction recorders, which double as cash registers and input devices for computers. The hope is that they will release salespeople to assist customers and arrange stock as well as develop more product knowledge.

THE FIRST thing the register-computer does is record the stock number (size and color) of the sale item, the one to be replaced. But replacement doesn't come on items just one at a time, mind you. The computer is preprogrammed to store x number of sales until these reach the minimum low stock point. Here the computer activates automatic typewriting equipment which orders replacement shirts in proper quantities. And in theory, these will reach the store shirt-department fixtures in time to prevent any out-of-stock. Good retail operating like this gives top-flight customer service.

In addition to providing automatic unit-inventory control, (no need for ticket stubs, no manual counts, no handwritten memos, no delay) point-of-sale electronic registers also:

Provide immediate sales figures — really instantaneous. Most retailers "read" and clear their manual-electric registers each night after closing or before opening the next day. This operation vanishes under the electronic system.

Control monetary inventories, not only storewide, but by any designated section or division desired. Deducting dollar sales and adding daily receipts in the time-honored accounting department way has always meant a time-lag nobody wanted. Close-quartered electronic financial control aims any retail store toward a more efficient profit.

Forecase sales projections of all kinds, dollars or units. The retail buyer's dilemma is always, "How many can I sell in a given season?" Now, the computer can apply last year's units to this year's trend, and part way through the season can forecast a final figure if it is told the percentage-done-to-date.

Release sales personnel for important sales floor duties, such as arranging stock, assisting with displays, attending sales training meetings, developing product knowledge.

Assemble sales information by individual salespersons for use in payroll, commission or productivity reports. Store employees no longer need to record each sale in an individual "tally book, which needed to be reviewed and totaled manually.

Verify customer credit transactions electronically, no awkward phone check and no delay.

MANY U.S. retailers have had forerunner processing equipment in use in their operations for 20 years or more in jobs like printout tabulations and microfilm records. But only since about last January has the electronic point-of-sale idea burst full-blown on the retailing scene. Penney's, Ward's, Sears, Bloomingdale's, Bullock's — large stores all across the country are busy installing this plug-in equipment.

All salesmen from the computer manufacturers lean heavily on the cost-saving features of the new development. They point to an impressive study issued to selected retailers by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. One segment of the report indicated that over a five-year period, a specialty store with sales of $10 million could expect savings of between $340,000 and $625,000. The study also estimated that some retailers switching to electronic registers could save as much as 60 seconds per transaction or 100,000 hours of sales clerk time worth $200,000 a year or more.

There has been interest, too, in this modern-day wonder from supermarkets. Jewel company — first to try it — says this plan accelerated time at the checkout counters by 20 per cent because electronic keyboards are simpler and faster to operate.

Ah — but in all this, there's the businessman's first question: "How much does it cost?"

Salesmen say, of course, it requires new capital; but, they also say, the cost-retrieval period is about three years. Today, the price of an average electronic register is around $3,400 — about one-third more than the conventional type. In addition, there is the company expense of reorganizing the internal paperwork system to fit point-of-sale equipment. But no matter what it is supposed to require, retailers seem determined to get fitted with the newest, latest and most efficient — and that's an electronic-register system.

Department Stores Given A Warning

Unless American department stores make some drastic changes in the next two years they will be out of existence in the next decade, according to Marcia Grassi, professor of marketing at Drexel University, Philadelphia.

Department stores, the professor said, are failing to fill the gap between customers who want quality and services and those who are looking for no frills and low prices.

Department stores today are still catering to a mass middle America without regard for customer-oriented merchandising or services. The more knowledgeable consumer demands a selection of unique merchandise and complete customer services. The other extreme is the mass market which is value-oriented and price-conscious and willing to give up services altogether, he said.

FASHION SCENE

Chester Weinberg Joins The Shirtwaist Parade

By LYNNE OLSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Chester Weinberg toes the "classics" line for spring this year, sticking with such reliable standbys as cardigan jackets and shirtwaist dresses.

Weinberg showed three collections at his spring showing Tuesday — couture, boutique and his collection of suedes and leathers for Samuel Robert.

His daytime couture line featured shirtwaists, pants outfits and suits with short cardigan and shirt jackets — in plaids, checks and stripes.

Dominating colors were the nonseasonal ones — beige, navy, white, gray and an occasional yellow.

THE LAYERED look was common as in a red, navy and gold plaid jacket over a plaid silk shirt and white ribbed sweater.

One outfit was a pretty camel, ivory and blue tattersall pantsuit with a white ribbed sweater underneath.

For evening, Weinberg featured the covered-up look, with a number of long-sleeved cardigan jackets over long dresses and skirts, many of them knife-pleated.

The covered look didn't extend all the way down, however. One notable exception was an ivory crepe shirt atop a beige eige crepe wrap skirt slit to the top of the thigh.

The pant outfits shown in Weinberg's boutique collection were the most appealing of all the daytime wear.

AMONG THEM was a "denim" jersey pants suit with white and navy print shirt. "Denim" is a word coined to indicate the look of blue denim.

Another bright note was a pair of navy and red polka dot silk pants combined with a navy and red jersey sweater set.

PARENT AND CHILD

Grocery Store Shopping Can Be Fun Without The Snapping

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

It's a strange phenomon. And it seems to occur in grocery stores around the world regardless of nationality. As children misbehave and make childish demands, parents argue, snap, shout and issue false threats.

It's not hard to tell what "gets into"children who misbehave in stores. They are being overwhelmed with the materialistic display of "goodies" and want to make the case that their needs fit the tempting supply. But it is harder to tell what "gets into" parents who allow themselves to be drawn into shouting matches and ridiculous arguments.

The whole foolish scene is unnecessary and can be avoided if parents will only make an effort to reason rather than argue.

Recognizing that a major purpose of the store display is to entice and tempt susceptible buyers, parents should help children to see through the merchandising methods by seeing through them themselves. Ir parents are compulsive buyers, or if they buy just to have, or allow advertising propagandists to dictate their needs, then they will have difficulty helping their children to resist similar temptations.

ONCE A PARENT is clear about his needs and the purpose of the trip to the store, then some preparation of the children before going seems to be necessary. Whether the list of expected purchases is written or oral, it would help if it were shared with the children. If it is written, perhaps they could have a pencil and cross off items as they are found and purchased.

Perhaps there could be a separate list for each of the children in the shopping party. One child might concentrate on dairy products, another on cereals or vegetables, another on dog food, etc.

Snack foods, candies and soft drinks seem to cause the loudest in-store controversies. If there are three children in the family, it might relieve the buying tension if they were given a weekly allowance for just such items.

Together the children could plan what they were going to buy to meet weekly snack and party needs. With their own budget and with purchasing their own responsibility, the trip to the store might be more purposeful for all concerned.

While the above techniques might solve some of the problem before parent and child get to a store, one problem still remains — the in-store "confrontation" itself. A parent should watch carefully that his child does not trap him into quarrels and squabbles.

Generally this condition comes about because of the false threats issued by the parent which the child knows will not be carried out.

"IF YOU DON'T stop that, I'll make you walk back home."

Too often that's a false threat and not a possible punishment, and the child knows it.

Therefore when a parent issues such a false threat, the child, intuitively sensing the false logic, taunts the parent by continuing the condemned behavior. Or by misbehaving in yet another way.

The best way to stop the argument from developing into a struggle is for the parent to issue only commands and threats that can and will be carried out to the letter. Children understand such adult behavior. They respond accordingly.

ART REVIEW

'Grand Tour' Leads To Exhibit

By ADA GARFINKEL

Until recently, taking the "grand tour" to the cultural centers of London, Paris and Vienna was quite the thing to do when one graduated from college. It was to immerse oneself in the rich, artistic heritage of those world capitals.

But at present, a recent graduate is more likely to explore the hinterlands of his own ancestral heritage.

This is precisely what photographer Dennis Hearne did upon his graduation from San Francisco Art Institute in 1970. And 21 of his photos now on display at the Photo Gallery in San Rafael record his odyssey to his grandmother's home in New Hampshire and to his remoter ancestry in Ireland.

All of his prints are in black and white. There are no sharp, striking contrasts. Rather, there is a gentle, pervasive half-tone, and no effort to project a theme. If there is continuity, it is in his relaxed and informal manner and in his choice of subject matter, such as an alert collie guarding cows near a creek. Or a girl with her eyes closed. Or the Indian Paint Brush in New Hampshire taken along a country road in early June. "When the season is just beginning and all nature is reordering to . . . an accelerated life cycle — expansion and co-ordination — seeming to confirm its will to survive," according to Hearne.

Of the interior shots of his grandmother's home — one of a marble fireplace and overlapping architectural patterns, and another of a bowl of fruit and a graduation portrait of his father against a patterned wallpaper — Hearne has this to say: "The tradition and security suggested by this environment is what remains with me."

In August of this year, young Hearne arrived in Kilgoran, County Kerry, Ireland, in time for the three-day Puck Fair and Horse Pattern, an annual event for the past 700 years. Essentially a sale of livestock to breeders from America and Europe, the fair took on a festive air. Hearne found some of the customs irresistible, such as the way in which horses manes were neatly braided; the manner in which their feedbags all but covered their entire head; their placement in the stalls.

And in Kilnaspic, County Kilkenny, Hearne photographed pigs marching down a paved street, sheep in an enclosure as far as the eye could see, and more people and open country.

Of his two-year odyssey, Hearne has drawn several conclusions, namely, that some "customs are beyond the limit of generations" and that in his photography he "was drawn to the exceptional . . . because of the sense of order." And this sums up the show.

The exhibit is on view at the gallery at 933 D Street through Nov. 20. Hours are 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesday and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. The gallery is closed on Friday.

Health Care Career Conference On Tap

A conference on careers in the health care field will be held at San Rafael High School on Nov. 16 at 3 p.m.

Sponsored by the Marin County Industry-Education Council, the conference will be split into 10 workshops dealing with different aspects of the career field. Each session will be run twice so students can attend at least two of them.

The workshops will be on nursing, animal care, medical illustration and photography, mental health, allied hospital services, dental care, medical record and office, food and nutrition, service and operation of biomedical and optical equipment, and environmental health.

The career forum is the first of a series planned by the council this school year, a result of the success of its one-day career forum last srping which attracted more than 1,200 students and 100 business and industry representatives.

The series will be run with the cooperation of the county schools office.

The health careers conference, according to chairman Marcia Greil, will feature experts talking on training requirements, earning potential, working conditions and local and national job opportunities.

The conference is open to high school and college students, counselors and teachers.

Humorous 'Leaves' Can Grow On You

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — If you think you've got problems, visit Artie Shaughnessy at the Geary Theater where he is spinning his pipe dreams and desperations in John Guare's 1971 prize-winning bittersweet comedy, "The House of Blue Leaves."

The play, capably directed by Edward Hastings, opened Tuesday night to a partially filled house as the second offering of the season by the American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco.

It's a far cry from the opulent "Cyrano de Bergerzc" which opened ACT's seventh season Saturday night.

However, while the two are poles apart in approach, Guare's slice of life in a Queens, N.Y., tenement grows on you. The evening is laced with many, many humorous moments as well as heart-rending scenes.

As Artie says, "I work all day in a zoo and I come home to a zoo."

But Artie, wonderfully handled by Ed Flanders, has guts. His pipe dream of becoming a great popular songwriter keeps him from sinking. He has to have something going for him with a crazy wife — aptly named Bananas — clinging to him.

In many ways he reminds me of another frustrated soul — Willy Lohman in Arthur Miller's "Death of A Salesman."

Guare, who also supplies the musical score, in his play notes says, "I'm not interested so much in how people survive as how they avoid humiliation." He certainly brings this across in his terse dialogue.

Guare uses an important day in mid-20th Century for his setting — Oct. 4, 1965, the day Pope Paul visited New York City.

The madness involved as Guare weaves his story is sometimes a little too much, but it seems to jell very well.

Working very well with Flanders is Barbara Colby as Bunny, his hardboiled mistress who'll go to bed but won't cook gourmet dishes.

The challenging role of the madcap wife is in the capable hands of Joy Carlin, who is not as strong as Miss Colby, but manages to convey her pentup feelings very well.

The three nuns (Elizabeth Huddle, Judith Knaiz and Janie Atkins) add humorous touches.

Others in the cast include J. Steven White as the AWOL-son; Deborah May as the screen star, and E. Kerrigan Prescott, a little too pompous for my taste as Billy's lifelong friend who has made it to the top as a Hollywood director.

Billy's appearance in the play, however, is not necessary. The end of the first scene of Act II is an excellent closer as Bananas goes about cleaning the flat.

"Blue Leaves" now joins "Cyrano" in rotating repertory.

"THE HOUSE OF BLUE LEAVES" — A two-act play by John Guare; music and lyrics by Guare; presented by the American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco; directed by Edward Hastings; scenery by Ralph Funicello; costumes by Robert Morgan; lighting by F. Mitchell Dana. The cast: Ed Flaners, Artie; J. Steven White, Ronnie; Barbara Colby, Bunny; Joy Carlin, Bananas; Deborah May, Corrinna; Elizabeth Huddle, Judith Knaiz and Janie Atkings, the three nuns; Howard Sherman, M.P.; John Hancok, Whige Man; E. Kerrigan Prescott, Billy.

School Board Slates Closed Talk On Jobs

Mill Valley School District trustees will meet in closed session at 7 a.m. next Thursday to discuss the merits of applicants for the post of superintendent and to decide whether they need to hire a private consultant for advice in the selection.

Supt. James A. Collins was advised by an Independent-Journal reporter that meeting in closed session to decide if a private consultant is needed is not permitted under the Ralph M. Brown Act.

He said he would confer with board members and the Marin County Counsel before the board discussed that topic. He said the board would discuss hiring a private consultant if the county counsel said that was legal.

The breakfast meeting will take place at the Hick'ry Pit in Strawberry. Collins said trustees are meeting in the morning because it is the most convenient time.

The board is looking for a new superintendent to replace Collins, who will be transferred to a classroom teaching position in September.

Welfare Rolls Dip, Costs Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's welfare rolls dropped in September for the sixth consecutive monthly decline while costs for the state assistance program increased over the same period last year.

State Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson said there were 2,062,411 Californians on welfare in September, a decrease of 16,239 from last month.

Carleson said welfare costs for September were $161,857,517, a reduction of $2,324,615 over August, but an increase of $1,113,321 over September 1971.

Candidates' Common Area: Urban Sprawl

By JAY GOODWIN

Gary T. Giacomini and Michael R. Peevey last night differed more on means than on ends as they campaigned for a seat on the county board of supervisors from the fourth district.

Both candidates, competing to replace retiring supervisor Louis H. Barr, told the audience of about 150 poeple in the Corte Madera Recreation Center that they would work to prevent Marin County from becoming a sprawling urban area with indistinguishable communities like San Jose and San Mateo.

Giacomini, who said his campaign was based on two issues: environment and people, promised he would push for preservation of Northridge and the Tiburon Ridge. Such preservation, he said, would require the cooperation of both the county and cities involved.

Peevey agreed that the preservation of open space is vital and praised San Rafael and Tiburon for passing bond issues to acquire such lands.

The candidates disagreed on the proposed countywide general plan, with Giacomini supporting the drafted plan while Peevey opposed it.

Giacomini said that without a check on growth in Marin County, the population of Marin by 1990 will soar to between 400,000 and 800,000 people. He supported the plan, in part, because it would limit the population growth in the Corte Madera and Larkspur bowl to about 6,700 people.

Peevey said he opposed the plan because it would add about 70,000 people to the Highway 101 corridor. Like Giacomini, he said he opposed excessive growth in the county, but felt the general plan would not prevent that growth.

Peevey said the most important issue in the campaign was the fact that he intends to become a full-time supervisor if elected. He said the county's budget is too big and there are too many employees to be directed by a part-time supervisor.

Democratic candidate for the state Assembly, Harry Moore, also appeared at the candidates night. His opponent, incumbent Assemblyman William T. Bagley was unable to attend because he had a previous commitment in San Anselmo, according to an aide.

Moore said the people need an assemblyman who makes more of an effort to communicate with his constituents.

He admitted that he wasn't an experienced assemblyman, like his opponent, but said he could learn to be a good legislator.

He spoke of "putting reins on the lobbyists" in Sacramento who unfairly unfluence legislators and said he favored opening up the committees to public scrutiny.

In response to a question from the audience, he said he was opposed to state Proposition 19, because his experiences as an educator have convinced him that marijuana is harmful to students.

The candidates' night was sponsored by the Corte Madera Lions Club and Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club.

Southern Command Chief Will Retire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Gen. George V. Underwood, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Southern Command, announced Wednesday he plans to retire Jan. 31 "for physical reasons."

Underwood, 58, has commanded all U.S. military personnel in Central and South America for the past 14 months.

Fire Chief Wins Nomination Again

Col. George H. White was nominated last night to serve a fourth one-year term as chief of the Stinson Beach Volunteer Fire Department.

White's name was the only one placed in nomination at the volunteers' meeting.

An election will be held Nov. 15 and the community's 20 volunteer firemen will be eligible to vote for the post of chief.

Petaluma Gas Station Is Robbed of $50

A Petaluma gasoline service station was robbed of $50 last night, Petaluma police said today.

A man wearing a stocking mask and brandishing a .45 caliber semiautomatic pistol took the money from the register at the Beacon station, 296 Wilson Street, shortly after 9 p.m. No other details were available today; the holdup is under investigation, officers said.

Mailliard, Boas Continue Same Differing Dialogue

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and his Democratic challenger for the congressional seat, San Francisco Supervisor Roger Boas, last night traded criticism that has grown familiar through use in the long campaign.

Mailliard urged an audience of about 150 people at a candidates' night in the Corte Madera Recreation Center to "renew his two-year contract" because his 20 years in Congress was a valuable asset to his constituents.

"As a practical matter, anyone who knows the workings of Congress knows it's an advantage to understand what's going on there," he said.

He predicted it would take Boas 10 years to learn the mechanics of Congress and develop working relationships with the House's most powerful members.

Boas admitted his opponent had achieved considerable seniority in Congress, but claimed Mailliard had lost touch with his constituents.

"Mailliard is a prototype of a group of congressmen who aren't moving fast enougn," said Boas.

He repeated complaints that Mailliard hasn't opened a district office in Marin County and that he hasn't taken public positions on California's 22 ballot propositions.

Citing his influential position on the House Foreign Affairs and Merchant Marines and Fisheries committees, Mailliard said he offers results rather than promises to the district.

"Talk is cheap, but action turns into something of real benefit to the people," said Mailliard.

He cited passage of the Golden Gate Recreation Area bill as his most important legislative achievement of the recent session.

In response to a question from the audience, Mailliard said he was totally convinced that a cease fire in Vietnam could not have been signed three and a half years ago because North Vietnam was not willing. "It was only early in October that the North Vietnamese indicated that they would agree to a ceasefire and leave settlement of the political question to the future," said Mailliard.

Boas sharply disagreed with the incumbent's support of Nixon's Vietnam policy. He said that while he has been calling for an end to the war since 1966, Mailliard has been a defense department spokesman. "He acts and thinks like a rear admiral," said Boas.

In addition to Vietnam, Boas said he differed with Mailliard on economic issues, health care and joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base.

"Mailliard voted for the SST, for which I wouldn't have given a nickel," said Boas.

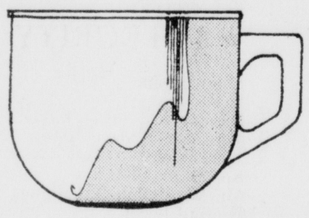

He also said he favored a national health insurance program "something like the (Edward) Kennedy plan.", while Mailliard supported a program that would depend on private insurance companies.

The program was sponsored by Corte Madera Lions Club and Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club.

7,064 Bus Riders Reported Yesterday

A record 7,064 commuters rode Golden Gate Bridge District buses yesterday between 6 and 10 a.m., the district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, reported today.

The previous record was 6,941 on Oct. 25.

There's more than one issue at stake . . .

Economist MICHAEL PEEVEY Supervisor, Fourth District

Preserving the quality of our environment is a very big issue . . .

- Open space acquisition
- Balanced transportation
- Controlling high density development
- Providing more parks

It may not be popular to say so but let's not forget the reality of "how are we going to pay for all of this."

As a trained economist, Mike Peevey knows the ins and outs of the kind of "budgetary politics" which are prevalent at the Civic Center.

Michael Peevey is committed to working to reduce the staggering cost of administering county government.

He has a specific program for:

1. Reorganizing the bureaucratic structure at the Civic Center and reducing the number of county departments.
2. Creating a Supervisor's Committee on County Government Operations and the Budget.
3. Holding the line on the number of county employees.
4. Consolidating city-county services such as the multiplicity of small, polluting sewage districts.

Reorienting budgetary priorities is a tough job. It won't be easy. Department heads are a formidable political force.

We are supporting Michael Peevey because he has the experience and training to represent all of the voters not just one particular special interest group.

Study Tells Average Car Crash Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Dodge Coronet and the Plymouth Satellite have the lowest average accident repair cost and the Chevrolet Corvette highest, according to a study by four insurance companies.

The Coronet and the Satellite averaged repair costs estimates of $282 after crashes, the study indicated. The Corvette accident repair costs averaged $522.

The study involved accident repair claims made for 70 car models. According to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS), which released the report, the study covered 89,060 crash repair estimates made on 1969 through 1972 cars.

The study showed the most expensive cars —Lincoln Continental, Cadillac, Corvette, and Lincoln Continental Mark III — had the highest repair costs.

The data collected for the study came from Allstate, Kemper, Liberty Mutual, and State Farm Mutual insurance companies.

"The study found that the 1972 model cars are more expensive to repair than earlier models," the IIHS said.

Repairs on 1972 model cars cost an average of $339 —about six per cent higher than repairs recorded for 1971 models during the same period, and about eight per cent higher than repairs on 1969 models," the Institute said.

From data collected by the study, the researchers also concluded that:

—Sixty per cent of all crashes produce damage to one or both bumpers. This statistic "calls attention" to the bumper itself as a significant producer of crash repair costs.

—Front and rear ends are involved about equally in low speed crashes.

—Fenders and panels are damaged even more frequently than bumpers indicating a better need for protection for "these high cost components."

Thousand-To-One

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Las Vegas oddsmaker Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder said today the odds against Democratic Sen. George S. McGovern winning the presidential election were 1,000-to-1.

Some Radio And TV Regulations Changed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Communications Commission moved today to remove certain technical phases of radio and TV broadcasting from its regulation, including abandoning the hourly station identification break.

In what was described as the first phase of a continuing der-eg-ulation, the FCC announced a series of rule changes effective Dec. 15.

One of the prime changes will permit broadcast stations to make their station identification at a natural break in the program as close to the hour as feasible. At present the station identification break must come within two minutes of the hour for TV stations and within two minutes of the hour and hlafhour forradio stations.

"It is neither a sop to the industry nor is it the dawning of some new day around here," Chairman Dean Burch told a news conference. "It will come as a great disappointment for those who looked for abrogation of the Fairness Doctrine."

Other changes for the estimated 7,500 radio broadcasters and nearly 1,000 TV stations cover meter-reading; transmitter inspection; taped, filmed or recorded material; logging; rebroadcasting programs on another station, and filing certain contracts.

The commission said it was considering other changes "to reflect more accurately the present state of broadcast technology and operations."

The changes include:

—Permitting certain meter readings of all broadcast transmitting stations to be made every three hours instead of every 30 minutes.

—AM, FM and educational FM transmitting equipment may be inspected once a week at intervals of not less than five days, instead of once a day five days a week.

—Broadcast stations' operating and maintenance logs may be consolidated.

—Rebroadcasting the program of another station will require only the consent of the originating station, and not the authority of the FCC or notification of consent to the FCC as presently required. Copies of written consent for rebroadcast must be kept at the rebroadcasting station, available for inspection on request.

—Taped, filmed or recorded material in which time is of special significance or by which an affirmative attempt is made to create the impression that it is occurring simultaneously with the broadcast must be identified at the beginning as taped, filmed or recorded. The rule does not apply to commercials or public service announcements, and daily announcements by a station that some of its network programs were taped for later broadcast is no longer required.

—Copies of broadcasts concerning time-brokers, subsidiary communications authorization operations and time sales of more than four hours daily to one sponsor need no longer be filed with the commission.

Average Pot User Young White Male

DALLAS (UPI) — A law professor says the average person arrested for possession of marijuana is a young, white, single male who is a permanent resident of his locality and is either a student or a blue collar worker.

Southern Methodist University professor Robert Bogomolmy reached this conclusion in a study of more than 800 cases in Dallas during research for the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse.

20 for Fluoridation

SAN FRANCISCANS HAVE NOW been drinking fluoridated water for 20 years — two full decades — and the Health Department reports that their daily consumption of one part fluoride to a million parts water has in no way adversely affected their health.

At the same time, dentists report a "high percentage of reduction in tooth decay," and at a cost estimated at 10 cents per capita.

Sewer Area Fund Pleas 'Fruitless'

A citizens committee last night told the San Rafael Sanitation District board the efforts to obtain federal funding to help finance Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District have been fruitless.

The committee was charged with finding outside funds to help finance the project in wake of news that district costs may run $180,000 more than estimated.

The cost of the district could run as high as $866,000, according to Virginia Congdon, district secretary.

The board decided to ease the financial burden by issuing bonds for a 25-year period, rather than only 15 years as first planned, she said.

The cost to a homeowner owning property with an assessed valuation of $5,000 would be about $350 a year, she said.

The board called another public hearing on formation of the assessment district for Nov. 27 at 5 p.m. in city hall.

Students Will Get Moon Launch Credit

CHICO, Calif. (UPI)—Up to 95 science students will get university credit for watching the launch of Apollo 16 scheduled from Cape Kennedy Dec. 6.

The special class is being offered by the California State University to send the students to the Cape in a flying classroom. They'll be given lectures on the way to watch the moon shot and on the way back will fly over parts of Arizona and New Mexico.

Indictment Is Issued In $3,500 Aid Fraud

A Hayward women, said to have claimed public aid because a back injury ended her topless dancing career, was indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of welfare fraud, perjury and petty theft.

The indictment charges the tall 27-year-old — who reportedly has used four names to obtain aid in the past three years — with obtaining $3,523 in undeserved aid from Marin County alone.

The overpayments of aid to families with dependent children are said to have occurred between January 1971 and September 1972.

The grand jury also found evidence the woman purjured herself when she signed a welfare form Aug. 16 stating she was receiving only $190 a month public assistance and concluded she received food stamps she wasn't eligible for.

The woman, who claimed to live in Fairfax, used the name Lia Culcleasure Stahrlite to obtain welfare in Marin.

But, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams, she was using three other names to obtain aid in San Francisco and Alameda counties, calling herself Lia Culcleasure, Lia Stanton and Alicia Stephenson.

Hyams said that during one month this year she may have received five welfare checks from Marin, San Francisco and Alameda. She may also have been earning $125 a week as a furniture refinisher, he said.

The elaborate aid arrangement began crumbling in September when a state computer checking for welfare violation discovered aid was being dispensed in both San Francisco and Marin under the same social security number, according to Hyams.

Marin cut off aid to Miss Stahrlite and so did San Francisco where she allegedly received both aid for her young child and aid for the totally disabled.

She obtained the disability checks by claiming she could not dance topless because of a back injury, Hyams said.

She was arrested Oct. 18 by a Marin investigator at the Alameda County welfare office.

In addition to the welfare charges, she faces counts of writing bad checks in San Francisco and San Jose.

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—The Michigan Department of Corrections has drawn up a questionaire it's giving to men leaving Michigan prisons to find out what they think of prisons and what improvements should be made.

Petaluman Killed In Auto Crash

One Petaluma man was fatally injured and another seriously hurt in a two-car collision last night at Railroad Avenue and Old Redwood Highway near Cotati, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Glen C. Porter, 65, of 804 Arden Way, Petaluma, died at 12:10 a.m. today in Hillcrest Hospital, four hours after he suffered multiple injuries in the accident.

Porter was a passenger in the auto driven by Joseph Lopes, 70, of 337 Liberty Street, who was reported in serious condition today with chest injuries, in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The patrol reported that Lopes stgpped at the intersection, then pulled into the path of an oncoming car driven by Monty Dutton, 18, of 7518 Boris Court, Rohnert Park. Officers said Dutton locked his car's brakes, skidding some 60 feet trying to avoid the collision. Dutton was not hospitalized.

Funeral arrangements for Porter were pending at the Parent Funeral Chapel in Petaluma.

Former Pollution Chief Has Some Critical Words

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The former head of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District yesterday criticized it and similar agencies throughout the nation for doing too little. (Another pollution story, page 1.)

"These agencies are running behind the public in meeting the legitimate demand for clear air," Benjamin Linsky told newsmen.

He blamed what he saw as the lack of action on "massive resistance" by industry to air pollution control.

Linsky stood up in the audience to announce that he had come "to see what has happened to the district since I got fired."

He told newsmen that he had been forced by the board of directors to resign in 1963 because "I was trying to move too fast to prevent another Los Angeles." He was replaced by the district's current administrator, D.J. Callaghan. Linsky was the district's first officer when it was created in 1955.

Linsky now heads the graduate program in air pollution control he founded at West Virginia University.

Linsky, noting that critics of Callaghan have just had a management study made of the district, observed that a similar study was used in 1963 "as a springboard to get rid of me."

He also had sharp words about the district's former legal counsel, Matthew S. Walker, who resigned recently. Linsky said that Walker, by campaigning throughout the nation against a permit system for polluters, "retarded things that otherwise might have been done."

Linsky said he was not engaged in a "vendetta. This is just a statement of things as they are."

He said his failure when he headed the district was not to have used support by citizen groups pushing for tougher controls on polluters to overcome industry.

Oakland City Aide Replaces Walker As Smog Unit Counsel

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors yesterday hired a deputy city attorney from Oakland to fill the vacant seat of legal counsel.

The board voted unanimously to hire David A. Self, 32, of Berkeley, a 1965 graduate of Harvard Law School. He will take the $27,000-a-year position at the end of this month.

The position has been vacant since June 15, when former counsel Matthew S. Walker resigned to join the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The board has been using Oakland attorney Robert T. Anderson as its temporary counsel, paying him $50 an hour. Eighty-eight penalty cases were pending in court as of yesterday.

Self graduated in 1958 from Pomona College where he was student body president. After Harvard, he served as law clerk to U.S. District Judge William C. Mathes in San Francisco.

After two years with a San Francisco law firm, he joined the City of Oakland in 1968. His resume said his city work involved special attention to the fields of taxation, ecology legislation, cable television, elections and civil rights.

He is married and has three children.

Self is the second counsel in the district's 17-year history, Walker having served since the district was formed in 1955.

Industry Move To Weaken Odor Laws Is Defeated

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A narrow majority of Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors yesterday defeated what they termed a move by industry to weaken tough new limits on odors.

The limits, adopted in August, are based on odor concentrations measured at the top of smokestacks.

Every major oil and chemical company objected unsuccessfully last summer that the intensity of the five proscribed odors should be measured outside the fence of each industrial plant. The board approved the limits 11-2 in August, with five board members absent.

The result, however, almost was reversed yesterday in a 9-4 vote to adopt the system pushed by industry, again with five absent. It takes 10 votes for board action.

Spokesmen for industry argued again that the district was supposed to be concerned with protecting the public from odors, not workers within industrial plants.

This was criticized as "19th Century thinking" by director Stephen Fraser, a Sausalito city councilman. He joined the minority to prevent weakening the odor regulation.

The board agreed to take up the issue again at its Dec. 6 meeting. Marin's other representative on the board, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., was absent campaigning.

In other business, the board received the monthly staff report on violation notices, including two issued against Sohner Tree Service Inc. in Larkspur and Russell H. Imbeck of San Rafael.

Apartment Plans Given Approval

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night approved plans for 92 apartment units on 5.9 acres at the end of Hill Road near Indian Valley Road.

The plan by Robert Kagan includes 26 one-bedroom units, 58 two-bedroom units and eight three-bedroom units at the site adjacent to Hill Junior High School and Rancho Elementary School.

The committee continued until Nov. 15 making recommendations on new guidelines for committee action.

Cabinet Ranking Is No Guarantee

HOBRO, Denmark (UPI)—Being a cabinet minister is no guarantee for easy access to the Folketing (Parliament) as Ib Frederiksen, Minister for Agriculture, learned.

Social Democratic voters preferred a local bricklayer, Poul Mortensen, as the candidate for a parliamentary seat.

Schools Committee Selects Kudler

Dr. Joel J. Kudler, a Sausalito dentist, was chosen last night as temporary chairman of the Sausalito School District's master plan steering committee, a citizens group appointed by the district board to formulate a long range master plan for the district.

Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg said the 15-member committee scheduled its next meeting for next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the district office. At that time the committee plans to divide into subcommittee, appoint a permanent chairman and review procedures for gathering information necessary for the master plan.

Drug-Smuggling Case Is Moved

A 35-year-old Santa Rosa woman said to have smuggled drugs to her inmate husband at San Quentin Prison has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to appear Nov. 13.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court ruled there was enough evidence to try Ruby Bonita Medina on an amended charge of taking secobarbital into the prison.

She originally was charged with taking in cocaine pending analysis of three balloons of white powder.

She was arrested July 24 during an overnight visit to her husband, Benjamin, when he appeared to be "under the influence of something" at morning roll call, according to prison officials.

They said Mrs. Medina was carrying a half-consumed bottle of bourbon and the three balloons.

Roumiguiere Asks Recant On Recall

Marin Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere said today he tended to believe published reports of a recall movement against him involving a candidate for the board, and called upon the candidate to recant.

Roumiguiere, in a statement delivered to the Independent-Journal, attacked Gary T. Giacomini, aspirant for the Fourth Supervisorial District seat at Tuesday's elections, and said the candidate should either "withdraw the charges attributed to him or else admit to them so that we can openly discuss them."

Giacomini today repeated denial of any recall involvement and said there was nothing to recant.

According to a published report in yesterday's issue of a Southern Marin weekly, Giacomini is quoted as saying at a campaign coffee in Larkspur last Saturday that he would either lead or support an effort to oust the newly-appointed Roumiguiere from office.

Roumiguiere, an open supporter and financial contributor to the campaign of Giacomini's opponent, Michael R. Peevey, told the I-J yesterday he doubted Giacomini would make such remarks, but his position had changed today after conferring with representatives of the newspaper which ran the story, the Mill Valley Record.

Roumiguiere said in the statement that Giacomini "apparently... has lied" in denying he made the remarks attributed to him.

Roumiguiere said, "His liberal, often far left philosophies, his immaturity, his lack of dignity and honesty do not speak well for his candidacy."

In his renewed denial today, Giacomini told the I-J that he said at the coffee that he "wouldn't be surprised if there is a recall" if Roumiguiere's votes on development matters "continue the way they have been."

"I was asked whether I would be involved in a recall. I said jokingly that nobody had asked me to chair any recall. It was an offhand, nonserious thing."

Giacomini acknowledged calling Roumiguiere's appointment "disastrous" and raising conflict of interest questions about the supervisor's votes on West Marin development issues. Roumiguiere is a real estate man.

Group Supports Develop Pact

The Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association last night endorsed a proposal by Mid-City Developers Inc. to build 44 apartments and condominiums in that community, according to secretary Flossie Berry.

The Washington, D.C. firm was selected by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency recently to complete redevelopment of residential land in Marin City, winning out over four other developers who had also submitted proposals for the property.

Last week the agency board agreed not to sign a contract with Mid-City until Monday to give its project area committee more time to register any objections it may have to the development proposal.

Overloaded Circuit Sets Home Blaze

An electrical fire caused by an overloaded circuit caused heavy damage to a Sausalito apartment yesterday and lesser damage to two other dwellings in the building.

Firemen said the blaze began about 8:33 a.m. in the basement of a four-story wood frame house at 55 Sunshine Avenue converted into five apartments.

The flames spread through the walls and into a first-floor apartment occupied by Elaine Dine, causing smoke and heat damage to the dwelling and $4,000 damage to its contents.

The fire also caused smoke damage to two other units occupied by Claire Mitchell and Pat Anderson, according to firemen.

Total damage to the building was estimated at $10,000.

Firemen controlled the blaze within minutes but spent more than two hours checking the structure to insure the fire had not spread further into its walls.

Attempt To Bomb Marin City Building Brings Prison Term

By LARRY MOWELL

A 21-year-old San Franciscan convicted in connection with an attempt to bomb the Marin City Public Safety Building was sentenced today to state prison by a Marin Superior Court judge who called the crime "an act of pure terrorism".

Judge Henry J. Broderick ordered Eddie Lee Griffin Jr. to prison for five years to life for first degree burglary. He said it was hard to sentence Griffin because he had no criminal background yet easy because of the offense.

"If you rank crimes on the level of despicability, I think a bomber would be more despicable than a murderer," Broderick said.

The judge said it was little comfort to him that deputy sheriff Raymond T. Rhia caught Griffin before he could plant a dynamite bomb in the unfinished building on April 27.

"It was an act of pure terrorism and terrorism can't be tolerated in a free society," the judge said. Especially in Marin where bombing and killing have taken place in the courthouse, terrorism cannot be ignored for rehabilitation, the judge said.

The probation report, although noting Griffin once was a Black Panther, said he was not a violent person and recommended a year in jail with probation.

Probation officer Georgia Sells reported Griffin dropped out of the militant black group because of "his fear of violent confrontation."

Griffin's father, after breaking into tears, said his son was not a violent child and Griffin softly added in his own behalf: "In a lot of ways I can't help but feel it was like a warning, God's way of telling me to straighten up for all that I have done."

Griffin's attorney, Robert A. Dorne, called him "a misdirected youth of enormous potential" remorseful for his crime.

Griffin was arrested by Rhia after he tried to crawl through an unfinished vent into the $110,000 building which now houses a sheriff's office and fire department.

Rhia was assigned to guard the building at night after the sheriff's department heard rumors it would be bombed.

Griffin admitted going to the building, but said he never stuck his head in. A Marin jury disbelieved his story, which would have dictated an attempted burglary conviction, and Sept. 21 found him guilty of the more serious burglary charge.

Rhia said he caught Griffin after a homemade alarm he placed over the door opening was triggered. Outside the door was a bomb. Griffin was ordered to carry the bomb to a nearby eucalyptus grove where it exploded harmlessly.

Only after the bomb was disposed of did the deputy learn Griffin was carrying a loaded pistol.

First-degree burglary in Griffin's case was defined as entering a building with intent to commit a crime while armed.

Burned Bird Is Recovering

A parrot, badly burned in a Sausalito apartment fire Monday night, was reported "recovering nicely" today at Ross Valley Veterinary Hospital and was to be sent home later today.

The bird, owned by James Barnet, of 90 Princess Street, was hospitalized with burns over most of its body following a fire in Barnet's apartment which sustained an estimated $18,000 damage.

Firemen reported that Barnet rushed back into the burning apartment to save his pet, which was rescued with his feathers on fire, squawking and shouting obscenities.

Congress Probe Of GOP Urged

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., plans to push for a congressional investigation into Republican campaign tactics. He said Wednesday alleged GOP sabotage efforts were "the dirtiest kind of politics."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who joined Mills at a news conference, said the Republican campaign "smacks of... fascism."

"I'm mad about what's taking place in this campaign," said Mills. "It adds up to the dirtiest kind of politics I've seen in 34 years I've been in Congress."

New York is a nice place to visit but you wouldn't want to pay taxes there.

New York City is on the ragged edge of financial disaster largely because most of the public employees make more money than most of the public.

New York has no workable way to prevent strikes or curb the runaway pay of the people whose salaries are paid with tax money.

Can it happen in California?

It can happen in California.

California, like New York City, has no effective way to keep state pay in line or to prevent costly strikes by state employees.

It also has no way to stop a handful of politicians from manipulating state funds. (The way things are now, a small powerful group in Sacramento is able to take money away from legitimate pay raises voted by the legislature for state college professors, highway patrolmen, fire fighters and other state employees, and put it aside for their own pet projects.)

The conflict has already led to strikes. It has also led to a record number of state employees quitting their jobs in the past two years.

All the failings of the present system can be eliminated by the passage of Proposition 15.

Proposition 15 will put a ceiling as well as a floor on state pay.

Proposition 15 will prevent costly strikes by state employees.

Proposition 15 will take the politics out of state pay.

Proposition 15 will give control of the public payroll back to the public.

After all, it's your money.

Don't let New York happen in California. Vote Yes on 15.

*WE STRONGLY URGE YOU TO VOTE FOR GEORGE McGOVERN for PRESIDENT

The New York Times calls McGovern . . . the man with the right priorities . . . a humanitarian with courage & honesty.

We are deeply distressed by the failures of the Nixon Administration to deal effectively with the pressing problems facing our nation.

1. Richard Nixon has failed to fulfill his pledge to make our lives free from violent crime, as evidenced by

- A 32% increase in serious crimes over the last three years.
- His refusal to support effective gun control legislation.
- An Increase of over 100% in the number of heroin-addicted men and women.
- Inadequate funding of job training and drug education programs to combat the causes of crime.
- Inept and wasteful handling of Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds appropriated by Congress to fight crime.

2. Richard Nixon has run a scandal-ridden administration with special favors for the rich, as evidenced by

- A $10,000,000 secret campaign fund in defiance of the principles of the Federal Election Campaign Act which President Nixon praised and signed.
- The advance tip-offs to grain exporters who made millions of dollars on the Soviet wheat deal at the expense of American farmers and consumers.
- The controversial settlement of the I.T.T. anti-trust suit following the promise of a substantial contribution to the benefit of the Republican Party by an I.T.T. subsidiary.
- The bugging and burglarizing of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate.

3. The Nixon administration has exhibited incompetent management of the economy, as evidenced by

- A four year budgetary deficit ($90.1 billion) exceeding the combined deficits of the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations.
- An 85% increase in the number of unemployed, from 2.6 million to 4.8 million people.
- A 66% increase in the welfare rolls, from 6.2 million people to 10.3 million people.
- An inflationary increase of 17.6% in the consumer price index.
- A 5.3% increase in the number of Americans living below the poverty level.

4. The Nixon administration has continued the unconscionable and inhumane war in Southeast Asia which has resulted in

- Another 20,000 American servicemen dead (40% of all American combat deaths).
- Another 110,000 wounded American servicemen.
- Another 500 American prisoners of war and missing in action.
- Another 3.7 million tons of bombs dropped on Indochina.
- An enormous increase in the flow of heroin from Southeast Asia.
- A daily war cost to the American public of $25 million.

5. Richard Nixon has shown disrespect and contempt for the law and our civil liberties as evidenced by his

- Attempts to undermine the Voting Rights Act.
- Failure of the Justice Department to enforce the 14th Amendment and the civil rights laws enacted under it.
- Demeaning of our Federal Courts by the consistent selection of mediocre nominees, such as Carswell and Haynsworth for the Supreme Court.
- Attempts to suppress publication of the Pentagon Papers in newspapers throughout the country.
- Persistent intimidation of the press and other news media.
- Encouragement and defense of the illegal arrest of 13,000 citizens during the May Day demonstrations in Washington.
- Introduction of no-knock entry and preventive detention legislation and the widespread use of wiretapping, eavesdropping, and other forms of surveillance.
- Encouragement of defiance and disobedience of Federal Court desegregation orders.
- Use of criminal prosecutions and federal grand juries to stifle dissent.

We are persuaded by Senator McGovern's character and record that he will succeed where Richard Nixon has failed.

1. Senator McGovern has developed a sound program to deal with the rising crime rate. It includes

- A tougher crackdown on heroin trafficking and more effective treatment for heroin addicts.
- Stricter control on the sale and possession of handguns and more stringent penalties for their use in violent crimes.
- A Policeman's Bill of Rights to make police work an even more professional career.
- A detailed legislative program for court reform.
- Improvement of correctional facilities to provide genuine rehabilitation.

2. Senator McGovern is committed to public interest of the American People rather than the special interests of the favored few, as evidenced by his

- Voluntary disclosure of all his campaign financing.
- Advocacy of a Consumer Protection Agency and sponsorship of a Truth in Advertising Bill.
- Call for reordering of national priorities including emphasis upon environmental protection and public transportation.

3. Senator McGovern, working with leading economists, has a sound plan for full employment and economic justice. He urges reforming our tax system and eliminating unnecessary military expenditures to make $52 billion in revenue available in order to

- Build schools and hospitals.
- Clean up our environment.
- Create millions of new jobs in private industry.
- Pay ⅓ of the cost of elementary and secondary schooling.
- Provide decent minimum care for dependent mothers and children, the aged, the blind, the handicapped and the sick.

4. Senator McGovern has long articulated a constructive approach to foreign policy including

- A complete and immediate halt to American intervention in Indochina.
- An immediate return of our Prisoners of War and accounting of our missing in action.
- A long-standing call for re-examination of America's China policy.
- Consistent support for the State of Israel and vigorous condemnation of the Soviet Union's restrictive policy on emigration to Israel.
- Genuine international cooperation and consultation rather than the Nixon policy of militarism, unilateralism and power politics.
- Cooperation with Congress in the formulation of foreign policy.

5. Senator McGovern has shown his devotion to the Constitution, as evidenced by his

- Co-sponsorship of all major civil rights legislation enacted during the last decade.
- Support of the Equal Rights For Women Amendment.
- Dedication to First Amendment freedoms by actions such as support for disclosure of the Pentagon Papers.
- Opposition to the nominations of Haynsworth, Carswell and Rehnquist.
- Opposition to the District of Columbia Crime Bill (with its provisions for no-knock entry and preventive detention) and to electronic eavesdropping and government use of computerized dossiers.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Supervisor Races: Our Endorsement

Two out of five of Marin County's supervisors will be chosen by voters next Tuesday. A third is brand new on the board, having been appointed in September by Gov. Ronald Reagan. A fourth has served two years. Only Michael Wornum in the Second District, who won re-election in the primary, will have completed a term by next Jan. 1.

This situation bears most heavily on voters in the Second (Ross Valley) District. They can keep another supervisor who has had one term's experience in office, or they can name another new member, one who is without public office experience of any kind.

THIS, WE FEEL, weights the scales in favor of Peter R. Arrigoni, the incumbent. Reviewing his four years in office, we find he has shown increasing understanding of county and district problems, and increasing awareness of the need for better spending control by the county.

His opponent, Barbara Boxer, opened her primary campaign with great promise. She did a personal study of the proposed budget and suggested a series of cuts. She gave evidence of considerable understanding of the county government structure, despite complete lack of experience in it. And she talked much about cutting taxes.

As the campaign has progressed, however, Mrs. Boxer's expertise has turned out to be rather shallow. And, while talking of cutting costs, she has espoused a series of proposals which would inflate county spending (one small example being the proposal to have the county underwrite a rock music hall for a private group).

We feel, therefore, that the voters of the Second District would be well advised to retain Peter Arrigoni in office — for the sake of continuity and to keep the understanding he has acquired the hard way in the past four years.

IN THE FOURTH District — that gerrymandered creation wandering from West Marin to San Quentin — there is no possibility of retaining experience. The incumbent, Louis H. Baar, decided not to seek reelection. The choice is between Gary Giacomini and Michael R. Peevey.

Giacomini is a lifetime Marin resident. He has some local government experience from serving on the Lagunitas School District board.

However, as the campaign has developed, Giacomini has more and more embraced the same kind of free-spending proposals that weaken Mrs. Boxer's case. And he has shown little consistency.

Peevey appears the more level-headed and consistent of the two. However, it remains a question whether he will be a supervisor "for all the people," as he claims, or for the California Federation of Labor, which now employs him. It is notable that the North Bay Labor Journal, which goes to union members in Marin, Sonoma, Lake and Mendocino counties, made only one recommendation for a county supervisor in any of the four: Mike Peevey in Marin.

We therefore cannot with confidence endorse Peevey. And we can endorse Giacomini only with some reservations.

Broadway In Marin

When the Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium was a-building, hardly anyone thought the facility could attract a Broadway musical. Those few enthusiasts who suggested that it might bring such entertainment to Marin were dismissed as unrealistic visionaries.

Well, it's happened. Patrice Munsel and the Broadway touring company of "Applause" will play a one-night stand in the auditorium Saturday.

It's a first in Marin entertainment history. If successful, it will be the first of many. Here's hoping!

SACRAMENTO SCENE

What's Legislature Likely To Do Now? Not Much

By EARL G. WATERS

There is speculation as to what can be expected from the Legislature when it returns from its campaign recess Nov. 8. The "time out" was called on Aug. 4 when it became obvious to everyone that nothing was going to be settled prior to the November election.

Speaker Bob Moretti had planned for an earlier recess, partly because he wanted to attend the National Democratic Convention (which he did anyway) and because all assemblymen's terms were up for renewal. However, since none of the senators were members of the winning presidential delegation and only half of them faced November elections, there wasn't much interest on the part of the Senate in an early recess.

THE LEGISLATURE had reconvened last January. Its first order of business was to adjourn the 1971 session. That was because they had gone all year without being able to agree on anything, even adjournment.

Having been compelled to declare the 1971 session ended, the 1972 session commenced. It was confronted with all of the unsolved problems of the year before plus some new ones. Major issues which were unsettled included those of taxes, reapportionment and school financing. Some other issues loomed large such as automobile insurance costs, pollution and conservation. Forgotten were the problems affecting urban living, once brought forcefully to everyone's attention by the Watts riot. Apparently the lawmakers are operating on the theory that if a problem is ignored long enough it will go away.

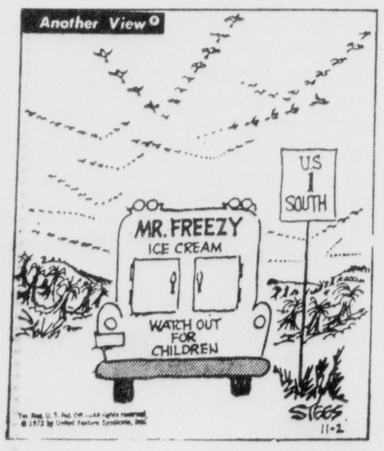

The conjecture over what will now occur when the lawmakers come back on Nov. 8 is understandable. How can one predict what 120 members, who have been unable to solve any problems in the last two years, will now do?

For, regardless of election results, this end-of-the-year session will be composed of the same members who have been in disagreement since January of 1971. The new members elected next Tuesday will not take their seats until next January. If present election predictions hold true there will be little change then.

THERE SEEMS LITTLE likelihood that any of the ballot measures will spur the Legislature into activity, even though one initiative, Proposition 14, if approved by the voters could make some substantial changes in thinking and plans for tax reforms. And, despite the promises made by those opposing the measure that the Legislature or somebody will provide a tax reform program, the chances are dim for any immediate action by the Legislature this year, if Proposition 14 is defeated.

What can be reasonably expected is that the Legislature will try to pass a reapportionment bill. This is because the Supreme Court has declared it will do the remapping if the lawmakers don't. If they do pass something there is still a question of whether Governor Reagan will sign it.

It can also be expected with some certainty that the Legislature will act to undo the freeze on building which resulted from passage of a hastily conceived planning bill two years ago. This is because the Supreme Court took the law seriously and ordered a halt to all building permits until the terms of the law were met.

"I'll vote for any candidate who promises tax breaks for dogless families."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Finds Redevelopment Possibilities Disturbing

I am sorry to report to the people of a city that is one of the last bastions of conservative free enterprise in the U.S., the following facts from the recent San Rafael City Council hearing on redevelopment.

Regardless of whether or not you are for redevelopment, the following items may be of interest:

(1) Property owners in the redevelopment area will surrender final say on whether or not they are permitted to own their property to the redevelopment agency.

(2) In all probability, should increased property taxes be required in the future to finance schools, police, etc., they will come mostly from homeowners and businesses outside the redevelopment area.

(3) For obscure reasons the council seems determined to ram this thing through before the year end.

(4) The decision of whether items like 1, 2, or 3 are put into effect will not be left to the people but will be decided solely by the city council regardless of the desires of the people.

(5) By the vocal support evidenced by the audience it is conservative to say at least half the people present opposed undertaking the redevelopment plan in its present form at this time.

I urge all interested people, particularly homeowners and small businessmen who are located outside the redevelopment area, to attend the next meeting which I am glad the council decided to hold, Nov. 6 at 8 p.m. at the San Rafael City Hall.

All Should Learn 'Star-Spangled Banner'

Firstly, your sarcastic article of the Veteran's Day parade at the Civic Center was uncalled for. My 11-year-old daughter felt proud to march in the parade.

Secondly, why do people attack our national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner"? Why, because they don't know it — it was never taught. Elementary school children are taught "My Country 'Tis of Thee" — the melody of England's national anthem, and "America the Beautiful". There is no attempt at teaching the singing of our own anthem and no explacation of why and how it was written and what the words mean. I have been made aware of this vividly at Girl Scout day camp where I make an effort to teach our anthem. With our 200th birthday approaching why don't we all make an effort to teach and learn our own anthem? As a teacher in the public schools I implore elementary teachers and high school music teachers to teach the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." And have the students teach the parents. There shouldn't be soloists at football games — let's all sing it. By the way how about the key of F or the key of A for bandsmen?

Who Is Spending Against Fluoridation?

As a supporter of fluoridation, I find it interesting that the opposition to Proposition B has as yet failed to file a financial statement.

It is to be noted with interest that a good deal of campaigning and costly printing has been done. From whom, or what organizations were these funds allocated? Why have they not made public their sources? Do these opponents fear loss of support if their benefactors be known to the public?

The benefits of fluoride are well known and proponents include in its supporters the American Dental Association, the American Medical Association and the U.S. Public Health Service. Who are the oppositions and why are they spending so heavily to defeat Proposition B? The people have a right to know.

In U.S. Foreign Policy, Not A Dime's Difference

It is rather amusing to hear and read all the political fanfare going on today between the two major poltiical parties at the national level as to how our foreign policy should or should not be conducted. The present administration has its Henry Kissinger and the opposition party has as chief foreign policy adviser one Abram J. Chayes. Both of these men are members of the Council on Foreign Relations, a group of some 1,500 members that are otherwise known as the "Un-elected Rulers of America". Mr. Kissinger (initials HAK) used to be foreign policy advisor to the Rockefellers, and when the late John Kennedy was in the White House both of these men were working there together to advise the late President on foreign policy, as noted in Arthur Schlesinger's book, "A Thousand Days".

And the American people have a choice at the national level? What a laugh!

As the American party presidential candidate, John Schmitz has stated: "... The major parties are socialist party A and socialist party B and not a dime's worth of difference between them." And I might add that with our present and continuing rate of inflation we should have at least nine cents change coming!

Pharmacist Recognizes Need For Fluoridation

In Marin County pharmacists have always supervised the dispensing of fluoride supplements to individual patients, and pharmacists encourage parents to give their children fluoride supplements because of their documented benefits to reduce the rate of dental caries. Furthermore, the drug is safe to use for prolonged periods of time, especially in children. Marin County pharmacists recommend that all children living in Marin County receive fluoride supplements.

However, in attempting to carry out this recommendation, pharmacists are faced with several barriers. The fact of the matter is that some parents are not aware of the benefits of fluoride, and they do not have a physician or dentist to prescribe fluoride. Or they think our water is already fluoridated, like the rest of the Bay Area counties. Or they haven't a prescription. Or cost, albeit low — three cents a day — is a factor. Or even if they have the medication, they forget to take it or have it refilled again. Pharmacists, in recognizing the limitations of a basically "patient initiated" prescription system (where the patient must expend some effort to bring the prescription to the pharmacist), and in realizing the benefits of this drug, are willing to give up their traditional function in favor of water fluoridation. They feel that this is the safe and practical means of providing all children with a beneficial drug on a regular basis.

'Blood Bath' Threat Is Hurled Anew As War Brought To End

WASHINGTON — The square jaw tightens. The cold war warrior out of so many past battles says of the Kissinger peace plan: "A sellout! Just like Poland and the other sellouts. We can expect our ally, President Thieu, to last about three months and then we'll see a massacre in South Vietnam."

This is the threatened backlash, the blood bath, that President Nixon himself held out in warning against anything less than an "honorable peace." That threat has been a source of bitter controversy.

Called a myth by those who have all along insisted the President might have moved at any time beginning in 1969 for a compromise peace, it has been championed by adherents of the President as an omnibus cloud over the future of Vietnam. They cite the Communist massacres at Hue during the Tet offensive of 1968 as evidence. The mass graves uncovered after Hue was retaken were mute proof of the reprisals against those who had collaborated with the Thieu government, as was the disappearance of at least 12 Americans caught when the ancient city was overrun.

SOMETHING LIKE this may happen but it certainly will not occur in the foreseeable future. The Kissinger-Hanoi agreement provides a restraint on reprisals although how that can be enforced is one of the ambiguities in a document as full of holes as a piece of Swiss cheese.

In the immediate aftermath with the election only a few days away, the disillusioned anti-Communists are surely a small minority. The nationwide reaction seems to be one of immense releif that the shooting may soon come to an end. Whatever the failures of the past four years to come to a similar agreement, the credit goes to the President and his adviser on national security. The Kissinger answer is that a peace short of the provisions in the plan agreed to by North Vietnam would have resulted in a blood bath in Vietnam and a backlash here at home.

The President was so far ahead on the Vietnam issue that even without the "peace is at hand" declaration he was ahead in the polls for having taken out nearly a half million American ground troups.

WHAT NEITHER the president nor any American on whatever political side can ignore is the terrible destruction worked on both Vietnams, Laos and Cambodia by the most massive bombing in history. The promise to heal the wounds of war and begin reconstruction must start at once, and it must be on a massive scale if it is to be more than a well intentioned gesture.

At least a half million new refugees have been generated since the start of North Vietnam's Easter offensive. They live in miserable refugee camps keptalive by subsistence allowances. Thousands of little Vietnamese Tanyas and their mothers are in crude and overcrowded hospitals suffering from the terrible burns of napalm and the deep wounds of antipersonnel bombs. To bring anything approaching adequate medical aid to these innocent victims of the American air war is in itself a monumental task.

The next phase in Vietnam will bring widespread trouble in the attempt to enforce a ceasefire. Cries of alarm and indignation will come from every side. There may well be more bloodshed, more deaths. The troubles during the efforts to work out a truce in the Korean war are a none-too-happy precedent. The end of that war was one of the achievements of which President Eisenhower was most proud. When stubborn old Syngman Rhee suddenly released thousands of prisoners in an effort to abort the negotiations and restart the war, indignation in the White House was at the boiling point.

The movement toward peace in a land weary of war is irreversible. The angriest critics have branded the President and his security adviser as war criminals. They have stood in rain and shine holding up their signs and chanting their chants. Short of a backlash — from the right rather than the left — that is now academic.

ERWIN D. CANHAM

It's Time To Put An End To The Age Of Espionage

There is every indication that the present public apathy toward the scandals which have infiltrated American politics will continue until after election day. They seem unlikely to influence the voting significantly.

But this is not the last word. Sooner or later, I believe that most of the facts will be unscrambled. The individuals under indictment for the Watergate debugging will have their day in court, and justice will be done — whatever that may be.

The essential facts regarding the Republican campaign funds and the involvement — big or little — of the White House staff and of high former cabinet officials will come to light. Perhaps these sensational episodes will boil down to a lot of stupidity and unnecessary shenanigans. Perhaps more sinister elements will be seen to be involved.

IN THE END, when all available facts are known, I believe the American public will demand better standards. I think there will ultimately be a revulsion against the age of espionage. We will see that the kind of dirty tricks which may have been appropriate to clandestine warfare during World War II, and perhaps during the cold war, have absolutely no place in the decent society we seek.

We must regain confidence in one another. One way to help regain confidence is to stop spying on one another, stop casting suspicion on one another, start building up the sinews of mutual trust.

We should bring data banks and other repositories of private information about individuals under strict control. If there are to be such data banks operated by the marvelous information storage and retrieval systems that exist, we should each have a chance to look at and challenge the information that is stored about ourselves.

Indeed — and I know this is Utopian — I wish each of us could have a chance to see what is said about us in the FBI files and other places where "intelligence" data is stored. From my own personal observations of one-stage-removed data of this sort, obtained when I have served with formal clearance on civil service and other bodies, I am sure a good deal of unverified and essentially false information is included. With sad frequency, an individual is condemned and penalized falsely.

The idea of opening the files is Utopian because of its effect on crime detection and punishment. I know that. It would be good if we had the kind of society where such dossiers did not exist except in the cases of known criminals and serious suspects. Sometimes, in worse societies than the United States, such material is used for blackmail purposes. It could be here, if the files fell into nefarious hands. Even today, there are rumors of blackmail threats against prominent American political figures. I hope there is no truth in them, and I will not dignify them by specific reference.

I WOULD HOPE the tide would turn, in the United States and every other society seeking to be free, against the age of espionage. If enough of us demand cleaner politics, we can get it. The public have always felt U.S. politics to be dirtier than it actually is, or used to be. Many honorable men and women dignify the profession of politics.

We need better definitions of corruption. We require better affirmation and protection of the rights of privacy. Spying, dossier-keeping, mistrust-building, all come close to the edge of the police state.

I know something of the difficulties. Crime must be prevented. Assassination of public figures must be minimized. But the efforts to prevent assassination have led to a pervasive and inevitably awkward kind of surveillance, especially in a campaign. Such surveillance is not necessarily effective, although we can hope for the best.

Anyway, let us do whatever we can to brand trickery with abhorrence, and to restore the lusty competition but inner confidence and friendship which once dominated the public scene.

Marin Court Tradition Crumbles Before Right To Speedy Trail

Seldom-used constitutional rights are up against a tough opponent when they step in the ring against the informal but iron-ribbed rules of Marin Municipal Court if one case is any indication.

One such ruleis that defendants unable to post bail always exercise their right to trial within 45 days of arraignment. Those free on bail always waive that right and step to the end of the line of pending trials.

At least that was the unchallenged practice until last week when James Lee Erwin of San Rafael — free on his promise to appear — obstinately demanded a speedy trial on a charge of petty theft.

The result was sparks.

ACCUSING the public defender's deputies representing Erwin of trying to gum up the municipal court calendar, Judge David R. Baty said he would order Erwin jailed in lieu of $1,000 bail if he insisted on an early trial.

"I want one of you gentlemen to tell me why you are not prepared to oblige us on this one case. If you have good reason, I will accept it. If not, I say you are testing me, and I will try to rise to the challenge," the judge said.

Erwin, through his attorney, said he just wanted to dispose of the case quickly despite the threat of being jailed in lieu of bail he could not afford to post (A $1,000 bond is usually required only in felony cases.)

But Baty wasn't through. He said Erwin was "trying to extort a dismissal" and added, "We cannot give priority to incustody defendants if every public defender client who thinks it is a bum rap expresses his feeling by refusal to waive time."

Deputy Public Defender Glenn Becker said, "There is no reason for bail, for setting bail here, other than to make sure he does not assert his right to a speedy trial."

BATY WAS UNSWAYED and ordered the impoverished handyman to jail on the pretense of insuring his appearances, although Erwin had made all previous court dates.

He agreed to stay the sentence until Monday, though, to allow and appeal, and capitulated on Tuesday after Deputy Public Defender Frank J. Cox won a further stay and a hearing date from Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

So, after all, the sparring Erwin will have his early trial and remain free without bail. A jury trial is slated for Nov. 30.

A second courthouse custom also crumbled last week. Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, whose wardrobe of blue suits was a trademark, turned heads with a flashy gray suit.

Pair Arrested In Pot Probe

Two Novato residents, arrested Monday on suspicion of cultivation of marijuana, are scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday.

Novato police arrested Walter Nicklous Lynch, 24, and Lynn Dee Altman, 22, at 1760 Novato Boulevard, their home address, at 5:45 p.m. after entering with a search warrant.

Officers said they discovered eight marijuana plants being grown in two containers and a pot at the home. Lynch and Altman each posted $1,000.

Hydrant Test Flow Scheduled In Tiburon

The Tiburon Fire Department will test the flow of water from about a dozen fire hydrants in downtown Tiburon from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Tap water in the area may become dirty during the hour, according to a department spokesman.

How Communists For Nixon Arranged To Get Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON — If Richard Nixon wins the election next week, most of the credit will go to Lu Doc Toy who heads the "Communists for Nixon Committee" in Hanoi.

Lu Doc Toy, who, until this election, always voted the straight Communist Party ticket, decided to support Nixon this year because, he said, "I'm sick and tired of having my kids bused along the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

Having made the decision, Lu Doc Toy contacted the Committee for the Re-Election of the President in Washington, who sent one of their top CIA men to Hanoi to help him in the campaign.

LU DOC TOY told the CIA man, "I need bumper stickers, buttons, posters and a secret fund to get the Communists for Nixon off the ground."

The CIA man said, "We've written off North Vietnam as far as electoral votes go, but you could help us tremendously in getting the President re-elected with a small favor."

"What can I do?" Lu Doc asked.

"Arrange a peace treaty with the United States a week before the elections."

"It's done," Lu Doc Toy said. "My cousin is a member of the Politburo and he owes me a favor."

Lu Doc Toy went to see his cousin Ton Son Not in his bomb shelter the next day. During a 15-minute break in the bombing he said, "Ton Son Not, as you know I am the head of the Communists for Nixon and I have a small favor to ask of you."

"You have dishonored your ancestors, Lu Doc Toy," Ton Son Not said. "How can you support a man whose party would bug the Watergate?"

"It was a prank," Lu Doc Toy said. "Everyone does it during an election year. Besides Nixon knew nothing about it."

"That's what all the Communists for Nixon say. But we know differently. Besides, how could you work for a man who said he would stop the war in 1968?"

"EXACTLY," Lu Doc Toy said. "That's what I came to speak to you about. Nixon wants to stop the war again, only this time before the election."

"It's a trick," Ton Son Not said. "What does he want in exchange for it?"

"Nothing we wouldn't have given him in 1968. It's the same deal that was offered to him then."

"But why now? I thought the U.S. bombing was working."

"Who knows what goes on with those cockamamie Americans? But I'm giving it to you straight. If you people say okay, Nixon will send what's-his-name to Paris to sign the deal."

"WAIT A MINUTE," Ton Son Not said. "If we agree to a peace settlement, that means we'll have four more years of Nixon."

"Look, Ton Son Not," Lu Doc Toy said, "we hold the key to the American presidential election in our hands. We have to decide whether we want Nixon for President and a generation of peace, or whether we want the misguided, badly thought out socialistic programs of George McGovern."

The bombing started again. "WHAT ABOUT THIEU? WILL HE GO ALONG WITH IT?" Ton Son Not yelled.

"DON'T WORRY ABOUT THIEU," Lu Doc Toy yelled back. "HE'LL DO ANYTHING NIXON ASKS HIM TO!"

'Economic Reprisals' By U.S. Draw Fire

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Chile, Ecuador and Peru have accused the U.S. of adopting legislation which would apply economic reprisals against nations that fine U.S. fishing boats.

The three South American nations, all of which claim 200-mile territorial sea limits unrecognized by the U.S., issued a joint statement Tuesday night in which they "condemned and rejected" the amendment to the U.S. Fishermen's Protective Act.

The statement accused the U.S. of failing to recognize "the right of coastal states to exercise their maritime sovereignty and jurisdiction to protect legitimate interests of their populations."

The amendment, signed recently by President Nixon, requires the secretary of state to ask a fining nation to reimburse funds the U.S. government pays to compensate fishermen fined for fishing in territorial waters not recognized by the U.S.

If the country does not reimburse the amount of the fine, the secretary is required to deduct an amount equivalent to the fine from the U.S. aid to the fining nation, unless the President specifies the action is not in the U.S. interest.

The three nations charged the amendment "places the eagerness for profit of a small group of U.S. fishing companies above the sovereign rights and development and well-being of other nations."

Ecuador seized 52 U.S. fishing boats in 1971 and fined their owners more than $2 million. This year it has seized and fined seven boats. Peru seized and fined one U.S. boat in 1971, and none so far this year. Chile hasn't seized any U.S. boats.

FOR MIKE PEEVEY BECAUSE ...

Dear Friend:

It is at a time like this that I wish we in Marin could elect our Supervisors at large rather than by District, for they certainly do represent all of us.

In a way, the Fourth District is a kind of microcosm of the County stretching as it does from Bay to Coast -- including two small cities, a part of San Rafael and the farmlands of West Marin. Thus, the Supervisor from the 4th District must have a broad understanding of the needs and problems of the entire community.

The proposed Countywide Plan, once it is adopted, will chart the future of the entire County until the end of this century. For four years, as a member of the City-County Planning Council (Chairman, 1971-72), I participated in the Plan's formulation. It's an exciting plan, really different from other area wide plans with which I am familiar. No one can really fault its goals. But because of the way in which it was put together there are a number of its parts where, if it is to work, we're going to have to make "rock or hard place" decisions.

Isn't it better to ask the questions now and make those changes which are required to make the Plan work, rather than adopt without such scrutiny and then wonder a few years hence (after making compromise after compromise) where our beautiful plan went? Mike Peevey is an economist. As a member of the CCPC Economic Study Committee he knows the conclusions reached when the Plan's goals were tested in the cauldron of economic analysis. He knows that adoption of the Plan without incorporation of some of these conclusions may well make the Plan, in reality, just a lovely fantasy.

So he's had the courage to raise the issues, ask the questions. He knows a plan is not just lovely colored land use maps. He knows it's the text that counts -- that spells out each element when decisions have to be made. Mike knows that the environment is more than hilltops left undeveloped and farm lands open. He knows the homes we live in, our transportation, our business opportunities and preservation of our beautiful environment are all integral parts of the human environment; that our Plan must do more than state idealized goals that may well turn out to be mutually exclusive.

During the campaign Mike Peevey has shown toughness. He's a fighter. He's not been afraid to make mistakes and he's made some -- don't we all? His has not been a slick, professional type campaign. It's been one in keeping with the office of County Supervisor which he seeks. And he hasn't fallen into the trap of the easy conclusion that "the friends of my enemy are my enemies" as so many of us do when we assess a candidate's worth.

His youth, analytical mind, professional qualifications as an economist and, yes, his stubbornness are needed on the Board of Supervisors. I believe he will be that rare office holder who, when the crunch comes which requires decisions for the good of the County as a whole, will have the courage and personal integrity required to say "No" to his friends and "Yes" to his enemies.

Sincerely,

Anne Ellinwood

ISN'T GOOD SERVICE WONDERFUL?
Our service is "late" but nice. Marin commuters have found it very convenient that our service department is now open till 7 pm. Monday thru Friday. In most cases we can give your VW a maintenance or tune-up by 7 pm if you come in by 5 pm. Call our private service line 388-5230 and give us a vote for "late" service.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
Order No. 210063-CL

On Monday, the 13th day of November, 1972, at 10:00 o'clock A.M. at the office of WESTERN TITLE GUARANTY COMPANY, MARIN COUNTY DIVISION, at 801 "A" Street, San Rafael, Marin County, California, WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, a corporation, Trustee, will sell, without warranty, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in lawful money of the United States, the following described real property situate in the County of Marin, State of California, viz:

COMMENCING at a point on the Southerly line of South Ridgewood Road, said point being situated South 33° 41' 20" East 42.763 feet from the Southwest corner of Lot 158, as said Lot is shown on Map of Kent Woodlands, Subdivision No. Three, filed October 13, 1945 in Book 6 of Maps, at page 2, Marin County Records; and running thence South 13° 06' 10" East 115.814 feet along the Westerly line of parcel conveyed by Thomas T. Kent, et al, to Paul C. Mills and recorded October 15, 1947 in Liber 561 of Official Records, at page 435, Marin County Records, thence leaving last mentioned line South 43° 57' West 184.666 feet, North 57° 48' 30" West 43.899 feet, North 17° 19' 50" West 70.65 feet to the Southerly line of herein before mentioned South Ridgewood Road, running thence in an Easterly direction along said Southerly line along a curve to the left whose center bears North 24° 06' 30" West radius 120.0 feet, distance 109.920 feet, thence along a curve to the right whose center bears South 76° 35' 30" East radius 90.846 feet, distance 100.859 feet, thence North 77° 01' 10" East 25.12 feet to the point of commencement.

Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments, and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues, and profits thereof.

Said sale will be made to satisfy the obligations secured by, and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in that certain Deed of Trust executed by MARY B. LAPPE, a widow, as Trustor, to WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, a corporation, as Trustee, for the benefit and security of JOHN P. HERAK and EMMABELL C. HERAK, his wife, as Beneficiaries, dated July 15, 1971 and recorded July 9, 1971 in Book 2481 of Official Records, at Page 31, Marin County Records.

Notice of breach of said obligations and election to sell said real property was recorded July 10, 1972 in Book 2587 of Official Records, at Page 120, Marin County Records. This notice is given in compliance with the written demand made to the Trustee by Beneficiaries.

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 63517

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Hall of Justice, Civic Center, San Rafael, Ca. 94903.

In re the marriage of Petitioner: ANN M. LANE
and
Respondent: MARVIN J. LANE
To the Respondent: MARVIN J. LANE

The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorney's fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

Peking Visit Ends

PEKING (UPI) —Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, left Peking today at the end of a five-day visit to China he described as "very good in every respect."

They were the first direct high-level talks between British and Chinese foreign ministers in a decade.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, Nov. 2, the 307th day of 1972 with 59 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

James Polk, 11th president of the United States, was born Nov. 6, 1795.

On this day in history:

In 1917, British Foreign Secretary Arthur Balfour proposed a Jewish homeland in Palestine. Israel became reality 31 years later.

In 1920, Pittsburgh Radio Station KDKA began the first regular schedule of broadcasting by reporting returns from the presidential election.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced that Soviet missile bases in Cuba were being dismantled, easing what had become an international crisis.

In 1971, conservative victories were won in major cities on the law and order issue in the 1911 off-year elections. Liberals won in some areas on local issues.

A thought for the day: British statesman Winston Churchill said, "If we open a quarrel between the past and the present, we shall find out that we have lost the future."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Task Force Studies Traffic Education

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state departments of Education and Motor Vehicles announced appointment of a task force Wednesday to study ways of bringing up to date traffic safety education in California schools.

The department said the two-year study, financed by $125,000 in federal funds, will seek the views of the Highway Patrol, police departments, private driving school operators, doctors, psychologists and citizens.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Coma One Of Most Dreaded Complications For Diabetics

Coma is one of the most dreaded complications of diabetes. Before the discovery of insulin, death was the usual outcome. Nowadays, a person with known diabetes is aware of the condition and does not allow his diabetes to deteriorate into this state. But those who are unaware of having diabetes may slip into unconsciousness as the first indication of the disease.

Diabetic coma is preceded by acidosis, which occurs after the disease has been out of control for some time. Conditions that upset the diabetic process should be well-known to every sufferer because it means that changes in treatment are in order. These precipitating situations are 1) infections (which increase the need for insulin), 2) trauma, pregnancy or surgery, 3) gastrointestinal upsets leading to vomiting or starvation, 4) emotiocal disturbances, 5) heart attack or stroke, and 6) too small a dose of insulin. When any of these situations occur, additional insulin and fluids are needed. But to be on the safe side, let your physician handle the problem.

THE EARLY SIGNS of ketoacidosis are weakness and lethargy followed by vomiting and abdominal pain. As the individual becomes dehydrated and more acidotic, changes in the function of the heart and nervous system develop. The victim lies restlessly in bed with sunken, soft eyeballs. The tongue is dry and red; breathing is rapid, but deep and labored. He may be awake, but mentally dull or he may be unconscious. The breath has the fruity sweet odor of acetone.

Diabetic coma is an emergency requiring large doses of insulin and intravenous fluids containing sodium bicarbonate to offset dehydration and acidosis. Tests usually show that the blood and urine are loaded with sugar and acetone. These determinations may be made at the bedside with test strips or tablets or by formal laboratory procedures.

DIABETICS WHO do not take their disease seriously are asking for trouble. This is true of the teen-ager who "knows it all" or does not want to be bothered. After one attack of acidosis and coma, the victim's attitude changes, because it is a hair-raising experience.

VARICOSE VEINS AND PAIN

A reader writes: Could varicose veins in the legs cause pain in the calves and groins?

REPLY

In the calves, but not the groins. Varicose veins seldom cause pain unless complications, such as infection or ulcer, develop. These veins may lead to aching calf muscles, especially when the circulation is disturbed while walking (venous claudication).

PARTIAL HYSTERECTOMY

N. E. writes: Can pregnancy occur after a partial hysterectomy?

REPLY

No, because in this operation the main part of the uterus is removed. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this procedure.

PAINTING AFTER SURGERY

B. D. writes: Is it all right for a woman to paint the ceiling three months after a hysterectomy?

REPLY

Yes, but stand on something solid.

HEEL PROBLEM

Mrs. M. C. writes: A very bad case of dead skin on my heels is painful all the time. The chiropodist shaves them once a month, but it is back before three weeks are up. I use a pumice stone and keep them creamed, but it's no use. Is there some old-fashioned advice you can give or a new remedy you can recommend? Thank you.

REPLY

You need a diagnosis, because plain little old dead skin does not cause pain. You may have poor circulation, ringworm, or a callus. On the other hand, the pain may come from a spur on the heel bone, arthritis, or tendonitis.

BLACK TOENAILS

F. B. writes: Is it a sign of syphilis when a person's toenails turn black and fall off?

REPLY

No. Injury or a fungal infection is the most likely cause when the nail is discolored and falls out. Certain germs may colonize under the nails, leading to a greenish-black discoloration. The use of drugs, such as gold, silver nitrate, or mercury also may discolor the nails.

PIPE DREAMS

A reader writes: Can excessive smoking cause delirium?

REPLY

Depends upon what is being smoked.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

When State Not Liable

The state owned 65 acres of beach land open to the public as a park. It was mostly rugged terrain with a sandy beach. The park included a small office, parking lot, rest rooms, picnic tables and barbeque pits. At high tide, parts of the beach and some of the nearby land were submerged.

Signs were posted, warning of high tides and possible slide areas. Cliff Hanger visited the park with his family and went hiking. A rocky point near the ocean gave way and Cliff fell into the choppy sea. The fall and long time in the cold water before his rescue caused Cliff permanent injuries.

Cliff sued the state park department. In court he lost. The state is not liable for any injuries caused by natural conditions on any unimproved public properties. Natural conditions of lakes, streams, bays, rivers or beaches in public areas are enjoyed at the risk of the users.

The state is liable for injuries caused by dangerous conditions on improved properties. This includes pathways, parking lots or lookout points. There may be a duty to warn the public of special dangers in some areas they often frequent. Failure to give adequate warnings or maintenance of the improvements is negligence, for which the state is liable.

Private property owners are generally not liable for injuries to those who enter their lands, if the injuries are caused by the "natural conditions" of the land. As a rule, those who enter the property should be aware of the hazards of natural conditions.

A hidden hazard of an especially dangerous condition requires the private property owner to take precautions and to warn those who may come onto the property. There is a special duty owed to youngsters who may not be aware of the dangers of certain conditions.

A property owner who has something artificial on his land that is attractive yet dangerous to wandering children is liable to them for their injuries. He is maintaing what used to be called an "attractive nuisance" and should foresee the possibility of injury to youngsters. But again a "natural condition" such as a big tree or a natural hill is usually not an "attractive nuisance." (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

Media Can Give Facts On Issue

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An initiative measure that was not described in the San Francisco city voters' guide must be advertised in newspapers and on radio and television, a Superior Court judge ruled Tuesday.

City officials estimated the ruling by Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. would cost between $40,000 and $50,000 but would be cheaper than the $300,000 that a special election would cost.

The initiative is Proposition K, calling for the reopening of the Park and Potrero police stations which were closed in an economy move. It comes to a vote next Tuesday.

Son Of FDR Hits McGovern

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt said Tuesday that Sen. George McGovern's record in Congress "in no way qualifies him for the Presidency."

James Roosevelt, 64, a financial consultant, made the comment on a campaign visit on behalf of Democrats supporting President Nixon.

"I don't approve of everything President Nixon has done, but he has been far more affirmative in both the national and international area than most Democrats had a right to expect," he said.

Lucky Agrees To Lower Prices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Lucky Stores, Inc., which has annual sales of $1.8 billion, has agreed to reduce prices on items the Internal Revenue Service says were raised without cost justification.

The agreement was announced simultaneously in Washington and San Francisco on Wednesday and affects the concern's outlets in 22 states.

William H. Dyer, board chairman of Lucky, the nation's eighth largest retail food chain, said the agreement means that Lucky must now price on an item-by-item basis, rather than by categories.

Under the category system, if one of five brands of soap raises its price by five cents, the price of all five could be raised one cent. Under the item-by-item system, the prices of four brands would remain unchanged and one would be boosted five cents.

Counselors Available For Talks

Are you thinking of going back to college? Are you considering changing your profession?

College of Marin has announced that counselors will give free counseling services to adults in the community as part of its community service program.

Counselors are available in the evening Monday through Thursday from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Aptitude and vocational interest testing is also available without charge through the college.

Appointments may be made by calling the counseling department at the college between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The counseling offices are located in the student services center portable buildings, 835 College Avenue on the Kentfield campus.

Aide's Wife Is Burglary Suspect

NAPA (UPI) —The wife of a deputy state attorney general was arraigned in Justice Court on Wednesday on charges of arson and burglary.

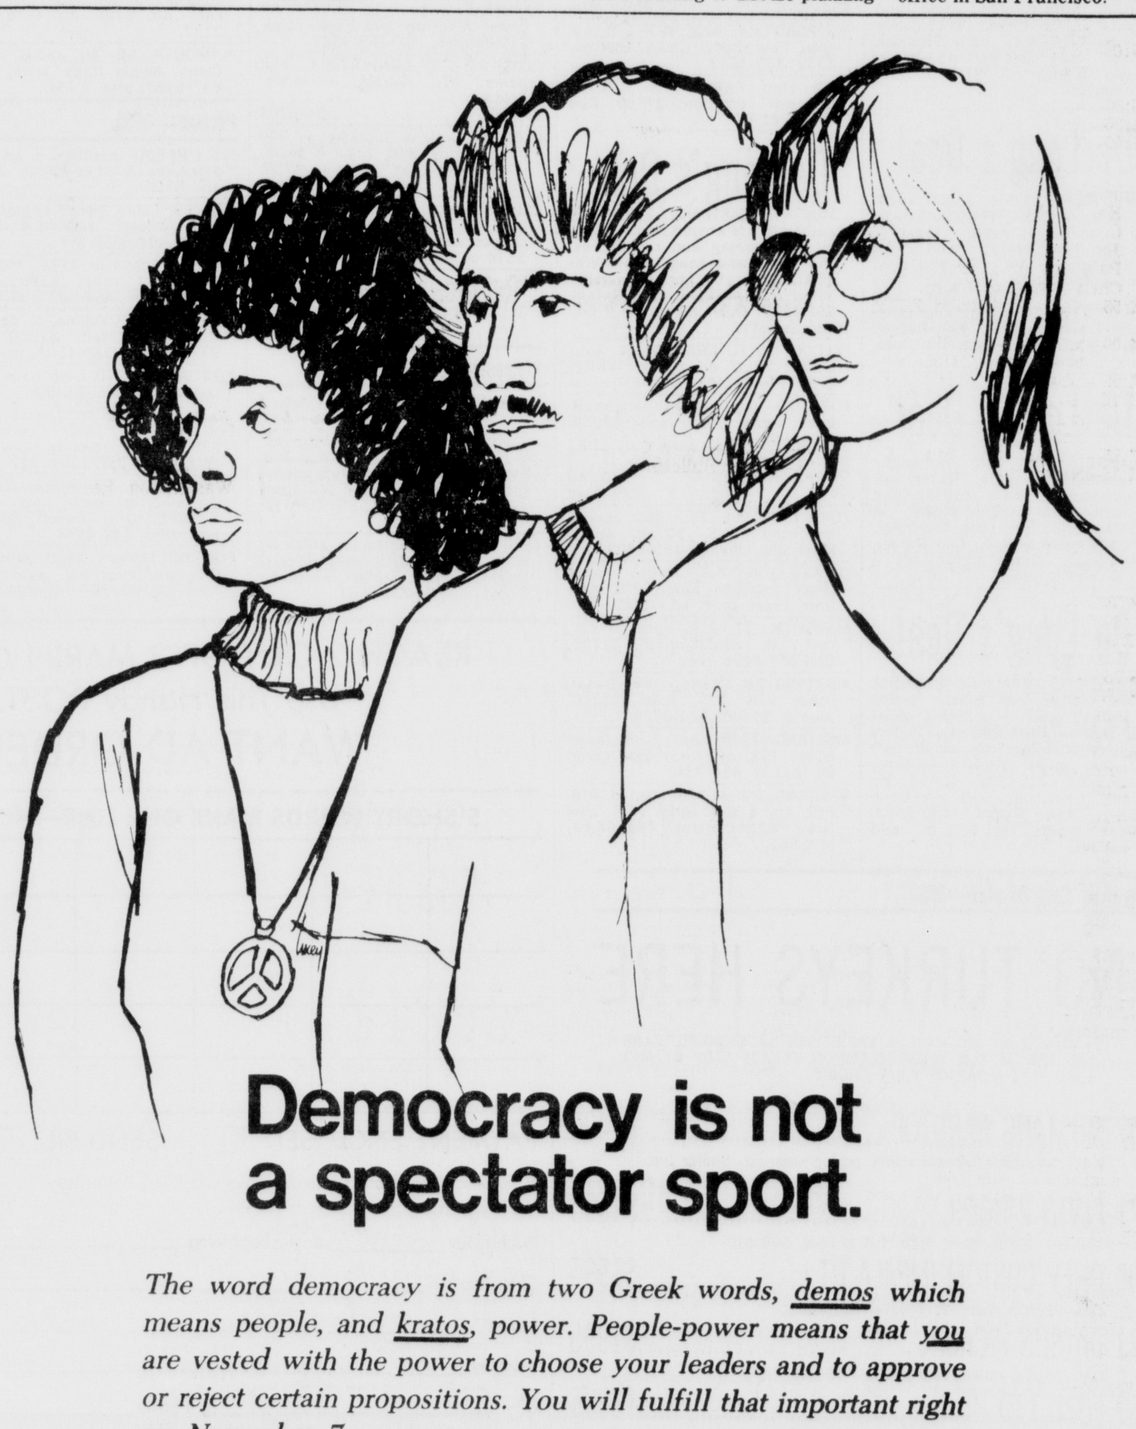

Judge Wade N. Shiflett released Mrs. B. Franklin Walter on her own recognizance but instructed her to seek psychiatric help. Her next court appearance was scheduled for Nov. 15.

Capt. Ken Narlow of the Napa County sheriff's office said that about $12,000 worth of burglarized goods were found in a storage shed adjoining her condominium at the plush Silverado County Club.

She also is accused of setting a $75,000 fire in one of 13 burglarized houses.

Mrs. Walker was wrapped in a fur coat and wore boots and dark glasses as she arrived for the hearing.

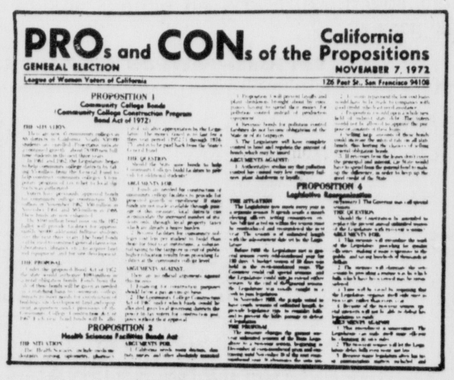

Accompanying her was her husband, a $25,000 a year employee in the attorney general's office in San Francisco.

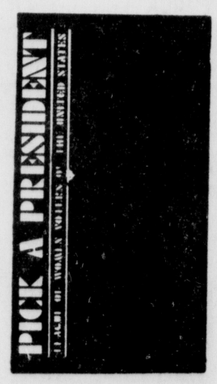

Democracy is not a spectator sport.

The word democracy is from two Greek words, demos which means people, and kratos, power. People-power means that you are vested with the power to choose your leaders and to approve or reject certain propositions. You will fulfill that important right on November 7.

Between now and Election Day, you will find careful coverage of the issues and the candidates in the I-J. The entire Marin Magazine, published with the Saturday, November 4th I-J will be devoted to the election.

Report Of Cash Given To Brewster

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The chief aide to former Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., has told a federal jury that he saw Brewster accept $5,000 in cash from a lobbyist for Spiegel Inc., a Chicago mail-order house.

John F. Sullivan, who served as Brewster's administrative assistant, testified that lobbyist Cyrus T. Anderson gave the money to Brewster during a 1967 discussion of postal legislation, which Sullivan said Spiegel was against.

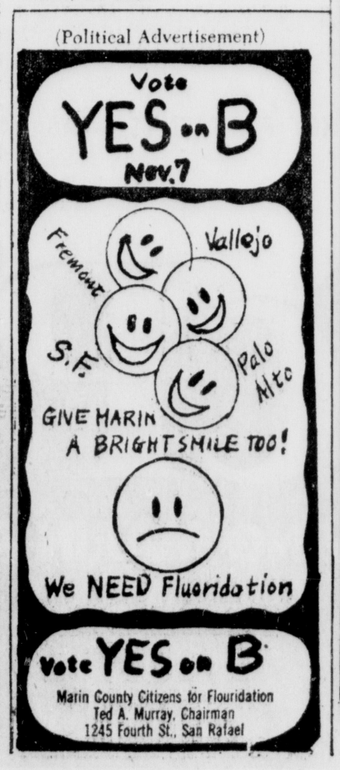

Brewster, who was defeated for re-election in 1968, was a member of the Senate Civil Service and Post Office Committee, which was considering an increase in postage rates for "junk mail."

Under questioning Wednesday, Sullivan said he was present during a meeting between Brewster and Anderson in Brewster's Capitol Hill office. "He (Anderson) said his client is for real. He wants the bill defeated," Sullivan testified.

Sullivan said he took an envelope from Brewster, opened it to count the money inside and handed it back to Brewster who put the envelope in an office safe.

Brewster has been charged with receiving $19,500 in bribes from Spiegel, which is a codefendant in the case.

Passive Charge In Equal Rights Push

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Washington Research Project, a privately financed group, says the Justice Department has been passive in enforcing the 1965 Voting Rights Act in southern states.

"The system is rigged against blacks, and the Nixon administration has been unwilling to take the necessary action to make the 15th (equal rights) Amendment a reality, and not just a paper guarantee," the project said in a 230-page report issued Wednesday.

Justice Department spokesman John V. Wilson disputed the report. He said 92 blacks are candidates for elective office in the southern states covered by the act.

"They would not be encouraged (to run) if there weren't more blacks eligible to vote because of enforcement of the Voting Rights Act," Wilson said.

The report said the Justice Department "still fails to take effective action to remedy the continuing and extremely low black voter registration in many southern states.

"Moreover the department has stood passively by as recently registered blacks have been disenfranchised by reregistration requirements."

Series Of Rec Programs Slated

A series of recreational programs will be offered this fall in the Robson-Harrington Carriage House, 237 Crescent Road, San Anselmo, according to the city parks and recreation department.

The programs range from judo, yoga and ballet instruction to Christmas crafts and a tiny tots workshop, said Gary Howell, parks director. The sessions begin Nov. 14 with a judo workshop.

Residents wishing to register for the classes may do so during the next two weeks at the recreation office in Memorial Park, he said.

Details Of Plot Against Carson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Details of an alleged $250,000 extortion plot against Johnny Carson—including a dummy hand grenade delivered to his home—were revealed Wednesday at the formal indictment proceedings against the accused extortionist.

Richard Dziabacinski, 26, of Germany, was indicted on charges of extortion, writing a threatening letter for the purpose of obtaining money and possession of a sawed-off rifle.

Dziabacinski, identified as an unemployed writer who had been living in North Hollywood, was arrested Oct. 13 in a parking lot, where he allegedly was trying to recover $250,000 left there by Carson, the star of television's "Tonight" show.

According to testimony before the grand jury, the affair began Oct. 8 when an unsigned, typed note was left on the front porch of Carson's home in Bel-Air, along with a dummy hand grenade and a pair of binoculars.

"We have just presented you with this at the cost of $250,000," the note read. "We believe it is senseless to tell you not to inform any enforcement (sic) agency, or to discuss this matter with anyone, it will only make matters worse for you and anyone else concerned."

The note demanded $250,000 in $20 and $50 bills, and said that if "the bills run in consecutive (sic) of more than eight or the bills are marked in any way, we will reply with more conviction."

Workmen found the note and turned it over to authorities, who notified Carson. He received a telephone call at his NBC office three days later, warning him the note was not a joke.

In another call two days later, Carson was instructed to take the money and leave it in a parking lot in North Hollywood, where Dziabacinski was arrested.

Finley To Pay Bonuses Despite Fine

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Charles O. Finley, controversial Oakland A's owner who was slapped with a $2,500 fine by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, said Wednesday night he still plans to pay $15,000 in bonuses to players Gene Tenace, Joe Rudi and Mike Hegan.

The fine was announced in New York while Finley was here for a game involving his ABA Memphis Tams.

Kuhn said that Finley's alleged rewarding of catcher Tenace and outfielder Rudi with $5,000 bonuses while they starred in the World Series was against baseball's laws.

Finley had announced before the start of the series that he was awarding a similar payment to first baseman Hegan for his work during the regular season.

Finley said he was puzzled by Kuhn's ruling, which involved only Tenace and Rudi because of the baseball rule which prohibits bonuses for play in a series.

"The commissioner rules the players still can get the money," said the silver-haired Finley, "but I'm supposedly violating a rule and I'm fined."

Finley added that he still had not "paid a penny" of the raises promised the three players.

"Certainly, I'm going to pay them what I promised predicated on outstanding performances they had during the year," he added.

Finley also said in his running feud with Kuhn that:

"I might state this is the seventh time this year that the commissioner has taken action against the Oakland club or persons connected with it. The record speaks for itself. I won't elaborate. He (Kuhn) knows what the actions were."

Tenace was the outstanding player in the Athletics' seven-game World Series victory over the Cincinnati Reds. He hit four home runs, batted in two of the three runs in the A's 3-2 last-game triumph and had a series batting average of .348. Rudi homered and made a game-saving catch in the second game at Cincinnati after which Finley announced the extra pay for the two players.

In his announcement, Kuhn said, "consistent with provisions of the rule, the decision is not intended to affect the com-

Bowler Denson Reaches Goal—And Then Some

Bill Denson last night was bowling in the Gutter Society League at Nave Lanes and he was trying to do something he had never done before — bowl a 600 series.

Denson bowled a first game of 245 and followed with a 204. All he needed for a 600 series was a 151 game. But he missed his 600 series. He went right past the magic number, not under it. He fired a 254 final game for a 703 series.

I remember Denson as a senior from Terra Linda High School who helped me with statistics on the sidelines at the Terra Linda football games when I was covering the prep scene. That was a few semesters ago and now Denson is 25, and married.

"Well, I guess I still haven't ever bowled a 600 series," laughed the curly-headed Denson after tossing his final ball and looking up at the scoreboard.

No, Bill, you were too good this night for a 600.

FROM THE NOTEBAG: It should be quite a meeting at the 49er Goal Rushers of Marin dinner Tuesday evening at Terra Linda's Holiday Inn. Guests will be two favorites of the fans, super wide receiver Gene Washington and bubbly middle linebacker Frank Nunley. Either one of them alone is quite an attraction, together they'll really be something. Cocktails are at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7. (I know Tuesday is voting day but you'll just have to get to the polls early.)

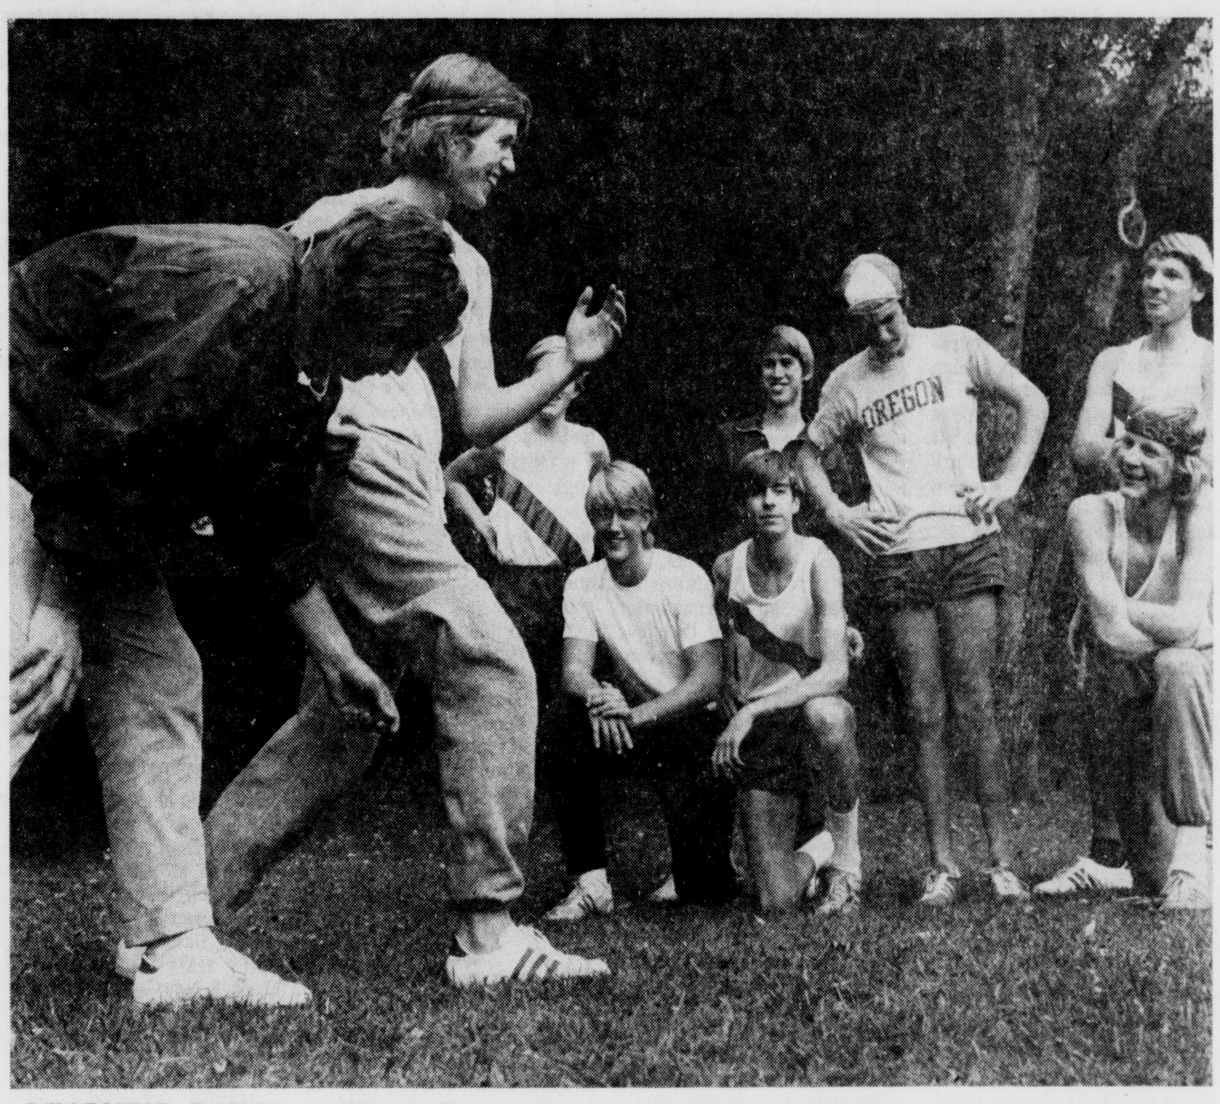

UNIVERSITY OF SAN FRANCISCO'S basketball season starts Dec. 1 and John Boro, guard from Redwood High School will be playing his junior season for the Dons. Said USF coach Bob Gaillard about Boro: "As third guard last season, John proved tremendous as an outside shooter and teamman. . . leads the fast break well and complements the team as well or better then anyone."

WHAT EVER HAPPENED to Jim Sherbert, the Terra Lindan who got his chance as a free agent with the Dallas Cowboys? The Oregon State grad didn't make the Cowboys team because it was rich with linebacker talent, but he went back to Corvallis, Ore., as a defensive line coach for one of the high schools there.

THE PELICAN is a boat, not a bird. Muriel S. Short, secretary of the Pelican Racing and Cruising Association of Larkspur, tells me that the locally designed "San Francisco Pelican" is featured in the November issue of "Mechanix Illustrated." Writes M.S. (Or Ms.) Short: "The Pelican is well known in the Bay Area, as she is frequently seen being sailed in San Francisco Bay's choppy waters and strong winds. The annual Trans-Bay race of the Pelican Association demonstrates this sturdy little boat's ability to withstand heavy weather. Many Marin families are owners of Pelicans." Okay, everybody. One big cheer for the Pelicans.

FOR THE FOLLOWERS of Ron Cerrudo's pocketbook, the former San Rafael lad now living off one of the fairways of Silverado's course in Napa, has earned $25,171 at this late date on the 1972 pro golf tour. That ranks him 85th on the money tree of golf.

WHEN I RECEIVED the office telephone bill the other day I noticed that my calls to the A's and Seals are listed as going to San Leandro exchanges. I guess that means I'll just have to call those Swingers from Oakland the San Leandro A's, world championship and all.

LEARNING BASICS — Mount Tamalpais School athletic director Rothwell (Rusty) Taylor gave pointers to cross country team member Terry Kenney on running style as the squad looked on during practice at the first-year school's soccer field in Ross. Taylor has been directing the sports program at the new school and has been rewarded with winning records by the cross country and soccer teams. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

IN SAN RAFAEL

Terra Linda, Drake Gridders Tomorrow

The nervous final two weeks of Marin County Athletic League football, during which three teams will battle for the championship and each of the other four will have chances to be spoiler, begin tomorrow at 8 p.m. when Drake High School meets Terra Linda at San Rafael.

Terra Linda is tied with Redwood and Novato for the MCAL lead at 3-1, although the Trojans "must be the only team in America in first place with a 3-4 (over-all) record," in the words of coach Don Lucas.

Drake, well equipped to be a spoiler, enters the game at 1-3 in the league and 2-5 over-all. "They looked like a million dollars in the first quarter last week against San Rafael," Lucas noted, but were devalued currency later on, squandering a 20-7 lead to lose, 34-20.

Quarterback Tom MacAusland is the league's leading passer, and split end Ken Zepponi ranks third among receivers. MacAusland and fullback Bob McCann ran with authority last week, but the strong suit is passing.

Terra Linda's strong suit, however, is taking away the other team's strong suit. The Trojans' tough defense ranks second in the league over-all and first against the pass.

"We're on the verge of getting the offense rolling — that's a quote," said Lucas. Quarterback Kevin Kirby, injured in last Saturday's 28-0 lost to Monta Vista of Cupertino, will be healthy.

Injuries have forced Lucas to juggle his lineup, but the Trojans' exceptional depth keeps him from worrying about it. Sean Casey and Dan Walsh will start at the halfback spots with Scott Logan at fullback. Larry Offenbach has recovered from an injury and will see action, but Kevin O'Keefe is hampered with a banged-up knee.

Star linemen Jon Loberg and Larry Madden will start exclusively on offense for the first time this year. Loberg is coming back from a knee injury, and gets the call at center. Madden, bothered all year with a bad leg, will start at offensive guard and give way to Dan Skeen at defensive tackle.

Drake: (Offense) SE Ken Zepponi, LT Joe Fahy, LG Dan Herzberg, C Dan Locati, RG George Pederson, RT Cliff Koch, TE Marv Ingraham, QB Tom MacAusland, HB Phil Wilkinson, FB Bob Spain, FL Dan Trimble. (Defense) E Walt Crowe, LT Koch, NG Al Trainor, RT Chuck Hildreth, E Steve Wilgenbush, LB Pederson, LB Locati, CB Zepponi, CB John Sutherland, S Gary Shankman, S Matt Elliott.

FIRST-YEAR SCHOOL

Mount Tam On Road To Success In Team Sports

"Nothing succeeds like success," said French novelist Alexandre Dumas. If won-lost records are any indication, Mount Tamalpais School of Ross has adopted this philosophy in sports.

The first-year private school is 8-0 in soccer and 10-5 in cross country. And the institution's athletic director Rothwell (Rusty) Taylor, 27, is determined to improve and expand the program.

"We're very happy with our start," he said. "We've received good response from the kids. Out of our 52 male student enrollment, we have 22 boys on the soccer team, nine on the cross country team and 12 on the crew team."

A major part of the success can be linked to the total involvement of the all-male student body. He explained, "all the boys are involved. If they are not on a team, they take part in a special sports activity class" for instruction on fundamentals and appreciation of sports.

"The students learn about tennis, rugby, flag football, volleyball, archery, bicycling and table tennis," the Mill Valley resident continued.

These ninth and 10th grade students are laying the foundations for the school sports program expansion. "We teach the boys the basics, and we add these sports to our program later."

As an example, Taylor discussed crew. "The boys are learning about crew now before we start competition in the spring. They've been learning the basic skills, and they like it."

Taylor's young athletes "double up in some sports. We have kids on the soccer team running with the cross country team."

Based on student response to current sports, Taylor is confident the winter sports, volleyball and basketball, will be accepted. Spring sports include track, baseball, tennis, crew and golf.

An estimated $9,000 school budget allotment helps Taylor tackle this ambitious program, and so does class-timing cooperation. The athletes practice an hour and one-half Mondays through Thursdays when school is in session; games are played on Fridays.

Ozark Is Tabbed Phillies Manager

Former Dodger Coach Discusses His New Team

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies, the worst team in the National League last season, are hoping some of Walt Alston's baseball magic will rub off on them.

"I don't know why it can't work here," General Manager Paul Owens said after he signed Los Angeles Dodgers Coach Danny Ozark to a two-year contract as Phillies manager. He said he was confident some of Alston's baseball success "rubbed off" on the 48-year-old Ozark.

A man who never played a day in the major leagues, Ozark is getting his first chance at managing a major league team.

The Phillies, last in the Eastern Division this past season, went searching for a manager when Frank Lucchesi was fired.

It came down to four or five candidates, Owens said, and they all looked so good they were "like four or five new cars—I wanted all of them."

Ozark's selection was a complete surprise.

Owens said he was "leaning toward" Dave Bristol, the former Milwaukee Brewers manager, when Ozark, a 31-

AS MANAGER

Rangers Select Herzog

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Whitey Herzog, farm director of the New York Mets, today was named manager of the Texas Rangers, major league baseball's biggest losers last season.

Herzog succeeds Ted Williams, who resigned as Rangers boss after his young team finished last in the American League and was the only major league club to lose 100 games.

Bob Short, owner of the Rangers, announced Herzog's appointment at a news conference at Arlington Stadium, home of the Rangers, who moved to Texas just last season from Washington.

Herzog has been director of player development with the National League Mets for the past six years. He played with five teams in the majors during his career —the New York Yankees, Baltimore, Detroit, Washington and Kansas City.

Herzog, 40, was signed to a two-year contract. His salary was not disclosed.

N.L. Honor To Phils' Carlton

Cy Young Award Pick Unanimous

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steve Carlton, winner of 27 games for the last-place Philadelphia Phillies, was the unanimous choice today for the 1972 Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the National League in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Carlton, who led the NL in starts (41), complete games (30), innings pitched (346), strikeouts (310) and earned run average (1.98) and who led both leagues in victories, became the first man to win the award pitching for a last-place club.

By garnering all 24 first-place votes, Carlton, a 27-year old fire-balling left-hander who combined durablity with consistency to achieve his best season ever, became the first National Leaguer since Bob Gibson in 1968 to win unanimously.

"It's a great feeling," Carlton said from his home in St. Louis, though he admitted he wasn't really surprised to have won. "It's prestigious, of course. I feel that I'm in sort of an elite class and that has to give you a great feeling."

Carlton, who was traded last spring from the St. Louis Cardinals to Philadelphia for Rick Wise, credited positive thinking and the chance to pitch more frequently as the main reasons for his startling success.

STEVE CARLTON
Award winner

"I think a lot more positive now," said Carlton, who declared in September that he thought he was the best pitcher in the majors. "Now I know when I go out there I'm going to win.

"But the big thing is having the opportunity to pitch every fourth day," Carlton added. "I needed the work and it made me more consistent." Carlton called his trade to Philadelphia "a blessing in disguise," saying the fans in Philadelphia "treat-

2 Harrier Titles For Redwood

Redwood High School's varsity cross country team topped off an unbeaten season yesterday with two more wins to capture the Marin County Athletic League title with a 12-0 record.

Redwood's frosh-soph cross country squad also went 12-0 to cap that crown.

In the varsity meet at the San Marin course in Novato, Redwood scored a 16-39 triumph

Warriors To Host Portland Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Golden State Warriors host Portland tonight and hope that the improved defense which has led them to a 7-2 record can continue.

Only two teams have scored over 100 points on the Warriors this season. Portland, which is 1-8, is averaging 114.3 points per game scored by the opposition.

"Our defense," says Warriors guard Jeff Mullins, "has come along better than our offense. That's a surprise."

"We've changed our whole defensive philosophy, and we're putting a lot more pressure on Nate (Thurmond, the 6-11 center). We're forcing everything to him, the way the Celtics forced people to Bill Russell or the Lakers force people to Wilt (Chamberlain)."

THE SKI SCENE

For Best Skiing, Get In Condition

By CHARLIE COANE

You'll ski better and cut down your chances of being hurt. Those, in a nutshell, are the two basic reasons to be in shape for skiing.

Maybe you can avoid falling when you catch an outside edge in a flat. Maybe you can make the turns necessary to navigate the West Face of KT-22 at Squaw, or maneuver with more confidence in powder. Or stop or turn hard to avoid a pitfall. It's not all just skiing ability, you know. That helps, of course, but being in shape will make you a stronger and better skier.

If you don't want to ski better and don't think you'll hurt yourself, in shape or out, look at it from an economic standpoint: you're spending lots of money for equipment, lift tickets, lessons, a place to stay. So why not get the most out of it? Are you going to need a two-hour lunch break because you're worn out from skiing all morning? Are you so stiff on the second day of skiing that maybe you'll turn over and sleep a few more hours when the alarm goes off at 7:30 a.m.? Do you have to waste ski vacation time trying to ski into shape?

You can certainly avoid much of this with a little effort. I'm not trying to make a Spider Sabich out of you, but rather trying to steer you into getting the most out of skiing.

Did you know that medical surveys have shown that 9 out of 10 skiers are either "not fit" or "overweight" when they strap on their skis? Now do you know where you stand? Checking your weight is easy. Checking your fitness is not so easy, but you know in your heart . . .

Remember, you're not skiing at sea level, you're skiing mainly between 6,000 to 10,000 feet in California. So you and your heart have to work harder. The air density is less up there and there's less oxygen. So your heart works overtime. In short, you will tire more easily. A car performs better at sea level than at 8,000 feet and so do you. The same theory applies in track. Race times in endurance events are always slower at higher altitudes.

So, Mr. and Ms. skier, if you're huffing and puffing at sea level, you'll be really gasping on the top of the hill.

I'm not going to go into the various methods of getting or keeping in shape. You can seek that out in books, courses, etc. If you don't do anything else — running, jogging and walking (and I don't mean a stroll around the block) is a good basic effort. Do something to make yourself breathe a little harder — maybe much harder. Set a goal. Skiing is right around the corner and the people in the mountains predict a big snowfall.

SKI NOTES: A huge benefit for the U.S. Ski Team, Ski Do '73, will be held tomorrow, 8 p.m., at 1000 Van Ness Avenue in San Francisco. Tickets are being sold at Macy's for $7.50. "Get Fit To Ski" classes have just begun at Reed School (1199 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon). Get in touch with Marin YMCA for details.

year veteran of the Dodgers' organization, called to ask if the job was still open.

"It's difficult to explain why I picked Ozark," Owens said, dodging questions that something had to have eliminated Bristol.

The new manager sized up the Phillies with the critical observation the team was "very lax in fundamentals."

"They're throwing the wrong pitches, not hitting behind the runners. They don't get on base enough," he said.

"They have to get rid of their losing attitude. You have to instill these things in spring training. You're going to see a difference in the '73 Phillies," he promised.

Ozark, who coached the last five years at third base for Los Angeles, said a bright spot on his new team appeared to be the pitching, which he termed "real strong."

next two years and I hope for as long as he wants," Short said.

The Texas owner said Herzog was one of about 30 former major league managers, coaches and players —most of whom Short said he interviewed personally —who applied for the Rangers post.

Short praised Herzog as a patient man who works well with younger players —a necessary trait in his new job because the Rangers are one of the youngest teams in the majors.

"He developed one of the most formidable minor league system in baseball," Short said of Herzog. "I would like to have hired him the day I received it (his application.)

"I had a good job," the new Texas manager said. "It paid well and the Mets are a heckuva organization. But everybody who was ever a player wants to manage in the big leagues.

"I think I'm going to be a capable manager," Herzog said. "So much of baseball is handling young players —not just pushing buttons and asking decisions. We're going to be teaching and trying to improve young ballplayers."

over the Terra Linda team, and won by default over San Marin. Terra Linda also scored a win by default. The top finisher in the meet was Redwood's Ned Overand, finishing in 13:35, bettering the old course record of 14:02. Gary Lathrop of San Marin earned second place, just behind Overand, with a time of 13:37. In third place was Redwood's Tom Phelps, 14:05.

In action at San Marin, Redwood's frosh-soph team defeated Terra Linda, 15-50.

At Tamalpais yesterday, Tam scored two victories, 27-30 over San Rafael, and 16-44 over Novato, to give Tam a final season mark of 9-3. At that same meet, San Rafael scored an 18-38 win over Novato, to put the Bulldogs at 9-3 also.

Brian Woodhouse of San Rafael took first place in the Tamalpais meet, clocking 16:01. Steve Locey (16:10) of Tamalpais took second and Kian McCarthy (16:15), also of Tam, captured third.

The Marin County Athletic League cross country meet is scheduled Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Bon Tempe Lake course near Fairfax. All league high school teams are scheduled to compete, with the winners going on to the Division III meet Nov. 9 at Dan Foley Park in Vallejo, and those winners going on to the North Coast finals in Lafayette on Nov. 15.

mitments made by Finley to the players."

Kuhn and Finley have frequently been at odds since the wealthy Chicago insurance man brought new and revolutionary ideas to baseball. Kuhn objected to Finley's introduction of white shoes to baseball uniforms.

Then, he aroused the Oakland owner's ire when he interceded in the holdout earlier this year of A's star pitcher Vida Blue.

Finley objected, voicing such strong opposition that Kuhn fined him $500 on Aug. 5.

PREP NOTES

Planty Of Fretting In Football Race

By LEW CODDINGTON

There will be considerable fretting and gnashing of teeth the next two weeks, as the Marin County Athletic League's three chief rivals battle for the football championship.

They're through playing each other, and everybody came up even. Early in the year, Novato beat Terra Linda, 15-14, on a last-minute field goal by Craig Johnson. Later, Terra Linda suffocated Redwood in the mud, 19-6. Redwood rebounded by beating Novato, 20-14, last week.

This turn of events has breathed life into the entire league. Teams out of contention, bound to close their seasons in weariness and obscurity, now can assume the role of "spoiler."

(Actually, there is no such thing as a team out of contention, technically speaking. Nobody has been mathematically eliminated yet. Should underdogs win all the games these last two weeks, everybody will be tied at 3-3.)

A few weeks ago, it looked like unbeaten Novato was in the driver's seat. Now, the Hornets face the toughest remaining schedule — San Rafael, the league's leading offensive team, and San Marin, bitter crosstown rival. The two foes have a combined league record of 4-6.

A few weeks ago, it looked like Terra Linda was dead. The Trojans were 0-3 on the year, beaten by Novato, and due to face then-undefeated San Marin and Redwood. But Terra Linda pulled itself together, knocked those two from the unbeaten ranks, and vaulted back into contention.

Now, Terra Linda and Redwood face the easiest remaining schedule — Tamalpais and Drake, combined record of 2-6. Easiest, but not easy, because who knows what will happen for 48 minutes on a certain night?

Not only has nobody established superiority yet, but nobody has really established momentum. The longest winning streak of a contender is two by Redwood — tough, one-touchdown wins over San Marin and Novato.

Terra Linda has beaten three straight league teams, but lost last week to non-league foe Monta Vista of Cupertino, 28-0. Novato has rediscovered its offense with 553 yards in the last two games, but must rebound from the defeat.

It should be interesting. Of seven teams, three are contenders and the other four will play contenders. Interesting, indeed.

The remaining schedule:

Novato

Sat., Nov. 4 at San Rafael, 8 p.m.

Sat., Nov. 11 San Marin, 1 p.m.

Durkee Is Activated

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Placekicker Charlie Durkee was activated Wednesday by the New Orleans Saints. Toni Linhart, who was activated two weeks ago when Durkee injured his thumb, went back to the taxi squad.

Redwood

Sat., Nov. 4 Tamalpais, 1 p.m.

Sat., Nov. 11 drake, 1 p.m.

Terra Linda

Fri., Nov. 3 Drake*, 8 p.m.

Sat., Nov. 11 Tamalpais*, 8 p.m.

*at San Rafael

CIPHERS — Not only is Novato's junior varsity football team unbeaten at 6-0, reports coach Jerry Colletto, but nobody has scored against the first-string defense.

ATTITUDE — Dave Steele started at quarterback last week for San Rafael, but it was no slam against former starter Lance Loughlin, coach Bob Muster reported. Quite the opposite. Since San Rafael is out of contention this year and Steele is a junior, Muster is laying next year's groundwork. "I explained all this to Lance, and he understands," said the coach. "Lance is one of the most dedicated players we've had here."

FASHION — Since Drake High's colors are green and white, you may be wondering why the players' pants are gray. It's because the players and coaches decided at the start of the year that white was too drab, and had the pants dyed, explains coach Bob Franceschini.

The helmets are gold, so let's have a cheer for the green and white and gray and gold (and Red Brown).

Petaluma Harriers Win Title

Petaluma High School won its second straight North Bay League cross country title in Vallejo yesterday, with four Trojans in the top ten. The Trojans scored 33 points to second place Napa's 60.

In other southern Sonoma cross country action, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park hosted the Sonoma County League meet and finished second with 53 points, behind Piner of Santa Rosa with 44.

Petaluma won as expected, but the defending individual champion from Petaluma, Jon Sisler, was beaten by Montgomery of Santa Rosa's Steve Rickert, the only runner to beat Sisler in two years. Rickett ran a 15:08 over the hilly three-mile course at Dan Foley Park, and Sisler was clocked in 15:13.

NBL Cross Country Finals at Dan Foley Park

Petaluma 33, Napa 60, Montgomery 93, Santa Rosa 119, Ukiah 125, Vintage 154, Hogan 167, Vallejo*.

Petaluma Faces Grid Obstacle

Petaluma High School, which was the "dark horse" at the outset of the season, is leading the North Bay League football race by one length going into the home stretch, but the Trojans face a potential hazard to their championship dreams Saturday night in Santa Rosa.

In other local high school football action this weekend, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park entertains Analy of Sebastopol in a Sonoma County League game at Durst Field in Petaluma tomorrow, 8 p.m., Tomales hosts Kelseyville in a North Central League II clash Saturday, 2 p.m., and St. Vincent plays visiting NCL II foe Upper Lake at Durst Field, 8 p.m.

Petaluma is now 5-0 in league, one game ahead of preseason pick Ukiah, which was upset by Vallejo last weekend. The Trojans face a Santa Rosa High team on Bailey Field at 8 p.m. which has compiled a 2-3 record after an opening game upset over Vallejo.

The Panthers, who have a history of beating Petaluma, are one of the poorest defensive teams in the league, having leaked an average of 23 points per game.

ed me wonderfully. It was really great to go out there and play when the stands are full. I think it inspired me more."

Carlton's nearest rival for the Cy Young honor was Steve Blass of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who had 35 points. Blass was followed in the voting by Chicago's Ferguson Jenkins, Montreal's Dave Marshall, Cincinnati's Gary Nolan and Clay Carroll, New York's Tom Seaver, Los Angeles' Don Sutton, St. Louis' Bob Gibson and Chicago's Milt Pappas.

Among Carlton's other achievements this year was his incredible 15-game winning streak and the fact that he lost only 10 games for the light-hitting Phils, who managed a meager 16 runs for him in all his losses. Carlton's victories represented 46 per cent of Philadelphia's 59 wins this season.

USF Grid Stars To Be Honored

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— University of San Francisco grid immortals Ollie Matson and Gino Marchetti will be honored at a dinner Nov. 10.

Matson, a running back, and Marchetti, a defensive end, both graduated from USF in 1952. They both were recently inducted into the National Football League Hall of Fame.

Both men have confirmed they will be present for the event.

2 Chicago Players Top All-Star Picks

Combined AP & UPI

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs and Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday were named Player of the Year in their respective leagues by the Sporting News.

The magazine's players poll, basis of the selections, also made a winner of Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies as the National League's Pitcher of the Year. Wilbur Wood of the White Sox won that honor in the American League.

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Eagles added former San Francisco 49er defensive back Kermit Alexander to their roster, but lost reserve tackle Richard Stevens with a knee injury.

Tennis

GOTEBORG, Sweden — John Newcombe, the No. 1 seed from Australia, beat American Dick Stockton, in the second round of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament, 7-6, 6-7, 6-1.

Basketball

SEATTLE — Seattle Supersonics general manager Bob Houbregs has announced that five-year pro cage veteran George Lehmann had been signed to a one-year contract with the Club.

Lehmann, a 6-foot-3, 180-pound guard from Campbell College in North Carolina, began his pro basketball career in 1967 with St. Louis of the National Basketball Association and then jumped to the Los Angeles Stars.

General

STILLWATER, Okla. — The U.S. Wrestling Federation withdrew its support from the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The decision was voted by the federation's governing council and announced Wednesday by Myron Roderick, exeuctive director. Similar action was announced last week by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

The wrestling federation also urged Congress to speed an investigation of USOC policies and practices.

Roderick said the Olympic committee "and its subcommittee on wrestling are puppets of the Amateur Athletic Union and have been for years."

PHILADELPHIA — Amateur Athletic Union president John B. Kelly Jr., charged Wednesday that Walter Byers, head of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is attempting to control American participation in international athletics.

Calling Byers a "tryant" with an" insatiable appetite for power," Kelly charged the NCAA violated the 1968 Kheel Commission guidelines recommended by the U.S. Senate. He asked for a congressional investigation of the NCAA.

No Brotherly Love When Upshaws Meet

Alameda, Calif., (UPI)— There won't be much brotherly love exchanged Sunday between defensive end Marvin Upshaw of Kansas City and guard Gene Upshaw of the Oakland Raiders.

"I don't feel much emotion about playing against my brother," said Marvin. "Gene will have his hands full with Buck (Buchanan) and I know I will with (Bob) Brown."

Marvin Upshaw will try to penetrate the blocking of Raider tackle Brown while Gene will be spending most of the afternoon in Kansas City trying to blunt the charge of Buchanan.

"Buck's the best I play against ... better than Bob Lilly, better than any of them," said Gene. "He's got to be the best."

Kansas City, at 4-3, trials the Raiders (4-2-1) by half a game at the halfway point in the schedule. The Chiefs will be trying for their first home victory of the season.

"This is always our most physical game of the year," aid Gene Upshaw.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The Banana Ball

By LEE TREVINO

Nobody hits a straight ball all the time. But the shot that's retired more clubs to the attic is the slice.

In Scotland, those people clap for a hook even if it lands in the Firth of Forth. But slice a ball up for a gimmie birdie and they'll sit on their hands.

Guys ask me to help them shake a slice. I recommend the slice — with a little planning. It'll save shots that a hook will bury. There are lots of ways to stop a slice, and none of them are easy.

Hips, hands, feet, shoulders, legs — so many things cause a slice. I advise anyone to let his pro watch him swing, then follow his advice.

Usually a firm grip, straight left arm and closed stance — left foot advanced a few inches ahead of the right — will straighten out a slice. But if a pro could write a recipe to cure a slice, he'd be rich.

The man who shoots the best score allows for his slice or hook. The fairway ain't gonna move. If you can't lose a slice, start the ball to the left. Give it some curving room. I guarantee it'll find less trouble than a hook. It ain't pretty, but ol' ugly beats ol' cusswords.

Judge Modifies Wells Probation

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers went about getting acquainted with controversial Warren Wells today after the former Oakland Raiders receiver's probation was modified by a California judge.

Superior Court Judge William J. McGuiness modified Wells' probation in Oakland Wednesday stemming from a 1969 attempted rape conviction so he could leave the Alameda County area in California.

Wells wasted little time in boarding a plane for Texas. He was met at the airport Wednesday night by Oilers executive assistant Tom Williams and was to undergo a physical examination today.

If he passes the exam, he will be on Houston's 40-man roster for Sunday's game against Cleveland.

"We're glad we're going to get a look at him," Coach Bill Peterson said. "We feel like it's time he got another chance to play football."

While Judge McGuiness allowed the former Texas Southern star to leave the Oakland area, he said Alameda County Superior court would retain jurisdiction until the probation expired Jan. 13, 1975 and in the interim Texas parole authorities would supervise Wells.

McGuiness told Wells he had a "great opportunity" to rejoin major league football and wished him well. But he warned that if there were "any substantial noncompliance with the normal terms of probation" Wells would be returned to Alameda County.

The Oilers picked Wells up for the $100 waiver price last week but Wells' return to Texas had been delayed because McGuiness would not accept an oral report from Wells' probation officers as to his progress.

Hawaii Golfer In PGA Lead

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Hawaii's Larry Stubblefield holds a one-stroke lead over Mexico's Victor Regalado at the halfway point in the 106-hole annual Professional Golfer's Association qualifying tournament.

Stubblefield, 22, shot a sizzling 65 Wednesday for a 54-hole total of 213 at Silverado Country Club. His 65 was seven-under-par and left him three-under-par for the tournament at the end of three rounds.

Regalado lifted his total to 214 after carding an even-par 72 Wednesday. Novato's Ray Leach fired a 77 for a 230 total.

BATTLE OF HAVE-NOTS

Seals Bow To Islanders

OAKLAND (UPI)—In a game between have-nots, the New York Islanders proved they had a little something against the California Golden Seals.

With Germaine Gagnon leading the way with his first National Hockey League hat trick, the expansionist Islanders overwhelmed goalie Gilles Meloche and the Seals 6-2 before a sparse gathering of 2,189 Wednesday night.

It was the Islanders second victory of the season in nine games but still left them in last place in the NHL East. California occupies the same position in the NHL West with a 2-7-1 record.

Second-year forward Craig Patrick scored both Seals goals in the opening and closing period. They were his first and second goals of the season.

Coach-general manager Garry Young declined to blame any individual for the Seals poor showing. "When a goal is scored, it is the fault of everyone on the ice," he said.

"We discussed our mistakes in a team meeting after the game. I plan a tough workout Thursday to get the team ready for the Boston Bruins Friday night (at the Coliseum-Arena)."

Gagnon scored the first goal of the game when he went in one-on-one on Meloche and beat him in the upper lefthand corner of the net. His other two goals were scored in the final period, the last closing the scoring at 18:05.

Score by periods;

New York	2	1	3	—6
California	1	0	1	—2

First period—1. New York, Gagnon 3 (Hudson, Murray) 11:59. 2. California, Patrick 1 (unassisted) 16:30. 3. New York, Mair 2. (unassisted) 17:25. Penalties—New York 2, California 1.

Second period—4. New York, Blackburn 1 (Lefley, Marchinko) 9:25. Penalties—New York 1, California 1.

Third period—5. New York, Westfall 4 (Mair) 1:09. 6. New York, Gagnon 4 (Hudson, Mair) 4:03. 7. California, Patrick 2, (Boldirev, McKechnie) 12:14. 8. New York, Gagnon 5 (Harris) 18:05. Penalties—New York 2, California 1.

Shots on goal:

New York	11	5	13	—29
California	9	12	10	—31

Goaltenders: New York-Desjardins; California-Meloche.

Brodie Can Throw Away His Crutches

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran quarterback John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers can throw away his crutches but he won't return to the playing field until later this month, says the team physician.

D.T. Lloyd Milburn declined to predict the exact date of Brodie's return but said he was "coming along fine" after an ankle injury earlier this season.

"He can discard his crutches today," Dr. Milburn said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, reserve quarterback Steve Spurrier, who directed last Sunday's 49-14 win over Atlanta, credited the 49ers offensive front wall for his three touchdown pass performance. "The line gave me time to pass and the receivers were wide open. All I had to do was throw the ball," Spurrier said.

Spurrier said he had no complaints that "90 per cent of the plays" against Atlanta came from the coaching staff.

"None of the guys argue when plays come in from the bench, he said, "They just go to work."

Milburn said he expects center Forrest Blue to be ready for San Francisco's game against the Green Bay Packers after suffering a knee injury in the Atlanta game.

The 49ers are 3-3-1 for the season and one game behind Western Division leader Los Angeles in the standings.

Parnelli Race Team Triumphs

LA PAZ, Mexico (UPI) — Indianapolis 500 driver Parnelli Jones and co-driver Bill Stroppe captured the tough Mexican 1,000 off-road race for the second consecutive year today.

Jones, of Rolling Hills, Calif., and Stroppe, of Long Beach, Calif., completed the 912-mile grind down the rugged Baja California peninsula in 16 hours, 47 minutes, 35 seconds.

Their time in the race from Mexicali near the U.S. border to La Paz would have been about 45 minutes faster if they hadn't run out of gas 24 miles from the finish line after a refueling foulup.

The pair, driving a specially-built Ford Oly Bronco, crossed the finish line at 1:49 A.M.

Pet Center, Specializing In Birds, Opens Tomorrow In Redhill Center

Redhill Pet Center, specializing in birds, tropical fish and animal grooming, will open tomorrow at Redhill Shopping Center in San Anselmo.

Owners are Thomas P. and Jo Ann Burns of Lagunitas and John W. and Kathleen Smith of Terra Linda, who have been raising and showing great danes and German wirehaired pointers for six years. Sales manager will be Bob DeWitt of San Francisco, a specialist in birds and fish. Mrs. Burns has worked in pet shops in Marin for the past seven years.

The Redhill Pet Center will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week through Christmas. It took over space formerly occupied by the Boneshaker Bicycle Shop. Chris Beck of Grubb and Ellis negotiated the lease.

Perring Mercy

Adams Strauss

ROBERT G. PERRING of Sausalito has been named president of Wells Fargo Investment Co., an affiliate of Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco.

Perring joined Wells Fargo in 1965 with six years of banking experience. He was named vice president and general manager of the investment company when it was formed in 1968. As president, he succeeds Leonard Marks Jr., who resigned from the bank to become executive vice president-finance of Castle and Cooke Inc., San Francisco.

HOSPITAL CORP. of America-West, headquartered in the Holiday Plaza Building in Terra Linda, has expanded its jurisdiction to seven Western states. A wholly owned subsidiary of Hospital Corp. of America, it operates Ross General in Marin, Ukiah General, Palm Drive Hospital in Sebastopol and others from Portland to Los Angels.

C. George Mercy of Novato is president and chief executive officer of HCA-West. Other executives are Leo H. Strauss of San Rafael, senior vice president and a director; and H.E. (Bud) Adams of Novato, assistant vice president of operations and a director.

Hospital Corp. of America has more than 7,000 beds in operation in 12 states, and 13 more hospitals and additions currently under construction.

A NEW PAY'N SAVE store will open tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Washington Square Shopping Center in Petaluma, with ribbon-cutting led by Mayor Helen Putnam and company representatives. The Petaluma Senior High School band will perform and prizes will be awarded all day.

Douglas Metzler, who has been with the company for nine years, will manage the store, which is the 55th chain. Daniel McCarthy, former owner of McCarthy's Drugs, will be head pharmacist. The store will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. except Sunday, when hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

TWO GRAY HILLS, a new store dealing in American Indian jewelry from the Southwest, will open in the West End area of San Rafael about the middle of this month. It is located at 1560 Fourth Street, on the second floor above Mother's fine apparel shop.

Two Gray Hills will be operated by Morton Sweet and Linda Barrish, both of San Anselmo, who have been dealing in Indian jewelry for about two years. The wall of the new shop will be decorated with large murals depicting scenes from the Southwest. The artist is Paul Greenwald of San Rafael.

The Mother's store downstairs, which opened in June, is owned by Stephen Fromkes of San Anselmo and Joseph Winters of Larkspur. They sell custom leather clothing and men's and women's apparel.

INVESTMENTS will be discussed in a series of four weekly seminars starting Wednesday, Nov. 8, at Western Title Guaranty Co., Second and A streets in San Rafael. The seminars are open to the public.

Speakers will be B.D. Schulz, San Rafael real estate broker, and David J. Grabtree, loan broker and co-author of "How To Make Money Safely — Second Deeds of Trust." The first seminar on Nov. 8 will be from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

GRAF VAN and Storage has taken over the former Sam's Van and Storage Co. at 174 Paul Drive in Northgate Industrial Park.

New owner is Duane Graf of Novato, who has 12 years of experience in the field, the last seven years as manager of Sam's Van and Storage. Graf bought the business from Sam Fugate, who pulled out of San Rafael to concentrate on his main office in Oakland.

Graf Van and Storage provides local, long distance and worldwide moving of household goods. The company gives free estimates. It is an agent for Republic Van Lines of Los Angeles and Baltimore.

TWO MARIN FIRMS won recognition from the American Advertising Federation for the "Best in the West" direct mail advertising in 1972. Marin Mental Health Foundation, which runs Ross Psychiatric Center, won first place among organizations with a small budget. The advertising piece for Marin Mental Health Foundation was created by Blum Associates of San Anselmo.

Blum Associates also swept the fund-raising field in the major direct mail campaigns. First three places went to advertising produced by Blum for California Alumni Foundation, WNET Television of New York, and KCET Television of Los Angeles.

LUKENS AND RICHARDSON law firms has opened its office at 1550 Tiburon Boulevard on the Tiburon Boardwalk.

Principals are Charles M. Richardson Jr. of San Anselmo and William M. Lukens of Tiburon, previously associated with the San Francisco law firm of Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro.

NOVATO DATSUN Inc., the second Datsun auto agency in Marin, is in full operation at 1010 Grant Avenue in Novato, where the Auto Fair was formerly located. (The Auto Fair, now called San Rafael American, has moved to Third and Lincoln in San Rafael).

Novato Datsun is owned by S. Joseph Allegra of Novato, who has been in the automobile business for 27 years. He started with the old Nash cars in 1945, then Buick in San Francisco and Volkswagen in Oakland where he worked until May of this year. Allegra has lived in Marin since 1949.

His staff includes Mrs. Anita Simmons of Novato, business vanager; Joseph Kesler of Lucas Valley, who was with Volkswagen and Buick for about 29 years; Carlo Alioto of Santa Rosa, about 20 years with Toyota and Pontiac; and Lawrence Boulware of Oakland, service manager, who plans to move to Novato.

The other Datsun dealer in Marin is Annex Motors on Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael.

JOHN HYAMS of San Rafael was appointed division manager in the Burlingame area for Channing Co., Inc., one of the nation's largest mutual fund sales firms.

Hyams joined Channing after serving as manager director of another large mutual fund sales firm and as a partner in an insurance company, both in San Rafael. A native of London, he served with the Royal Air Force in North Africa and the Mediterranean from 1940 to 1946.

DETECTS COUNTERFEITS

A new gadget called Counterspy can instantly spot counterfeit bills that are almost impossible to detect with the human eye, according to its producers, Althea Products of Valinda, Los Angeles County. The unit is designed for countertop or cash register mounting and sells for about $25. Althea spokesmen said the best counterfeiters cannot duplicate the special paper used by the government in making currency. This difference in paper led to the development of Counterspy.

Long-Range Growth Is Seen For Shipbuilder

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 600 shares of Seatrain Lines (NYSE) at an average cost of 9⅝. What should I do with these shares? — T.M.

A. Seatrain's comparatively recent entry into shipbuilding has upgraded the profit potential for these speculative shares. The company's construction facility at the Brooklyn Navy Yard is one of the most advanced in the industry.

With the exception of erecting the hull, all labor may be done indoors. The yard is presently working on three 225,000-ton oil supertankers.

The $172 million contract is 43 per cent government subsidized. Domestic shipbuilding is making a comeback as a result of government subsidies and low-interest loans.

Dollar devaluation has effectively reduced the competitive edge long enjoyed by foreign yards. These factors coupled with the growing natural gas shortage point to a more profitable future for U.S. shipbuilders.

Unfortunately, Seatrain's immediate outlook is clouded by its major areas of operation, chartered and containerized shipping. Overcapacity on the North Atlantic trade routes will probably abate gradually.

Seatrain has introduced an innovative land-bridge container service capable of cutting six days shipping time to the West Coast. Costs involved in initiating this service were reflected in he 46 cents-a-share deficit incurred for the fiscal year ended June 1972.

In addition, a 30 cents-a-share loss was reported on noncollectible notes received from the sale of vessels. Keeping in mind the negative aspects, shares, nevertheless, have long-range growth potential and should be held.

Market Up In Day's Early Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Trading was moderately active today as the stock market moved higher.

Advancing issues dominated declines, 777 to 495, among the 1,635 issues on the tape. The two-hour volume came to 8,700,000 shares compared to 8,950,000 shares for the same period on Wednesday.

Wall Street observers said the market's gain during the past two sessions has not been sparked by any particular news, but rather by a general feeling President Nixon will be re-elected and the economy will be strong in 1973.

In the economic news, wholesale prices dropped last month for the first time in a year.

American Telephone and Telegraph was the most active issue, gaining 1-4 to 48 5-8 on 249,100 shares, including a block trade of 199,900 shares at 48½, up ⅛.

Prices were slightly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Lincoln American was the most active Amex issue, gaining 7-8 to 4 3-4 on 118,900 shares, including a block of 110,700 shares at 4, up 1-8.

On the Big Board, brokerage house stocks were gainers. Reynolds Securities gained 1 3-4, and Merrill Lynch and Bache 5-8 apiece.

Quake Insurance Rates Dropped

I-J Special Report

LONG GROVE, Ill. — A 30 per cent reduction of earthquake insurance rates for California homeowners insured by the Kemper Insurance Group has been announced by Robert F. Ballus, West Coast division-manager.

The reduction will provide earthquake protection at rates 30 per cent lower than standard rates, in all areas of California except Imperial Valley, where a 10 per cent reduction will be implemented.

Ballas said that a 25,000 earthquake insurance on a home in either the Los Angeles or San Francisco area which used to cost $50 per year will now cost $35. The same coverage in central California, Sacramento and Fresno was $40 per year. It will now be reduced to $28.

DO YOU REMEMBER

. . .when 29,000 acres of S.F. Bay tidelands were in jeopardy because defense funds were cut from the State budget?

In 1972, Bill Bagley's AB-1479 changed that — and appropriated $166,000 to pay for extended title litigation.

AN OLD SWINGER FADES AWAY

Fireman Robert Hamilton paints a new rear door at San Rafael's main fire station near city hall, its battered and vintage predecessor resting in foreground. According to Walker Vaning, a retired veteran of the department, the old door was installed in 1917. Yesterday it showed the signs of battering caused by backing fire trucks inside the station, and had been bolstered through the years with braces and other supports.

Study Is Proposed For An Underground Freeway

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A study of a largely underground freeway linking Golden Gate Bridge and downtown San Francisco and removal of the elevated Embarcadero Freeway was proposed today by the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

The new freeway would carry both express bus lanes and conventional traffic, thus possibly qualifying for 100 per cent federal funding, the chamber said in a press statement.

Such a link would eliminate through traffic from city streets and encourage the use of public transit, the chamber said.

A similar long-range plan has been drafted by the Golden Gate Bridge District. Its costs would be some $330 million.

The chamber said the new freeway should tie in with existing and future freeway ramps south of Market Street, and should be limited to the capacity of the bridge "so it will not encourage more cares to come downtown."

The study should be done by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission in cooperation with San Francisco, the state and bridge district, the chamber said.

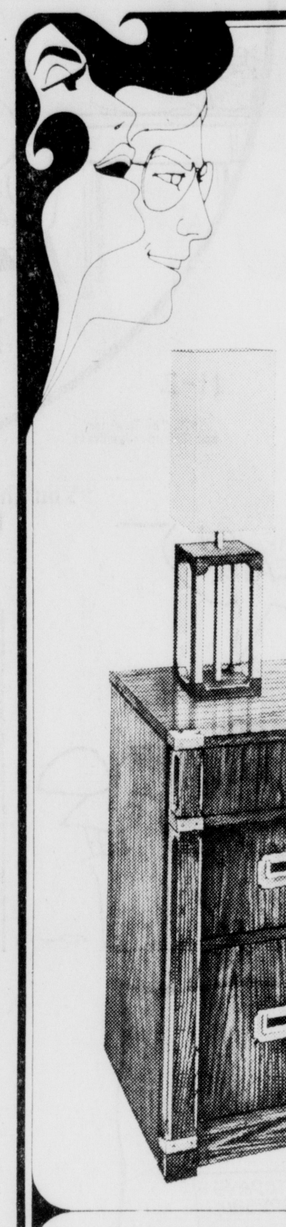

Canada has an estimated 15 per cent of the world's surface fresh water.

Protest Over Honeywell Team

STANFORD (UPI) —Two recruiters from Honeywell Corp. were confronted by a handful of faculty protesters today as they entered a Stanford University building to conduct job interviews.

The faculty members were protesting Honeywell's manufacture of war material.

There were no incidents, campus police said.

Tax Relief? Or Tax Hoax? Vote No on Prop. 14

WHO BENEFITS MOST FROM PROPOSITION 14?

Corporations and large real estate investors would receive the lion's share of tax relief since they pay 70% of the State's property tax.

DOES PROPOSITION 14 GUARANTEE TAX RELIEF?

No. Every Californian would have to pay a 40% higher sales tax and additional consumer taxes to subsidize relief given to business and income-producing property. Despite these increased consumer taxes, we would still face a 1.23 billion dollar deficit in the State budget.

WHO SUFFERS MOST FROM PROPOSITION 14?

The public school child. Proposition 14 would deprive us of $375 per pupil per year.

WHAT WOULD A CUT OF THIS MAGNITUDE DO TO QUALITY EDUCATION?

Classes would be swollen to the maximum sizes permitted by State law, resulting in less attention to the student's individual needs. Quality educational programs chosen by local voters would be cut.

CAN LOCAL CITIZENS DO ANYTHING TO REINSTATE PROGRAMS THAT WOULD BE CUT?

No. Proposition 14 denies residents the right to raise money to improve the limited programs possible under this Amendment.

WHO ELSE SUFFERS UNDER PROPOSITION 14?

Renters

- Proposition 14 provides tax relief to the landlord but provides no requirement that his tax savings be passed on to his tenant.

Senior Citizens

- These residents, many living on fixed incomes, will be forced to pay higher consumer taxes which will virtually eliminate any tax relief.

Property tax relief is urgently needed but Proposition 14 is the wrong way to achieve it. Proposition 14 will cure the disease but kill the patient. It will increase your taxes. It will reduce your community services while transferring control of those services to Sacramento

ARE CONSERVATION EFFORTS AFFECTED BY THIS AMENDMENT?

Yes. A ceiling on the property tax rate would subtly undermine environmentally sound land development plans.

HOW DOES THIS MEASURE AFFECT MARIN'S COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Proposition 14 provides no funds for local community colleges and denies the right of local residents to raise funds for this purpose.

HAS THE LEGISLATURE FAILED TO PROVIDE PROPERTY TAX RELIEF AS PROPONENTS CLAIM?

No, indeed! Since 1968 the Legislature has provided more than 500 million dollars in tax relief to homeowners, senior citizens, and businessmen (homeowners' $750 exemption, household furnishings exemption, senior citizens' homeowners' exemptions; businessmen's inventory exemption increase).

WHAT IS THE ALTERNATIVE TO PROPOSITION 14?

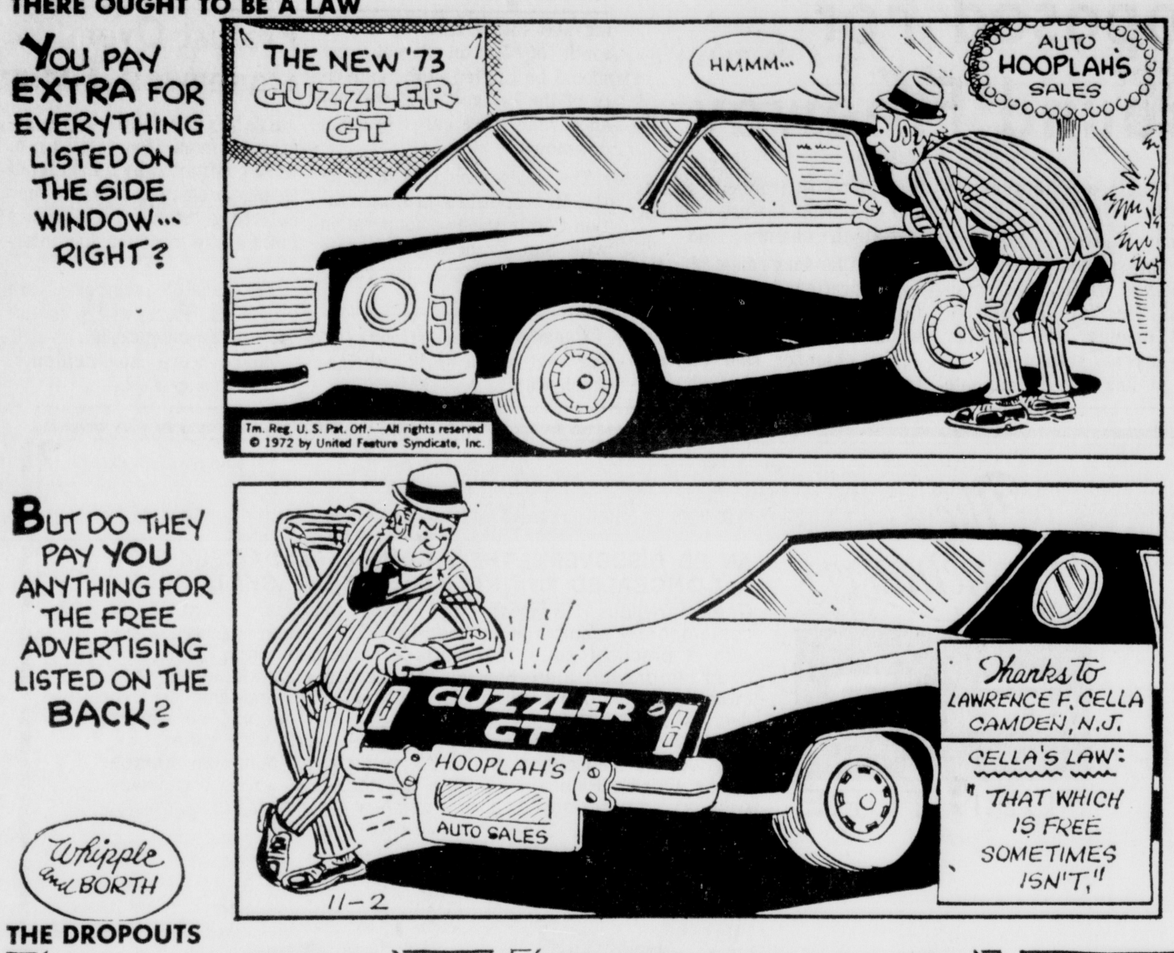

Several tax relief plans, all better conceived than Proposition 14, are before the current session of the Legislature.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Hail to the Chiefs! Yes, we celebrate two presidential birthdays today — one for a Democrat and the other for a Republican.

James K. Polk, a North Carolina boy, grew up to become the 11th president. An able young lawyer and orator, he was a friend of Andrew Jackson and was elected to Congress seven consecutive times. In 1848, on his birthday, he made this sad entry in his diary: "Upon each birthday I am solemnly impressed with the vanity and emptiness of worldly honors and . . . employments . . ." He died in office the next year at age 53.

Warren G. Harding, an Ohio physician's son, became the 29th president in 1921. A newspaper publisher, he was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1916 and won the presidency four years later as the Republican nominee. His administration was marked by isolationism and the infamous Tea Pot Dome scandal. To restore public confidence, Harding went on a western speaking tour in 1923, took ill in Seattle and died a few days later in a San Francisco hotel. Cause of death: unknown.

Other Famous Birthdays

1. Burt Lancaster, Hollywood actor, celebrates his 59th birthday today. He has just returned from Vienna, where he completed his newest film, "Scorpio." He won an Academy Award in "Elmer Gantry." Right?

2. Ken Rosewall, tennis champion, is 38 today. He turned pro in the early 1950s after taking the U.S. singles championship, beating — Tony Trabert, Jack Kramer, or Lew Hoad?

3. Marie Antoinette was born on Nov. 2, 1755, in Vienna. She and her husband, King Louis XVI, were beheaded in the French Revolution. What was it she said the starving peasants should eat if they had no bread — raspberries, the King's deer, or cake?

ANSWERS

1. Right.
2. Lew Hoad.
3. Cake.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Avoid Wasting High Cards In Attempting A Finesse

You can sometimes lead a high card to begin a finesse. The idea is to hold the lead with that high card if it isn't covered. However, you can't always afford to spare the high card for this purpose.

LOSES FINESSE

West opened the five of hearts, and South lost the finesse to East's king. A heart return fround dummy winning with the ace.

South needed four spade tricks to make his contract and therefore had to hope that East held the king of spades. The question was whether to lead the ten of spades from dummy for the first finesse.

This would be the correct play if dummy had no further entry. Declarer would hope to hold the first trick in dummy with the ten of spades and thus be in position to take a second finesse. If East covered, South would have to rely on finding three spades in each hand. His own last spade would then become established.

ANOTHER ENTRY

In this case, dummy had another entry, the ace of diamonds. Hence South didn't have to rely on a 3-3 break in spades. He could afford to lead a low spade from dummy for the first finesse.

He won the first finesse with the queen, returned to dummy with the ace of diamonds and led another low spade for a second finesse. This time East was obliged to play the king. South took the ace, led a spade to dummy's ten and later took a fourth spade trick with the jack. This was all he needed for his contract.

THE BAD SPADE

South would go down if he led the ten of spades from the dummy. East would cover with the king, and South would make only his own three high spades.

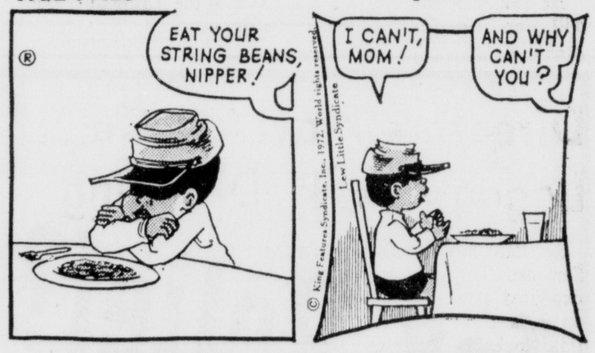

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - K 7
♡ - K 10 8
♦ - Q J 3 2
♣ - Q J 9 4.
What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass.

You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid, but in this case you should opt to pass. Avoid opening a borderline aceless hand.

Credit Card Fraud Admitted

A 24-year-old San Francisco woman has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to using a credit card fraudulently at a San Rafael store.

Mary Ann Correia admitted the violation before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on condition she will receive no more than 90 days in jail. Sentencing was scheduled for Dec. 11.

She was arrested July 28 at the Music Box in the Northgate shopping center when she tried to use a credit card stolen in a San Francisco burglary.

EASY RIDER

Mishan the pooch rides along in a pack fashioned from an old pair of jeans by his master, Steve Smithers of Forest Grove, Ore. Smithers, an unemployed musician, said Mishan is a professional dancer. The pair was looking for a ride Tuesday and — perhaps at the end of the ride — a job for the both of them. (UPI Telephoto)

Tam Board Agrees On Plan For Trails

The Tamalpais Park and Recreation Commission agreed last night to develop a master plan for a system of trails through Tamalpais Valley.

Chairman Robert Julin said the group decided more trails for hikers, bicyclists and equestrians are badly needed throughout the valley.

"For example, there is currently no safe way of walking along Shoreline Highway from Tam Junction," Julin said. "We need a trail there."

He said the commission also will plan trail systems in other areas of the valley, including pathways to provide access to Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

In a similar vein, the commission also agreed to ask developer Allan-Marin to construct a proper trail in place of one in his Marinview subdivision which was washed out during recent rains.

"We plan to ask county officials and developers to insure that these paths which are dedicated for public use are put in properly before they are turned over to the Tamalpais Community Services District," Julin said.

Directors May Act On Lagoon Lock, Dredging

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District directors are expected to act within a week on bids for construction of a tidal lock and dredging at the community lagoon.

Bids on the projects were higher than expected when they were opened Monday, according to Betty L. Zoeller, district secretary.

Duncanson-Harrelson Co. of Oakland was low bidder on the lock at $689,400 and Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco was low bidder on dredging at $242,350.

Directors had expected the lock would cost about $400,000 and the dredging about $240,000. Last January, voters approved a $700,000 bond measure to finance the projects, designed to reduce silting of the lagoon.

States To Do It Themselves

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Labor Department reported today that most states will operate their own occupational safety and health programs beginning next year.

Assistant Labor Secretary George C. Guenther said that 19 states have already submitted plans and another 20 are expected to make proposals before Dec. 31.

Organized labor has opposed delegation of federal safety and health authority, alleging that the states will be less able to enforce the law that went into effect last April.

Militant Chicano Group Breaking Up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David Sanchez, 24, founder and "prime minister" of the Brown Berets, announced Wednesday that the militant Chicano group is breaking up.

Sanchez said more than half the organization's claimed 5,000 members are "involved with a dissolvement plan" and that he personally had resigned from all offices and the organization. The Brown Berets, in the forefront of the Chicano movement in the late 1960s, were destroyed by police harassment and infiltration, internal squabbles and "hippie-ism" among members, which ruined discipline, Sanchez said.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

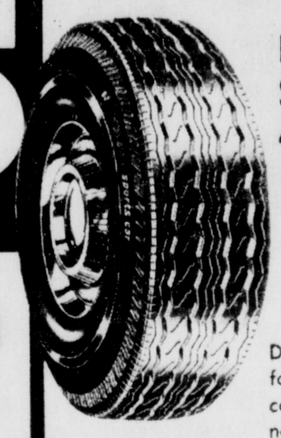

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
	Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

Revenue Sharing Plans Indefinite

Officials of Marin County and its 11 cities have not yet made any definite plans for spending the $1,760,010 they are supposed to receive soon under new federal revenue sharing legislation and, in some quarters, are even confused as to what plans they can make.

There is also concern from some officials that the legislation, rather than giving tax relief to local governments will be an exercise in taking money from one pocket and placing it in another.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said "rumblings from Washington" indicate the federal government may cut back its appropriations in some areas, such as welfare, and require the county to make up the difference.

A spokesman for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, said there is a common misunderstanding among local officials about the purpose of the revenue sharing bill. He said it gradually will replace existing federal aid programs to local government, a change designed to cut present red tape which confronts local government with long delays in getting tax revenues.

Barrows said his office will urge the board of supervisors not to commit the funds until budget hearings next June when he expects a clearer picture of state and federal requirements concerning the county's $1.2 million share.

When President Nixon signed the revenue sharing bill which will send $30.2 billion to 38,000 states, counties and cities, he said he envisioned the money would be used in different ways in various localities.

"Revenue sharing will give the hard pressed governments the dollars they need so badly. But, just as importantly, it will given them the freedom they need to use those dollars as effectively as possible," the president said.

He added he thought some communities would use the money to lower tax rates but that others might choose to build schools or hospitals, hire more police, or provide recreational or public transportation improvements.

The first checks from the U.S. Treasury are to be mailed this week with a second payment in January.

Nowhere in Marin, however, nor neighboring Southern Sonoma has a decision been made as to how to spend the money. A summary of the situation:

MARIN COUNTY — County Administrator Barrows will recommend against committing the $1.2 million county share until next June. Marin's five supervisors, however, said they will seek to reduce the tax rate.

SAN RAFAEL — The money may help bail the city out of this year's deficit spending situation or may be used for specific projects, according to Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser. San Rafael will receive $171,560.

SAN ANSELMO — The San Anselmo Council, which will receive $68,277 for the city, has not taken action because of a lack of understanding of whether there are limitations on how the money can be spent. "Several councilmen have suggested setting the money aside for tax relief or using it to help finance a new public safety building," Mayor Warren R. Perry said.

FAIRFAX — Fairfax officials have suggested using their $36,747 for open space acquisition, helping finance a new fire station or setting it aside into a fund for special projects, according to City Adm. Robert E. Crowe. He lamented that some counties are getting $10 per capita while Marin is only receiving $4 per person, probably due to a high level of income, he said.

NOVATO — Mayor Wayne Sartain said the city council has protested Novato's share — $115,000 — but no adjustment has been made. He said he hoped the money could be used for lowering taxes but feared it would be cut by reduction in other federal funds.

SAUSALITO — City Mgr. Albert R. Cyr said Sausalito will receive $23,000 but city officials have not decided what to do with the money. He thought the amount was not definite because he said the state is still trying to decide on a formula.

MILL VALLEY — Councilman Robert E. Burton as suggested that city's $48,082 share be spent on landscaping and street lighting but no discussion of the matter has taken place.

TIBURON — The city council has received a memorandum from City Mgr. Bert W. Balmer recommending the money be spent on capital projects rather than tax relief but the council has not discussed the subject.

BELVEDERE — The council has learned the city will receive $9,656 but has not discussed the matter.

ROSS — Mayor Frederick S. Allen said there was no way for the city council to reduce taxes this year with Ross's $10,187 share but added, "We'll find something good to do with it though."

LARKSPUR — City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said Larkspur's $38,961 check will go into a reserve fund "with the idea of some function in next year's budget appropriations."

CORTE MADERA — Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said, "We haven't discussed what to do with the money ($39,850); however, when I attended the International City Management meeting in Minneapolis last month it was made very clear that the funds were not to be used for replacement of normal budgets. It seemed clear that it was meant to be a supplemental fund . . ."

PETALUMA — Petaluma expects to receive $241,000 from the plan but the city council has agreed to delay a decision on how to spend it until a five-year financial projection is prepared. The council has generally agreed the funds will be used for capital projects rather than for general maintenance and operations.

ROHNERT PARK — The city has been allotted $34,000, which drew protests from the city council since smaller cities in Sonoma County received larger amounts. Mayor Arthur B. Roberts said he hopes the money will go into the general fund and perhaps be used to hire additional police and firemen as the city grows.

COTATI — Cotati will receive no funds from the program, according to City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen. He said the city failed to qualify under regulations for disbursing the money.

Theft Suspect Bound Over

Judy Soga, 19, of Woodacre, yesterday has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges stemming from jewelry found in her purse which police said was stolen.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ordered her to appear Nov. 15 on felony counts of burglary and concealing stolen property.

Miss Soga was arrested Oct. 13 by San Anselmo police on an outstanding traffic warrant, but the more serious allegations were added after jewelry allegedly stolen two days before in the $1,555 burglary of a San Anselmo home was found during a search at the jail.

Court Date Set In Theft Case

Donald Gilbert Kennedy, 29, of San Rafael has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a burglary charge filed after a shopkeeper found him crouching behind a desk and held him for police.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ordered Kennedy to appear in the higher court Nov. 15.

San Rafael police said Kennedy was arrested Oct. 14 at the R and J beauty salon, 1440 Fourth Street. Police said they found no one when they checked the shop, but owner Courtney Cole recalled them 35 minutes later to take Kennedy away.

Cole held Kennedy at bay with a hammer until police returned, according to the police report.

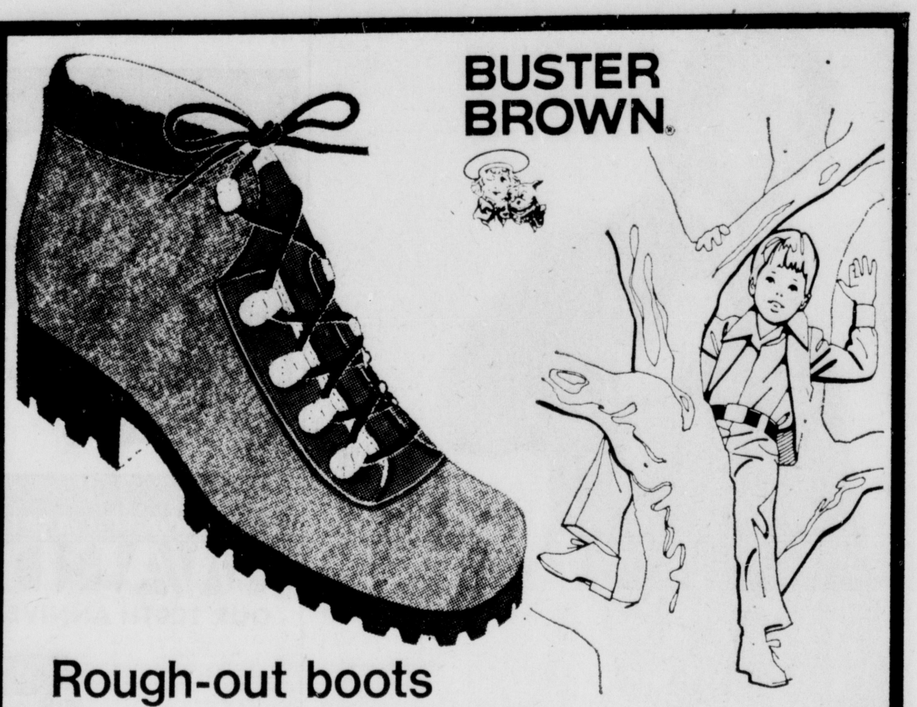

One Treat Wasn't Enough

MENLO PARK (UPI) —A woman who treated a half dozen teen-aged Halloween tricksters was stabbed Tuesday night when she turned them down on a second visit.

Mrs. Wayne Peters suffered a three-inch stab wound in a brief scuffle when the teen-agers forced their way into her house.

She told police the youths came to her door twice. The first time she treated them and the second time she objected and scuffle and stabbing followed.

The youths fled after the incident.
